Progressives Hold U. S. And Russia Liable For Peace

Conclave Ends After Skirmish Over Platform

Wallace And Taylor To Carry New Party Banner Into Election

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, July 25 (AP)—America's boisterous new Progressive Party wound up its convention tonight by boosting Henry Wallace on to a platform that says Russia and the United States share "joint responsibility" for avoiding war.

The newly-created, newly-named party ended its first convention as it began—on a note of song.

The convention's lengthy Sunday session added a few planks to the platform and picked permanent officers for the party.

For its presidential candidate the party has Henry A. Wallace. Its vice presidential nominee is Sen. Glen Taylor, of Idaho.

The two accepted in speeches last night.

Then today, delegates piled back into Convention Hall to adopt a 7,000-word platform.

But by the time they finished the chore, a count showed only 351 of some 3,240 delegates and alternates still on the floor. And in the galleries 187 onlookers stayed with them.

Accepting the recommendation of its nominations committee, the convention elected Elmer Benson, former Minnesota Governor, as chairman of the new party's national committee.

Baldwin Retains Job

C. B. Baldwin, Wallace's campaign manager, got the job permanently along with that of party secretary.

Paul Robeson, negro singer, and Albert J. Fitzgerald, chairman of the convention, were chosen co-chairmen.

For treasurer of its governing body, the convention named Clark Foreman, chairman of the Southern Conference for Human Welfare.

Vice Chraimen named included Mrs. Eleanor Gimbel, New York; Fred W. Stover, Hampton, Iowa, who nominated Wallace; Alvin Jones, 27-year-old negro law student from Baton Rouge, La., and Jerry O'Connell former Congressman from Montana.

Delegates didn't rivet the platform together without a battle over Russian foreign policy.

They settled it by crushing a proposal from a scrappy but weak minority that the platform declared:

"Although we are critical of the foreign policy of the United States, it is not our intention to give blanket endorsement to the foreign policy of any nation."

A Vermonter protested in vain that the party is endorsing Soviet foreign policy "100 per cent."

It strung along with an Indiana delegate's views that the defeated amendment would be "an insinuation against a friendly ally."

Maryland Progressives Seek To Censor Mencken

CONVENTION HALL, Philadelphia, July 25 (AP) — The Maryland delegation to the new Progressive Party convention proposed in a resolution today that H. L. Mencken, Baltimore Sun writer, be censored for his reporting of convention events.

Convention Chairman Albert J. Fitzgerald announced the gathering would not act on the resolution. He said he thought there might be "too many" such motions.

Harold Buchman, state director of the Maryland Progressive Party, prepared a resolution in which he charged that Mencken had made "Hitlerite references to the people of this convention."

Congress To Convene Today; Truman Works On Message

REUNION-- Mrs. Anna May Lemons, 73, and her son, Raymond, 55, who she thought had drowned in the Mississippi River 50 years ago, are pictured after their reunion at his home in Los Angeles. He recently discovered she formerly worked for the Bureau of Internal Revenue in Oklahoma City, Okla., and wrote to her here. Their reunion followed.

American Federation Of Labor Demands $1 An Hour Minimum Pay

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP) — President Truman virtually completed work today on the rough draft of his anti-inflation message to Congress, which convenes tomorrow.

He returned to Washington in the afternoon from a weekend cruise on the Potomac River with his principal aides and top speech writers.

From the serenity of that cruise Mr. Truman turned to the troubled waters of politics and diplomacy.

The President will appear personally at 11:30 a. m. EST Tuesday before the Republican-controlled Congress he has described as the "worst," save one, in United States history.

From this Congress he apparently will ask authority to control prices on meat and other key commodities, certain rationing powers, completion by the House of action on the Senate-passed long range housing bill, enactment of his civil rights program, etc.

Some of the President's close advisers said he probably would not act for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act at the extra session. The legislation was passed over his veto and there is little prospect of getting the same Congress to take it off the law books.

Another measure President Truman long has advocated—universal training—also likely will be sidetracked.

The question of raising the basic minimum wage level is one of the subjects he is expected to touch upon, along with anti-inflation measures.

The American Federation of Labor today said that a boost in the minimum wage warrants prompt congressional action.

Through its political adjunct, labor's League for Political Education, it called for raising the present minimum wage from 40 cents to $1 an hour.

The CIO has called for an immediate minimum of 75 cents an hour, with increases by labor-management committees up to $1 an hour.

President Truman has endorsed the 75-cent figure.

Sen. J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Committee suggested meanwhile that if the Republican Party wants to back up some of its pledges, it should do something about the wage level.

"Has a Republican tried living on $16 a week in the Republican inflation?" he asked in a statement.

The President called Congress back in the expressed hope of getting enacted some legislation which he says was brushed aside recklessly when the lawmakers quit in order to attend the presidential nominating conventions which named Gov. Thomas E. Dewey the Republican candidate and Mr. Truman the Democratic standard bearer.

He has already said he wants price controls, a long range housing bill, repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, increase in the minimum wage, federal aid to education, extension of social security coverage, a national health program, civil rights legislation, broadening of the public power program, revision of displaced persons legislation, approval of the international wheat agreement and a $65,000,000 loan for a United Nations headquarters in New York.

Republican leaders have predicted privately they expect the session to last no longer than a month and to produce little. They called the presidential summons for Congress to come back "pure politics."

CHANGE IN PROGRAM-- Motor boat races subbed for a scheduled baseball game at Chanute, Kan., yesterday after 10 feet of flood water covered the diamond. The scoreboard sits atop the rightfield fence, which is nine feet high—on dry days. Heavy rains sent rivers and creeks out of their banks thro ughout Central and Southeastern Kansas.

Production Lags Behind Demand, Survey Reveals

No Early Hope For More Even Balance

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The big inflation trouble, the Commerce Department said today, is that buying demand has been growing while production has stood still.

And there's no early hope, the department said, of production striking a more even balance with demand.

Basing its remarks on a new survey of current business, the department said most industries have been operating at "maximum levels consistent with available facilities and supplies of materials, particularly of steel." It added:

"In those areas where there is leeway for further expansion, such as in cotton textiles, current requirements of business and consumers have generally served as the basis for steady operations in the recent period.

Shoe Output Drops

"One of the few exceptions is shoes, where output has moved downward."

The department's views were aired as President Truman's close aides worked on the anti-inflation program Mr. Truman is to deliver to Congress personally Tuesday.

The President himself has hinted that the program will try getting demand into closer balance with produced supplies of some goods by cutting down on buying through rationing, an accompaniment to price control.

The Commerce Department saw demand pressures growing as "consumer income, already bolstered by lower withholding taxes, has been further advanced by important wage awards that also exerted price pressure through their effects on costs."

Personal Income Boosted

It said wage settlements negotiated in June and July will give a further boost to personal income from the annual rate of $208,000,000,000 recorded in May, last month for which figures have been obtained.

Further strength of demand also is being projected in government spending on exports and defense steps, while business concerns expect to maintain a high rate of spending on equipment and plants.

Despite rising prices, consumer buying registered a pickup in the April-June period that cut down stocks of goods that had been accumulating somewhat in the hands of retailers and wholesalers before then, the department said.

29 Killed In Crash Of Canadian Plane

Airliner On 50-Mile Flight Plows Into Mountain And Burns

RIMOUSKI, Quebec, July 25 (AP)—A chartered Rimouski Airlines plane crashed and burned in a fog-shrouded Gaspe Peninsula mohntain top Saturday night killing all 29 persons aboard. It was the worst disaster in Canada's aviation history.

Most of the passengers aboard the two-motor Dakota (DC-3) transport were lumberjacks bound for a holiday after working in forests on an island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Two married couples and a baby also were among the victims.

The accident occurred while the plane was making a 50-mile flight across the Gulf of St. Lawrence from Port Meunier on Anticosti Island to the town of Gaspe. The plane struck near Grande Greve, about 12 miles from its destination.

Two Bodies Identified

Ground parties reached the crash scene today. They said they were able to identify only the bodies of the pilot, Emerson E. Mills, and the co-pilot, Ross Miles.

An airlines pilot here said Miss Odette Ouellet, of Bic, Quebec, daughter of Wilfred Ouellet, a vice president of Rimouski Airlines, was known to have been aboard the plane.

The other 25 passengers were said to be lumberjacks coming home from the Anticosti woods for a holiday.

First reports indicated fog which rung low over the mountain tops caused the crash.

Only One Wing Found

A ground party said only one wing of the plane had been found. It could not be determined whether one wing fell off before the crash or whether it was shorn off as the plane ripped through the treetops.

When the aircraft failed to reach the Gaspe airport early last night, the search and rescue division of the Royal Canadian Air Force began a hunt. The plane was not spotted until this morning, however, when Ken Irwin, a Rimouski airlines pilot, saw the wreckage from the air.

Paul LaPointe, another pilot, said the bodies were being removed to the parish hall in Gaspe.

Second Daughter Of Ex-Jap Envoy Wed To American

TOKYO, July 25. (AP) — The second of Saburo Kurusu's daughters was married to an American today.

First Lt. William Maddox, 28, Washington, D. C., married Jaye Kurusu, 27 - year - old daughter of Japan's "peace envoy" who was negotiating in Washington at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack in 1941.

The bride's sister, Pia, 22, who was married last August 14 to former Lt. Frank White, was the bride's attendant. Maj. Gilbert W. King, Summit, N. J., was best man.

The Episcopalian ceremony was performed by Maj. Sidney R. Crumpton, chaplain of the First Calvary Division Artillery.

Finns And Czechs Receive U. S. Aid

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP) — American money will be spent in two Soviet neighbors—Findland and Czechoslovakia—to help get Western Germany back on its feet, it was disclosed today.

The Economic Co-operation Administration, announcing a new $18,902,479 foreign aid spending authorization, said the two countries will share in it.

Czechoslovakia will receive $400,000 for repairing freight cars for the United States-British zones of Germany. Finland will receive $448,000 for ground wood pulp to be sent to the same zone.

This is the first time that procurement authorizations have been approved for these countries, ECA officials said. They said the action was in line with the desire of ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman to encourage West - East European trade within the limits set by Congress. Congress wrote safeguards into the Marshall Plan designed to prevent war materials being shipped to countries behind the Russian "iron curtain."

Nine foreign nations, including Mexico, Brazil and Uruguay in the Western Hemisphere, will receive $13,725,000, or roughly 72 per cent, of the money earmarked for the new purchases. The remaining $5,177,478 is to be spent in the Unted States. The authorized purchases include wood pulp, hides, metals, machinery, equipment, foodstuffs and services.

Cominform-Yugo Youth Group Break Advised

BELGRADE, Yugoslovia, July 25 (AP)—Youth organizations of Cominform countries have been advised to sever all relations with the youth organization of Yugoslavia and to disband the Balkan Youth Council, Yugoslav Communists were told last night.

The announcement of this action came in a report by a delegate to the fifth congress of the Yugoslav Communist Party representing the strongly-organized Yugoslav youth.

The delegate said the "sanctions" against Yugoslav youth were caused by the Cominform accusations against Premier Marshal Tito and his leaders. He said the Cominform wished to break up the Balkan youth council on the grounds that it would "be used to provoke disorganization in the ranks of their youth."

Clay Says U. S. Willing But Not Under Duress

Direct Approach To Stalin Is Reported Planned By Allies

BERLIN, July 25 (AP)—America's top advisors on Russia and Germany met in this blockaded city tonight to map new moves in the Berlin crisis which seemed certain to result in a new Big Four conference.

Reports which could not be confirmed by official sources said President Truman, together with the chief of state for Britain and France, were planning a direct approach to Prime Minister Stalin.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor for Germany who just returned from Washington, indicated there had been a shift in the United States position on the Berlin issue bringing it into line with the British and French positions.

He said the United States is prepared to negotiate on all of Germany but "not under duress." By duress he referred to the Russian land blockade of Berlin. In their first note to Russia, the Western Powers expressed willingness to negotiate on Berlin only.

Following today's meeting of top-rank American diplomats from Washington, Moscow and London, Clay told a press conference:

1—The United States has "expressed nothing but willingness to participate in discussions on German problems, but not under duress."

2—That he thought the Russians had not committed themselves so far that they could not lift the Berlin land blockade.

3—That allied planes will continue to fly supplies to Berlin "no matter what happens in the (air) corridors."

Work On New Airport To Begin

4—That the United States would start construction work on a new Berlin airport tomorrow morning.

Clay said today's conference was "to exchange views and present a united front in all diplomatic negotiations."

After the conference, which lasted more than two hours, Ambassador Lewis Douglas from London, Ambassador W. Bedell Smith from Moscow, and Charles Bohlen, the State Department's Russian expert, left for the British capital.

The United States, Britain and France appeared to have agreed on accepting the Soviet demand for a new conference on all of Germany.

There was no optimism, however, that such a conference would solve the problem.

Clay said the conference was held in Berlin because of his illness. He is suffering from a lame back and neck which make it difficult for him to move.

There was speculation in Berlin today that a new Big Four foreign ministers' conference, or perhaps even a meeting of President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin, might be arranged in an effort to end the Berlin crisis.

The meeting of high-ranking United States officials in Russian-blockaded Berlin touched off the reports. There was no official comment on them.

Clay told newsmen he had discussed in Washington all phases of the Berlin situation and that he and Bohlen had filled in Smith Douglas on the official attitude in

FTC Calls For Curbs On Giant Corporations

WASHINGTON, July 25. (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission told Congress today that unless the steadily increasing power of the "giant corporations" is curbed the country will go "down the road to collectivism."

In a report to Congress made on its own initiative, the commission urged the law-makers to plug up "the loophole" in the Clayton Anti-Trust Act, passed in 1914.

It is "crucial," the commission said, that workable means be found to prevent "giant corporations from steadily increasing their power at the expense of small business."

Minister, Former Student Held On Morals Charge

ATLANTA, July 25. (AP) — A Baptist minister and an attractive former missionary student were held on a morals charge here today.

Police said the clergyman admitted leaving a newly-born child on a doorstep more than a year ago.

City Detectives M. W. Blackwell and Roy Pendley said the two are Rev. D. A. Martin, for 20 years a pastor in Greenville, S. C., and Miss Lois Chandler, 27-year-old brunette who once studied missionary work with him.

Atlanta police filed the charge after communicating with Greenville police, who had asked that the couple be held. They will be given a hearing in Recorders Court at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Huge Navy Plane Spans Continent

PATUXENT RIVER NAVAL AIR STATION, Md., July 25 (AP)—The Navy's largest airplane, the 92-ton Lockheed Constitution, landed here at 5:47 Eastern Standard Time today after a 2,600-mile flight from Moffett Field, Calif.

The average speed was about 260 miles per hour. Tailwinds ranging from 20 to 50 miles an hour helped push the 168-passenger giant across the country. The plane took off from the naval air station at Moffett Field at 7:28 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

It was the first time the Constitution had landed outside of California although it has made about 150 test flights.

The plane is the largest ever to visit the East and is exceeded in size only by the Air Force's B-36 and its cargo version, the C-99, which weigh about 136 tons.

Mystery Of Huge Flame-Spurting Plane Deepens

Hunter, Housewife Saw Bright Light

ATLANTA, July 25 (AP) — An Atlanta hunter told today of observing a strange light in the sky early Saturday at about the same time that two eastern Airlines pilots reported seeing a wingless mystery plane.

J. V. Morris said that he and a friend, Lindsay Fall, were hunting near Covington, Ga., 30 miles southeast of Atlanta, about 3 a. m. Saturday when they saw "an unusually bright light—as bright as a lighted room."

Morris said it seemed to be speeding westward and disappeared in a few seconds.

Woman Sees Ball Of Fire

At Indianapolis, Ind., a housewife reported she and her son and daughter saw a similar flame-spurting aircraft Thursday night, more than 24 hours before it was seen here.

The Indianapolis woman, Mrs. Thomas L. Sayer, described it as a ball of fire which shot two jets of flame downward at regular intervals. She said she watched it about three minutes, after which it flared up, shot out streamers of flame and disappeared.

Mrs. Sayer said she did not mention the experience to anyone until after she read the EAL pilots' account.

Capt. C. S. Chiles, pilot of an EAL Houston-Atlanta plane, had reported that he and his co-pilot, John B. Whitted, saw a huge, wingless craft flying at very high speed near Montgomery, Ala., about 2:45 a. m.

The pilots described it as shooting fire from the tail and having a double bank of lighted windows.

Pilots' Story Confirmed In Part

Clarence L. McKelvie, Columbus, O., a passenger on the EAL plane, confirmed the pilots' story in part. He said he saw "a flash of cherry red fire" but that it did not appear to have a definite shape.

Various military and civilian agencies have denied any knowledge of such a plane.

Chiles and Whitted, however, stuck to their story in spite of skeptics. Preparing to leave on another round trip flight to Houston, Tex., they took along cameras in the hope of getting a chance to film the mystery craft.

Auto Liability Insurance Rates To Increase Today

BALTIMORE, July 25 (AP)—The State Department of Insurance said a majority of Maryland's automobile liability insurance firms will increase their rates an average of 15 to 30 per cent tomorrow.

In addition, because of the frequency of accidents involving young motorists, insurance officials said a higher rate classification has been established for 16 to 25-year-old drivers of private automobiles.

Arabs To Try Again

LAKE SUCCESS, July 25 (AP)—The Arabs will make another attempt this week to shelve the partition of Palestine.

The Security Council will take up Tuesday at 10 a. m. E.S.T. a proposal by Faris El Khouri, of Syria, that the council seek a ruling on Palestine from the International Court of Justice.

Bay Span Fund Parley

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 25 (AP)—Gov. Lane will meet with members of the State Roads Commission and the Highway Advisory Council tomorrow to discuss plans for borrowing about $36,000,000 for construction of the Chesapeake Bay bridge at Sandy Point, a State House spokesman said tonight.

Mrs. Patterson Rites To Be Held Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP) — A funeral service will be held here Tuesday for Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, who died of a heart attack yesterday.

Members of Mrs. Patterson's family said burial will be in the family plot at Graceland Cemetery, in Chicago, Wednesday. Both the funeral service in Washington and the burial service will be private. The exact hour of the funeral service and the details, were not announced.

Tito Willing To Maintain Trade Relations With U. S.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 25 (AP)—Culbert L. Olson, former Governor of California, said tonight Premier-Marshal Tito told him today Yugoslavia is willing to maintain trade relations with the United States.

Olson said Tito told him one condition for such agreements would be that there were no political ties to them.

The former Democratic Governor interviewed Tito for an hour. He said he was here on a "strictly personal trip" and expects to leave tomorrow for Prague, Czechoslovakia.

During a talk with Foreign Minister Ales Bebler, Olson said, he mentioned that he would like to talk with Tito. The interview was granted during the Congress of the Yugoslav Communist Party. That Tito granted the American an interview during such a busy time surprised not only Olson, but foreign diplomats here.

Bebler was present during the interview and served as interpreter.

Olson said he asked Tito why Yugoslavia had little trade with the western democracies, including the United States. Tito replied that the western nations had not made it possible.

"On what conditions would you deal with America?" Olson asked.

"We would be very glad to have trade relations with America on the condition there would be no political conditions," Tito replied.

Tito emphasized that Yugoslavia would not accept any political interference, but was ready to deal on a strictly business basis. Olson said Tito did not mention specific commodities.

Tito also told the Californian he was confident the Yugoslavs were right in the current split between the Cominform and the Yugoslav Communist Party.

Olson quoted Tito as saying he believed the Cominform countries eventually would admit that the Yugoslavs were right.

16 Jet Planes Complete Transatlantic Journey

FUERSTENFELDBRUCK, Germany, July 25 (AP)—Sixteen United States jet fighter planes roared into Germany today, completing a 5,060-mile flight from Selfridge, Mich., in only 12 hours and 10 minutes actual flying time. They were fully equipped.

The detachment was led by Lt. Col. D. S. Schilling, Kansas City, Mo., United States Air Force ace in World War II. The planes sat down at this former Nazi air base for several weeks of training.

The last leg of the journey, from Odiham, Eng., was a 600-mile jaunt negotiated in an hour and 20 minutes.

Another 75 jet fighters will be shipped here from the United States soon, said Col. Malcolm Stewart, base commander at Fuerstenfeldbruck. His installation has been so expanded recently that he aims to take care of an average of 82 jet fighters and some B-29 bombers.

A throng of a thousand United States Army Air Corps personnel and Germans greeted the Lockheed Shooting Stars as they buzzed the field at tremendous speed.

Brig. Gen. James Powell, special representative of the United States Army Air Force at Wiesbaden, joined Stewart to meet the 16 pilots.

They opened the base to German newsmen and photographers and dropped the usual security rules. Stewart frankly said it was for the propaganda effect on the German population.

Schilling's was the first plane down. He said the entire flight was generally without incident. The jets cruised at an average of 450 miles an hour.

As an old conventional propeller-type fighter pilot, Schilling commented "the difference between the P-40 and the jet P-80 is the same difference as between a model T Ford and a Cadillac."

Direct Approach To Stalin Is Reported Planned By Allies

BERLIN, July 25 (AP)—America's top advisors on Russia and Germany met in this blockaded city tonight to map new moves in the Berlin crisis which seemed certain to result in a new Big Four conference.

Reports which could not be confirmed by official sources said President Truman, together with the chief of state for Britain and France, were planning a direct approach to Prime Minister Stalin.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay, United States military governor for Germany who just returned from Washington, indicated there had been a shift in the United States position on the Berlin issue bringing it into line with the British and French positions.

He said the United States is prepared to negotiate on all of Germany but "not under duress." By duress he referred to the Russian land blockade of Berlin. In their first note to Russia, the Western Powers expressed willingness to negotiate on Berlin only.

Following today's meeting of top-rank American diplomats from Washington, Moscow and London, Clay told a press conference:

1—The United States has "expressed nothing but willingness to participate in discussions on German problems, but not under duress."

2—That he thought the Russians had not committed themselves so far that they could not lift the Berlin land blockade.

3—That allied planes will continue to fly supplies to Berlin "no matter what happens in the (air) corridors."

Work On New Airport To Begin

4—That the United States would start construction work on a new Berlin airport tomorrow morning.

Clay said today's conference was "to exchange views and present a united front in all diplomatic negotiations."

After the conference, which lasted more than two hours, Ambassador Lewis Douglas from London, Ambassador W. Bedell Smith from Moscow, and Charles Bohlen, the State Department's Russian expert, left for the British capital.

The United States, Britain and France appeared to have agreed on accepting the Soviet demand for a new conference on all of Germany.

There was no optimism, however, that such a conference would solve the problem.

Clay said the conference was held in Berlin because of his illness. He is suffering from a lame back and neck which make it difficult for him to move.

There was speculation in Berlin today that a new Big Four foreign ministers' conference, or perhaps even a meeting of President Truman and Prime Minister Stalin, might be arranged in an effort to end the Berlin crisis.

The meeting of high-ranking United States officials in Russian-blockaded Berlin touched off the reports. There was no official comment on them.

Clay told newsmen he had discussed in Washington all phases of the Berlin situation and that he and Bohlen had filled in Smith Douglas on the official attitude in

Minister, Former Student Held On Morals Charge

ATLANTA, July 25. (AP) — A Baptist minister and an attractive former missionary student were held on a morals charge here today.

Police said the clergyman admitted leaving a newly-born child on a doorstep more than a year ago.

City Detectives M. W. Blackwell and Roy Pendley said the two are Rev. D. A. Martin, for 20 years a pastor in Greenville, S. C., and Miss Lois Chandler, 27-year-old brunette who once studied missionary work with him.

Atlanta police filed the charge after communicating with Greenville police, who had asked that the couple be held. They will be given a hearing in Recorders Court at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Huge Navy Plane Spans Continent

PATUXENT RIVER NAVAL AIR STATION, Md., July 25 (AP)—The Navy's largest airplane, the 92-ton Lockheed Constitution, landed here at 5:47 Eastern Standard Time today after a 2,600-mile flight from Moffett Field, Calif.

The average speed was about 260 miles per hour. Tailwinds ranging from 20 to 50 miles an hour helped push the 168-passenger giant across the country. The plane took off from the naval air station at Moffett Field at 7:28 a. m. Eastern Standard Time.

It was the first time the Constitution had landed outside of California although it has made about 150 test flights.

The plane is the largest ever to visit the East and is exceeded in size only by the Air Force's B-36 and its cargo version, the C-99, which weigh about 136 tons.

Mystery Of Huge Flame-Spurting Plane Deepens

Hunter, Housewife Saw Bright Light

ATLANTA, July 25 (AP) — An Atlanta hunter told today of observing a strange light in the sky early Saturday at about the same time that two eastern Airlines pilots reported seeing a wingless mystery plane.

J. V. Morris said that he and a friend, Lindsay Fall, were hunting near Covington, Ga., 30 miles southeast of Atlanta, about 3 a. m. Saturday when they saw "an unusually bright light—as bright as a lighted room."

Morris said it seemed to be speeding westward and disappeared in a few seconds.

Woman Sees Ball Of Fire

At Indianapolis, Ind., a housewife reported she and her son and daughter saw a similar flame-spurting aircraft Thursday night, more than 24 hours before it was seen here.

The Indianapolis woman, Mrs. Thomas L. Sayer, described it as a ball of fire which shot two jets of flame downward at regular intervals. She said she watched it about three minutes, after which it flared up, shot out streamers of flame and disappeared.

Mrs. Sayer said she did not mention the experience to anyone until after she read the EAL pilots' account.

Capt. C. S. Chiles, pilot of an EAL Houston-Atlanta plane, had reported that he and his co-pilot, John B. Whitted, saw a huge, wingless craft flying at very high speed near Montgomery, Ala., about 2:45 a. m.

The pilots described it as shooting fire from the tail and having a double bank of lighted windows.

Pilots' Story Confirmed In Part

Clarence L. McKelvie, Columbus, O., a passenger on the EAL plane, confirmed the pilots' story in part. He said he saw "a flash of cherry red fire" but that it did not appear to have a definite shape.

Various military and civilian agencies have denied any knowledge of such a plane.

Chiles and Whitted, however, stuck to their story in spite of skeptics. Preparing to leave on another round trip flight to Houston, Tex., they took along cameras in the hope of getting a chance to film the mystery craft.

Mrs. Patterson Rites To Be Held Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP) — A funeral service will be held here Tuesday for Mrs. Eleanor Medill Patterson, publisher of the Washington Times-Herald, who died of a heart attack yesterday.

Members of Mrs. Patterson's family said burial will be in the family plot at Graceland Cemetery, in Chicago, Wednesday. Both the funeral service in Washington and the burial service will be private. The exact hour of the funeral service and the details, were not announced.

Production Lags Behind Demand, Survey Reveals

No Early Hope For More Even Balance

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP)—The big inflation trouble, the Commerce Department said today, is that buying demand has been growing while production has stood still.

And there's no early hope, the department said, of production striking a more even balance with demand.

Basing its remarks on a new survey of current business, the department said most industries have been operating at "maximum levels consistent with available facilities and supplies of materials, particularly of steel." It added:

"In those areas where there is leeway for further expansion, such as in cotton textiles, current requirements of business and consumers have generally served as the basis for steady operations in the recent period.

Shoe Output Drops

"One of the few exceptions is shoes, where output has moved downward."

The department's views were aired as President Truman's close aides worked on the anti-inflation program Mr. Truman is to deliver to Congress personally Tuesday.

The President himself has hinted that the program will try getting demand into closer balance with produced supplies of some goods by cutting down on buying through rationing, an accompaniment to price control.

The Commerce Department saw demand pressures growing as "consumer income, already bolstered by lower withholding taxes, has been further advanced by important wage awards that also exerted price pressure through their effects on costs."

Personal Income Boosted

It said wage settlements negotiated in June and July will give a further boost to personal income from the annual rate of $208,000,000,000 recorded in May, last month for which figures have been obtained.

Further strength of demand also is being projected in government spending on exports and defense steps, while business concerns expect to maintain a high rate of spending on equipment and plants.

Despite rising prices, consumer buying registered a pickup in the April-June period that cut down stocks of goods that had been accumulating somewhat in the hands of retailers and wholesalers before then, the department said.

Auto Liability Insurance Rates To Increase Today

BALTIMORE, July 25 (AP)—The State Department of Insurance said a majority of Maryland's automobile liability insurance firms will increase their rates an average of 15 to 30 per cent tomorrow.

In addition, because of the frequency of accidents involving young motorists, insurance officials said a higher rate classification has been established for 16 to 25-year-old drivers of private automobiles.

Arabs To Try Again

LAKE SUCCESS, July 25 (AP)—The Arabs will make another attempt this week to shelve the partition of Palestine.

The Security Council will take up Tuesday at 10 a. m. E.S.T. a proposal by Faris El Khouri, of Syria, that the council seek a ruling on Palestine from the International Court of Justice.

29 Killed In Crash Of Canadian Plane

Airliner On 50-Mile Flight Plows Into Mountain And Burns

RIMOUSKI, Quebec, July 25 (AP)—A chartered Rimouski Airlines plane crashed and burned in a fog-shrouded Gaspe Peninsula mohntain top Saturday night killing all 29 persons aboard. It was the worst disaster in Canada's aviation history.

Most of the passengers aboard the two-motor Dakota (DC-3) transport were lumberjacks bound for a holiday after working in forests on an island in the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Two married couples and a baby also were among the victims.

The accident occurred while the plane was making a 50-mile flight across the Gulf of St. Lawrence from Port Meunier on Anticosti Island to the town of Gaspe. The plane struck near Grande Greve, about 12 miles from its destination.

Two Bodies Identified

Ground parties reached the crash scene today. They said they were able to identify only the bodies of the pilot, Emerson E. Mills, and the co-pilot, Ross Miles.

An airlines pilot here said Miss Odette Ouellet, of Bic, Quebec, daughter of Wilfred Ouellet, a vice president of Rimouski Airlines, was known to have been aboard the plane.

The other 25 passengers were said to be lumberjacks coming home from the Anticosti woods for a holiday.

Only One Wing Found

A ground party said only one wing of the plane had been found. It could not be determined whether one wing fell off before the crash or whether it was shorn off as the plane ripped through the treetops.

When the aircraft failed to reach the Gaspe airport early last night, the search and rescue division of the Royal Canadian Air Force began a hunt. The plane was not spotted until this morning, however, when Ken Irwin, a Rimouski airlines pilot, saw the wreckage from the air.

Paul LaPointe, another pilot, said the bodies were being removed to the parish hall in Gaspe.

Second Daughter Of Ex-Jap Envoy Wed To American

TOKYO, July 25. (AP) — The second of Saburo Kurusu's daughters was married to an American today.

First Lt. William Maddox, 28, Washington, D. C., married Jaye Kurusu, 27-year-old daughter of Japan's "peace envoy" who was negotiating in Washington at the time of the Pearl Harbor attack in 1941.

The bride's sister, Pia, 22, who was married last August 14 to former Lt. Frank White, was the bride's attendant. Maj. Gilbert W. King, Summit, N. J., was best man.

The Episcopalian ceremony was performed by Maj. Sidney R. Crumpton, chaplain of the First Calvary Division Artillery.

Finns And Czechs Receive U. S. Aid

WASHINGTON, July 25 (AP) — American money will be spent in two Soviet neighbors—Findland and Czechoslovakia—to help get Western Germany back on its feet, it was disclosed today.

The Economic Co-operation Administration, announcing a new $18,902,479 foreign aid spending authorization, said the two countries will share in it.

Czechoslovakia will receive $400,000 for repairing freight cars for the United States-British zones of Germany. Finland will receive $448,000 for ground wood pulp to be sent to the same zone.

This is the first time that procurement authorizations have been approved for these countries, ECA officials said. They said the action was in line with the desire of ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman to encourage West-East European trade within the limits set by Congress. Congress wrote safeguards into the Marshall Plan designed to prevent war materials being shipped to countries behind the Russian "iron curtain."

Nine foreign nations, including Mexico, Brazil and Uruguay in the Western Hemisphere, will receive $13,725,000, or roughly 72 per cent, of the money earmarked for the new purchases. The remaining $5,177,478 is to be spent in the Unted States. The authorized purchases include wood pulp, hides, metals, machinery, equipment, foodstuffs and services.

Cominform-Yugo Youth Group Break Advised

BELGRADE, Yugoslovia, July 25 (AP)—Youth organizations of Cominform countries have been advised to sever all relations with the youth organization of Yugoslavia and to disband the Balkan Youth Council, Yugoslav Communists were told last night.

The announcement of this action came in a report by a delegate to the fifth congress of the Yugoslav Communist Party representing the strongly-organized Yugoslav youth.

The delegate said the "sanctions" against Yugoslav youth were caused by the Cominform accusations against Premier Marshal Tito and his leaders. He said the Cominform wished to break up the Balkan youth council on the grounds that it would "be used to provoke disorganization in the ranks of their youth."

Speedway Mishap

COLUMBUS, Ga., July 25 (AP)—A racing stock car suddenly went out of control, plunged through a guard fence and injured 16 spectators at the Columbus Speedway today.

Bay Span Fund Parley

ANNAPOLIS, Md., July 25 (AP)—Gov. Lane will meet with members of the State Roads Commission and the Highway Advisory Council tomorrow to discuss plans for borrowing about $36,000,000 for construction of the Chesapeake Bay bridge at Sandy Point, a State House spokesman said tonight.

FTC Calls For Curbs On Giant Corporations

WASHINGTON, July 25. (AP)—The Federal Trade Commission told Congress today that unless the steadily increasing power of the "giant corporations" is curbed the country will go "down the road to collectivism."

In a report to Congress made on its own initiative, the commission urged the law-makers to plug up "the loophole" in the Clayton Anti-Trust Act, passed in 1914.

It is "crucial," the commission said, that workable means be found to prevent "giant corporations from steadily increasing their power at the expense of small business."

Tito Willing To Maintain Trade Relations With U. S.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 25 (AP)—Culbert L. Olson, former Governor of California, said tonight Premier-Marshal Tito told him today Yugoslavia is willing to maintain trade relations with the United States.

Olson said Tito told him one condition for such agreements would be that there were no political ties to them.

The former Democratic Governor interviewed Tito for an hour. He said he was here on a "strictly personal trip" and expects to leave tomorrow for Prague, Czechoslovakia.

During a talk with Foreign Minister Ales Bebler, Olson said, he mentioned that he would like to talk with Tito. The interview was granted during the Congress of the Yugoslav Communist Party. That Tito granted the American an interview during such a busy time surprised not only Olson, but foreign diplomats here.

Bebler was present during the interview and served as interpreter.

Olson said he asked Tito why Yugoslavia had little trade with the western democracies, including the United States. Tito replied that the western nations had not made it possible.

"On what conditions would you deal with America?" Olson asked.

"We would be very glad to have trade relations with America on the condition there would be no political conditions," Tito replied.

Tito emphasized that Yugoslavia would not accept any political interference, but was ready to deal on a strictly business basis. Olson said Tito did not mention specific commodities.

Tito also told the Californian he was confident the Yugoslavs were right in the current split between the Cominform and the Yugoslav Communist Party.

Olson quoted Tito as saying he believed the Cominform countries eventually would admit that the Yugoslavs were right.

16 Jet Planes Complete Transatlantic Journey

FUERSTENFELDBRUCK, Germany, July 25 (AP)—Sixteen United States jet fighter planes roared into Germany today, completing a 5,060-mile flight from Selfridge, Mich., in only 12 hours and 10 minutes actual flying time. They were fully equipped.

The detachment was led by Lt. Col. D. S. Schilling, Kansas City, Mo., United States Air Force ace in World War II. The planes sat down at this former Nazi air base for several weeks of training.

The last leg of the journey, from Odiham, Eng., was a 600-mile jaunt negotiated in an hour and 20 minutes.

Another 75 jet fighters will be shipped here from the United States soon, said Col. Malcolm Stewart, base commander at Fuerstenfeldbruck. His installation has been so expanded recently that he aims to take care of an average of 82 jet fighters and some B-29 bombers.

A throng of a thousand United States Army Air Corps personnel and Germans greeted the Lockheed Shooting Stars as they buzzed the field at tremendous speed.

Brig. Gen. James Powell, special representative of the United States Army Air Force at Wiesbaden, joined Stewart to meet the 16 pilots.

They opened the base to German newsmen and photographers and dropped the usual security rules. Stewart frankly said it was for the propaganda effect on the German population.

Schilling's was the first plane down. He said the entire flight was generally without incident. The jets cruised at an average of 450 miles an hour.

As an old conventional propeller-type fighter pilot, Schilling commented "the difference between the P-40 and the jet P-80 is the same difference as between a model T Ford and a Cadillac."

Advice To The Lovelorn

Single And Lonely Woman Of 31 Has Failed To Find Friends

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX
Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A letter from a reader who describes herself as "a single woman of 31," and signs herself "One Who Has Given Up Hope," comes to tell me that my advice is no good; that the program I suggest to help lonely people find friends and have more fun simply doesn't work out.

"I want you to know that I have tried all the advice you have given in your column—joined church groups, the YWCA, tried to start a club myself, and even tried to become a nurse's aide—and it just doesn't work," she writes. "Here it is another weekend and I am still sitting home like a bump on a log, and expect I will be doing this forever. God help me, I hope not! If so, I'll most likely make use of the gas jet."

Now what you get out of any program, of course, depends to a very large extent upon what you're expecting. It also depends in no small degree upon what you put into it.

If this girl thought that by following my advice she would definitely land a husband, as she indicated in another part of her letter then she was expecting more than I promised. There is no program that anyone can devise that can be guaranteed as a husband-getter. The best that anyone can do is to suggest ways of enlarging a person's social horizon with the hope, but not by any means the certainty, that an eligible male may some time appear on the horizon.

The real point of doing things to increase your circle of acquaintances is to give yourself so many interests that you can be happy and have fun even though a husband may never come along. This is perfectly possible, whether my hopeless friend believes it or not. So, if my advice seems to have failed, perhaps "One Who Has Given Up Hope" was expecting more of it than I meant her to.

So much for that part of it.

Now for the second thing I mentioned, which is that for the program to succeed, a person must have assets of her own to bring to it. In other words, this girl should ask herself: What have I got, or what can I do, that will interest people enough so that they like to be with me? Has she a hobby in which she knows other people to be interested so that she could join a group devoted to pursuing that hobby? There are so many clubs today in every city and town—photography, bridge, handcrafts, painting, community service and lots of others—that it certainly should not be hard to find one in which she could take an active part. I rather suspect that my correspondent hasn't enough interests of her own to start with so that she is able to make points of contact wih others.

So I now make two other suggestions to her. First, that she overhaul her own abilities and skills and interests and see what she has that she could put to work for her in making friends. If she seems to have no such interests, then let her get busy and develop some right away. Second, I suggest that she go to some worker in that YWCA she has joined and tell her the whole story as she has told it to me. I feel perfectly confident that this worker could and would find something right in that YWCA that she herself has overlooked.

And one more thing. If this young woman would care to send me a stamped envelope bearing her name and address, I would be glad to mail her a list of books she should be able to get at her public library on personality development. Among them she should find one or more that will help her analyze herself, find out what is wrong, and how she can set about correcting it.

Dear Editor:

In the clothing closets of many American homes, there are tucked away in the summer the heavy clothing and shoes that the children wore last winter. Some of these will have been outgrown by fall. And some, in the warm months, will be destroyed by moths.

Yet for the lack of such clothing, hundreds of thousands of children will suffer, and many thousands will die of exposure next winter.

For the past sixteen years Save the Children Federation has been providing clothing and other necessities for many needy children in the disadvantaged rural areas of our own country, and in more recent years in Finland, Holland, France, Greece and Austria.

I hope that by publishing this letter, your readers will be inspired to send this used and outgrown clothing to us now for these needy children. It can be sent by parcel post or express prepaid to: Save the Children Federation, 8 Washington Place, New York, N. Y.

The clothing is needed now because time is required to sort, clean, repair and pack it so that it may get to its destination for the children by the time the cold weather comes.

Adult clothing also is welcome, for if parents are helped, the children are helped too.

With thanks, believe me to be,
Very sincerely yours,
JOHN R. VORIS,
President.

Baering Down On The News

My hat and toupee are off to the United Nations for getting tougher than a thirty-cent beefsteak dinner.

Many years ago I orchestrated the swan song of the League of Nations. That's because I saw its charter was the second generation of a cross-town transfer. Absolutely elapsed.

It had no more authority than a used tea-bag. The United Nations started out as a wing off the same bird. But somewhere it picked up some momentum and last week it buttered parsnips.

I don't care how much trouble it starts if it keeps the peace. I have seen two world wars and it's about time to let the feathers grow back on civilization.

"Hobo Basket" Fund Amounts To $500

Cumberland employes of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad contributed about $500 to Allegany County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis during the visit here of the "hobo basket" which has traveled over many of the nation's railroads in the interest of the fight against polio.

The basket, a replica of the railroad man's big lunch box of 30 years ago, which started on its 10,000 mile cross-country jaunt from Birmingham, Ala., last December, left here Saturday en route to Grafton and Parkersburg, W. Va., Chillicothe, O., and Cincinnati.

At Cincinnati it will be transferred to the Southern Railroad for the final leg of its return journey to Birmingham.

Employes of the Baltimore and Ohio's roundhouse, back shop, car department, bolt and forge shop, east and west yards, eastbound repair track, freight office and superintendent's office were solicited.

Officials of the county chapter said yesterday that half of the fund will be sent to the National Foundation for research and epidemic aid.

They pointed out that Allegany County was granted $2,750 last year from the National Foundation's epidemic aid fund to aid in caring for the 16 polio cases in the area last summer.

No strain, no pain on the bounding main

It's always "fair weather" when a good crew gets together.

The same thing applies to folks who share a telephone party line. Good party-line neighbors find it "smooth sailing" when they get together and agree to allow an interval between calls and to give up the line quickly when someone needs it in an emergency.

By replacing the receiver after each call, they "clear the deck" for incoming as well as outgoing calls.

If you're on a party line, please use it "sharingly." You'll help yourself to better telephone service.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Single And Lonely Woman Of 31 Has Failed To Find Friends

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

A letter from a reader who describes herself as "a single woman of 31," and signs herself "One Who Has Given Up Hope," comes to tell me that my advice is no good; that the program I suggest to help lonely people find friends and have more fun simply doesn't work out.

"I want you to know that I have tried all the advice you have given in your column—joined church groups, the YWCA, tried to start a club myself, and even tried to become a nurse's aide—and it just doesn't work," she writes. "Here it is another weekend and I am still sitting home like a bump on a log, and expect I will be doing this forever. God help me, I hope not! If so, I'll most likely make use of the gas jet."

Now what you get out of any program, of course, depends to a very large extent upon what you're expecting. It also depends in no small degree upon what you put into it.

If this girl thought that by following my advice she would definitely land a husband, as she indicated in another part of her letter then she was expecting more than I promised. There is no program that anyone can devise that can be guaranteed as a husband-getter. The best that anyone can do is to suggest ways of enlarging a person's social horizon with the hope, but not by any means the certainty, that an eligible male may some time appear on the horizon.

The real point of doing things to increase your circle of acquaintances is to give yourself so many interests that you can be happy and have fun even though a husband may never come along. This is perfectly possible, whether my hopeless friend believes it or not. So, if my advice seems to have failed, perhaps "One Who Has Given Up Hope" was expecting more of it than I meant her to.

So much for that part of it.

Now for the second thing I mentioned, which is that for the program to succeed, a person must have assets of her own to bring to it. In other words, this girl should ask herself: What have I got, or what can I do, that will interest people enough so that they like to be with me? Has she a hobby in which she knows other people to be interested so that she could join a group devoted to pursuing that hobby? There are so many clubs today in every city and town—photography, bridge, handcrafts, painting, community service and lots of others—that it certainly should not be hard to find one in which she could take an active part. I rather suspect that my correspondent hasn't enough interests of her own to start with so that she is able to make points of contact wih others.

So I now make two other suggestions to her. First, that she overhaul her own abilities and skills and interests and see what she has that she could put to work for her in making friends. If she seems to have no such interests, then let her get busy and develop some right away. Second, I suggest that she go to some worker in that YWCA she has joined and tell her the whole story as she has told it to me. I feel perfectly confident that this worker could and would find something right in that YWCA that she herself has overlooked.

And one more thing. If this young woman would care to send me a stamped envelope bearing her name and address, I would be glad to mail her a list of books she should be able to get at her public library on personality development. Among them she should find one or more that will help her analyze herself, find out what is wrong, and how she can set about correcting it.

Communications to The Cumberland News must contain name and address of the sender. We will withhold both on request.

Dear Editor:

In the clothing closets of many American homes, there are tucked away in the summer the heavy clothing and shoes that the children wore last winter. Some of these will have been outgrown by fall. And some, in the warm months, will be destroyed by moths.

Yet for the lack of such clothing, hundreds of thousands of children will suffer, and many thousands will die of exposure next winter.

For the past sixteen years Save the Children Federation has been providing clothing and other necessities for many needy children in the disadvantaged rural areas of our own country, and in more recent years in Finland, Holland, France, Greece and Austria.

I hope that by publishing this letter, your readers will be inspired to send this used and outgrown clothing to us now for these needy children. It can be sent by parcel post or express prepaid to: Save the Children Federation, 8 Washington Place, New York, N. Y.

The clothing is needed now because time is required to sort, clean, repair and pack it so that it may get to its destination for the children by the time the cold weather comes.

Adult clothing also is welcome, for if parents are helped, the children are helped too.

With thanks, believe me to be,
Very sincerely yours,
JOHN R. VORIS,
President.

Baering Down On The News

My hat and toupee are off to the United Nations for getting tougher than a thirty-cent beefsteak dinner.

Many years ago I orchestrated the swan song of the League of Nations. That's because I saw its charter was the second generation of a cross-town transfer. Absolutely elapsed.

It had no more authority than a used tea-bag. The United Nations started out as a wing off the same bird. But somewhere it picked up some momentum and last week it buttered parsnips.

I don't care how much trouble it starts if it keeps the peace. I have seen two world wars and it's about time to let the feathers grow back on civilization.

"Hobo Basket" Fund Amounts To $500

Cumberland employes of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad contributed about $500 to Allegany County Chapter of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis during the visit here of the "hobo basket" which has traveled over many of the nation's railroads in the interest of the fight against polio.

The basket, a replica of the railroad man's big lunch box of 30 years ago, which started on its 10,000 mile cross-country jaunt from Birmingham, Ala., last December, left here Saturday en route to Grafton and Parkersburg, W. Va., Chillicothe, O., and Cincinnati.

At Cincinnati it will be transferred to the Southern Railroad for the final leg of its return journey to Birmingham.

Employes of the Baltimore and Ohio's roundhouse, back shop, car department, bolt and forge shop, east and west yards, eastbound repair track, freight office and superintendent's office were solicited.

Officials of the county chapter said yesterday that half of the fund will be sent to the National Foundation for research and epidemic aid.

They pointed out that Allegany County was granted $2,750 last year from the National Foundation's epidemic aid fund to aid in caring for the 16 polio cases in the area last summer.

NOTICE TO INSURANCE BIDDERS

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I was walking up Broadway the other night when I felt a hand beating a paradiddle on my collarbone. It was Harry the Hat.

"Glad I ran into you," said the Broadway haberdasher. "Do you know anything about the Amazon?"

Billy Rose

"Which one," I asked, "the river, or Lois De Fee, the striptease?"

"The river," said Harry. "I'm leaving for Brazil next Saturday."

"Let's talk this over in my office," I said, steering him into Lindy's. "When a gent who runs a Broadway hat shop ventures south of Forty-second Street, it deserves columnar coverage."

As soon as we were seated, I began to ply Harry with questions and cherry cheesecake. "What's behind this expedition?" I said. "Are you going to bring back a wild Stetson alive or did you fall for that oldie about the beautiful white princess?"

"Neither," said the Hat. "I'm goin, to South America to look up an old friend. The last I heard he was living with a native tribe in the Tumuc-Humuc Mountains."

"Watch your talk," I said. "There are ladies in the next booth. Now, begin at the beginning."

"Well, the beginning," said Harry, "..s up at Columbia University where two fellows and I roomed together fifteen years ago. We became great pals—wore each other's neckties and talked big about going into business together when we finished college.

"Of course it didn't work out that way. One of the fellows—Mac—got a job selling insurance. I took over the hat shop when my uncle died, and Marty, the smartest of the trio, hooked up with an engineering outfit. A few years ago, his company got a contract to build a road over the Tumuc-Humuc Mountains and arty was sent down to supervise the job.

"Last Fall, Mac came into my store and handed me a copy of the National Georgraphic Magazine he had stolen from his dentist's office.

"'There's an article in it by Marty.' he said. 'When you read it, have a shot of whiskey handy.'

"That night I read the piece and it sure was a lulu. Marty told about the habits of the headhunters in the village where he was working, and how they would hollow out a head and put hot pebbles inside to make it shrivel up. He said he was getting along fine with these savages. When they weren't killing each other, they were quite congenial, fond of their children and always glad to lend a wife to a lonesome traveler.

"Marty seemed particularly impressed by the chief of the tribe, a fellow named Pujabima. This savage was a friendly sort of cuss and, within the limits of his environment, something of a scholar.

"Well, I read the article and forgot about it until a few weeks before Christmas when Mac dropped in to see me again. 'Let's send our old friend a silk topper,' he said. 'It's the one present Marty can't possibly use down there and he'll get a laugh when he opens the package.'

"'I'm not so sure he won't be able to use it,' I said. 'That chief he wrote about would probably love a silk topper.'

"That afternoon I had one of the clerks pack a high hat in a fancy box and ship it off to Brazil. When several months went by without an acknowledgement from Marty, I wrote and asked if the topper had reached him, and if it was the right size. Well, I finally got an answer, and that's why I'm sailing Saturday."

"I don't get it," I said. "Why so much fuss about a silk hat?"

"Maybe you'll understand when you read this letter," said Harry, handing me a piece of yellow paper.

"Dear Sir," it began. "On behalf of your friend, I am acknowledging receipt of the hat. You will be pleased to know it fits his head perfectly."

The letter was signed, "Pujabima."

"I still don't get it," I said. "If the chief says the hat fits Marty, what are you worried about?"

"Well," said the haberdasher, "I checked with the clerk who packed the hat ,and found that by mistake he sent one of those miniature toppers we use for window displays."

Just Between Us

He'll Head For The Woods If He Thinks You're After Him

By NANCY MOTTRAM

He smiles at you when he sees you, and once in a while he stops at your table in the corner drugstore to comment on the weather and so forth, but he doesn't ask for a date.

Nancy Mottram

You know he isn't "girl-shy" or going steady, so you wonder why he's never bothered to bring up the subject.

You've gotten a little impatient with this state of affairs, and decided that he needs some sort of push to get him to that point. So, you map out a campaign, and set out to wangle an invitation. You always "happen" to be passing the place where you know he and his buddies will be at a certain time—not once or twice, but regularly. You stop him on the slightest pretext, and then you're a human dynamo when it comes to the personality angle.

All this effort and no results. If anything, he's not as friendly as formerly, and it's you who starts all the conversations, or pounces when he comes within calling distance. He doesn't have to hope to run into you any more, or catch a glimpse of you—you're easily within sight every time he turns around. If he ever did have the budding notion of arranging for a weekend with you, it's been chased right out of his head.

He knows all this sudden attention on your part isnt pure coincidence. He also has a pretty good idea that you're viewing him as a prospective date ticket—and it isn't going over, at all. Since it's obvious to him, it hasn't escaped his pals' notice, either. And nothing can switch a boy from the idea of taking a girl out faster than being kidded about her interest in him by his best friends.

No matter how much you'd like to date the lad, it's much safer and by far the wisest course not to let the news travel by your "confidences." Those tidbits of gossip never stay private for long, and once the cat is out of the bag, your chances are practically nil. You might figure that if you're constantly in view you'll be first choice when he decides to get a date for a party next Friday, but it rarely works that way.

And never, never think it will help your cause to phone him on any small matter or enlist the aid of his closest friend to let you know the state of his feelings. He wants to be the one to do all the pursuing of the girl he'd like to date—not have it the other way around. It takes just the merest hint that a girl is out to catch him, and the boy will lose any idea he ever had of seeing her steadily.

Perhaps his casual friendliness is the first step in a program to get to know you better and then date you. It may take some time—but you have a lot to lose if you try to hasten his schedule. And it's much better to wait until he gets around to doing the asking, rather than risk ruining the whole project b being too far ahead of the game.

Six Face Disorderly Conduct Charges

Six persons face hearings on disorderly conduct charges this morning as the result of two disturbances in the Bowman's Addition section over the weekend.

Charged with throwing beer bottles at the home of Adeline Crowe are Keith Helmick, Bowman's addition, and Gilbert Folk and Robert Hott, both of Valley Road. A fourth man, William McMillan, 934 Gay Street, who police said was in the home at the time of the disturbance, was also arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

The second disturbance occurred at the home of George Roemer, where police said Bernard Weimer and Leroy Dicken, both of Bowman's Addition, appeared at 2:10 a. m. Saturday to request Roemer's son to go with them to "pick huckleberries."

Trooper G. M. Rotruck, who made the arrests, said the parties involved will be given hearings today.

If you have a school, family or friend problem, Nancy can help you. Letters are answered in this column.

Legion To Sponsor New City Band

Under the sponsorship of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, organization work for a new municipal band will get underway with Wilton H. Syckes selected as the director.

The unit is expected to be comprised of ex-servicemen and will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in the Legion home. Russell C. Paupe, general chairman of the Legion committee, said the unit is expected to become one of the city's leading marching and concert bands.

Halley's Comet will next be seen in 1986.

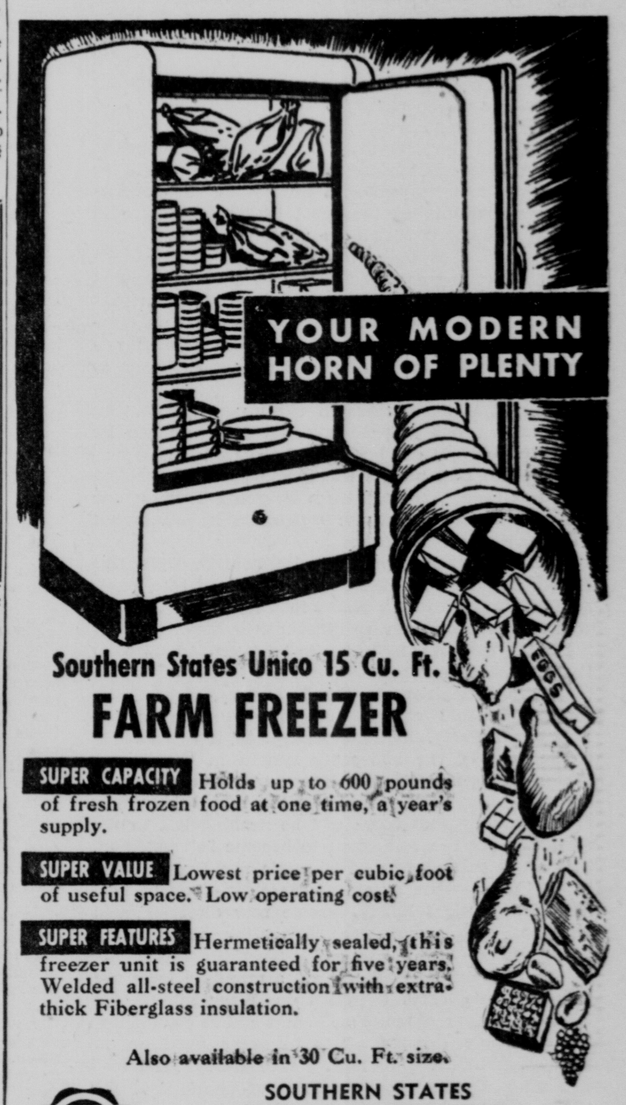

The progenitor of the Lee Swiss Straw hat was introduced in England in 1779 by Admiral Nelson, who made it the summer uniform hat for his crew.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Billy Rose

I was walking up Broadway the other night when I felt a hand beating a paradiddle on my collarbone. It was Harry the Hat.

"Glad I ran into you," said the Broadway haberdasher. "Do you know anything about the Amazon?"

"Which one," I asked, "the river, or Lois De Fee, the striptease?"

"The river," said Harry. "I'm leaving for Brazil next Saturday."

"Let's talk this over in my office," I said, steering him into Lindy's. "When a gent who runs a Broadway hat shop ventures south of Forty-second Street, it deserves columnar coverage."

As soon as we were seated, I began to ply Harry with questions and cherry cheesecake. "What's behind this expedition?" I said. "Are you going to bring back a wild Stetson alive or did you fall for that oldie about the beautiful white princess?"

"Neither," said the Hat. "I'm goin, to South America to look up an old friend. The last I heard he was living with a native tribe in the Tumuc-Humuc Mountains."

"Watch your talk," I said. "There are ladies in the next booth. Now, begin at the beginning."

"Well, the beginning," said Harry, "...s up at Columbia University where two fellows and I roomed together fifteen years ago. We became great pals—wore each other's neckties and talked big about going into business together when we finished college.

"Of course it didn't work out that way. One of the fellows—Mac—got a job selling insurance. I took over the hat shop when my uncle died, and Marty, the smartest of the trio, hooked up with an engineering outfit. A few years ago, his company got a contract to build a road over the Tumuc-Humuc Mountains and arty was sent down to supervise the job.

"Last Fall, Mac came into my store and handed me a copy of the National Georgraphic Magazine he had stolen from his dentist's office.

"'There's an article in it by Marty,' he said. 'When you read it, have a shot of whiskey handy.'

"That night I read the piece and it sure was a lulu. Marty told about the habits of the headhunters in the village where he was working, and how they would hollow out a head and put hot pebbles inside to make it shrivel up. He said he was getting along fine with these savages. When they weren't killing each other, they were quite congenial, fond of their children and always glad to lend a wife to a lonesome traveler.

"Marty seemed particularly impressed by the chief of the tribe, a fellow named Pujabima. This savage was a friendly sort of cuss and, within the limits of his environment, something of a scholar.

"Well, I read the article and forgot about it until a few weeks before Christmas when Mac dropped in to see me again. 'Let's send our old friend a silk topper,' he said. 'It's the one present Marty can't possibly use down there and he'll get a laugh when he opens the package.'

"'I'm not so sure he won't be able to use it,' I said. 'That chief he wrote about would probably love a silk topper.'

"That afternoon I had one of the clerks pack a high hat in a fancy box and ship it off to Brazil. When several months went by without an acknowledgement from Marty, I wrote and asked if the topper had reached him, and if it was the right size. Well, I finally got an answer, and that's why I'm sailing Saturday."

"I don't get it," I said. "Why so much fuss about a silk hat?"

"Maybe you'll understand when you read this letter," said Harry, handing me a piece of yellow paper.

"Dear Sir," it began. "On behalf of your friend, I am acknowledging receipt of the hat. You will be pleased to know it fits his head perfectly."

The letter was signed, "Pujabima."

"I still don't get it," I said. "If the chief says the hat fits Marty, what are you worried about?"

"Well," said the haberdasher, "I checked with the clerk who packed the hat, and found that by mistake he sent one of those miniature toppers we use for window displays."

Extra Congress Session In Campaign Year Fantastic

A great deal of the troubles of President Truman may be attributed to the fact that he frequently acts as a politician rather than as the leader of a people. His call for Congress to go into extraordinary session today is an example.

The President is calling Congress to lay before it his issues in the campaign. A session of Congress is an expensive undertaking, but this expense will be borne by the taxpayers at a time when the government is spending at the most extravagant rate in peacetime history thus aggravating the inflationary spiral.

If something could be gained by a special session it might be justified. But there is no indication that the people favor Mr. Truman's program or that Congress will pass it. Congress will be used as a sounding board for political issues which are supposed to appeal to minorities.

Yes, it is too obvious to require argument that Mr. Truman was playing personal politics when he issued his call. It has been suggested that the Republicans could best handle the sordid political problem that has been presented them by going Truman one better and passing all the legislation he wants but in a more extreme form.

To back up the Republican platform by legislative action would be all right. To be hurried into panic action in order to keep ahead in a race with Truman would be something very different.

For the Republicans to try to be more radical than the President in the session which opens today would offer two difficulties. In the first place, such a performance would change the whole nature of the Republican Party. In the second place, it would make a joke out of the two-party system in the United States. If both parties are going to run their heads off trying to please and satisfy the minority groups, it is apparent that there will be nothing left in the campaign for the rest of us to become interested in. There will be no issues of principle and the majority of our people—the great middle class—looking perhaps for political relief in some new direction, will be faced with the statement so often heard nowadays: "He has no place to go."

In 1946 the Republicans got a mandate from the people to do certain things in Washington. The Eightieth Congress made an honest and in our opinion an extremely capable effort to make good on its pledges. What it did didn't please Harry Truman—but after all that was a matter of opinion. If the ideas of the former Pendergast lieutenant have suddenly taken on infallibility, that is something new for for us all to ponder on.

There is a lot of intense politics being played this year. The greatest mistake the Republican majorities in the Senate and House could make in the extra session would be to try to outsmart Harry Truman by backing away from their own principles and their own record. In that course lies the chance of real disaster, both this year and the years to come.

In a word, a special session of Congress in a campaign year is fantastic. The whole purpose of the campaign is to get a decision from the electorate so that there will be a united, responsible government in Washington.

Harry Truman said he is going to win the election and restore Democratic majorities in Congress. If he is confident of that, why doesn't he wait a few months to get his program across? All he can accomplish now is to use Congress as a campaign amplifier at the expense of the taxpayer.

Truman's civil rights proposals have been included in the communist party platform for twenty-five years, or isn't that supposed to be mentioned?

Lewis Inaugurates Humanitarian Project

Recently, an announcement was made that a learned medical advisory staff is working out a program for a hospital especially designed to treat victims of an ailment known as paraplegia—a form of paralysis caused by injury to the spinal cord.

Because miners are particularly victims of it, the United Mine Workers of America will finance research as well as direct treatment to injured members of the union. The cost of the undertaking is being met with a portion of the welfare and retirement fund for members of John L. Lewis's organizations.

Because Lewis has virtual control of the fund makes this possible. It should prove beneficial to miners and the general public which must contribute to the fund by the payment of the 20 per cent royalty on each ton of coal used in homes, factories, institutions and all other coal-consuming enterprises. The fund will run into approximately $1,000,000 annually. The fact that Mr. Lewis was successful in having the royalty fee doubled paved the way for the undertaking, and the enlisting of some of the best medical minds in the task.

The launching of the program is a splendid service. To John L. Lewis goes the credit for this humanitarian project. It may go far toward removing much of the hostile feeling held or expressed against Lewis during his battle to bring the fund about.

If we declare war on Russia and knock Roosevelt's old sidekick, Stalin, off his pedestal, how long will we have to feed the Russians?

It Doesn't Mean Anything

We wonder that the makers of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco pipes have not protested against the slurring references to "smoke-filled rooms" as places where dubious political bargains are contracted. Fact is, convention rooms as thus described have their exact parallel in the committee rooms of Congress. In each case that's where differences of view are discussed and adjusted—where the thinking, the real work, is done.

This is done, and always has been done, amid the incence of tobacco—the weed of Deliberation. Blame the Indians, if you don't like it, for they started it. The calumet, or Pipe of Peace, was their creation. Its antithesis was the war dance. You get one in the "smoke-filled" committee rooms, the other in the synthetic tumults and hi-de-hoes of the convention floor.

Let's see—weren't the Truman Plan and the Marshall Plan going to keep us out of war?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Internal Bleeding

External bleeding is easily recognized and, by applying pressure, tying the involved vessel, or sewing up the wound, oozing can usually be brought under control. The problem is more difficult, however, when hemorhage occurs inside the body. The gastrointestinal tract is a common site and the following example is typical.

Dr. Van Dellen

Not long ago a middle aged business man was hospitalized after collapsing at work. He told his physicians that for the past three years he had encountered bouts of indigestion and more recently had noticed a burning pain in the upper abdomen, coming on several hours after a meal .He found that baking soda or milk gave relief, hence thought it unnecessary to seek medical aid. The first suggestion that something serious was amiss developed the day before when he noticed that the stools were black. This was observed again in the morning and just before noon. It was after the latter movement that he felt faint on returning to his desk. This was followed by loss of consciousness.

Examination revealed a weak pulse and rapid breathing. Blood counts showed marked anemia and an analysis of the next stool demonstrated blood. By putting two and two together it became evident that there was bleeding from the gastrointestinal tract but a guess could only be hazarded as to the exact source. Peptic ulcer was suspected because of his previous story of indigestion. The origin of the trouble, however, was secondary as the most pressing need at the moment was to arrest the hemorrhage.

Through experience, physicians have learned that oozing often stops spontaneously. The danger of bleeding to death was remote as this patient was in the hospital, where the red cells were checked at intervals during the day and night. If the number continued to decrease, one or more transfusions could be given. Should this be of no help, operation could be performed. Conservative management was decided upon. The man was kept as quiet as possible and medicine was administered to counteract the acid in his stomach. In addition, he was allowed small amounts of food at frequent periods.

During the next 24 hours the blood pressure began to return to its normal level and the blood count held consequently it was felt that bleeding was moderating. For the next three days the bowel eliminations were tarred; thereafter, they started to appear lighter. Improvement from this point on was rapid and, after several weeks had elapsed, X-rays disclosed stomach ulcer. As the lesion eroded the lining of the gastric pouch, it struck a blood vessel and hemorrhage ensued. This did not become evident until blood appeared in the stool. (The black color was due to the acid and other secretions of the stomach and intestine). Meanwhile the patient had no knowledge that he was bleeding until the loss was great enough to cause collapse.

Internal hemorrhage in younger individuals generally ceases spontaneously. As the blood pressure falls, the bleeding vessel collapses and a clot seals the opening. Older persons are not so fortunate especially if hardening of the arteries exists; more dramatic treatment is often demanded.

Cardiac Complications

Mrs. M. writes: Does scarlet fever ever leave heart trouble?

Reply

Yes, in severe cases, the strep organism may invade the pumping apparatus. A more likely route would be the development of rheumatic fever following scarlet fever. Complications are less frequently encountered today, since the advent of the wonder drugs.

Eyeball Tension

N. E. writes: Is it dangerous for a person of 70 to be operated upon for glaucoma?

Reply

No, especially if it means that sight will be saved.

Affects The Skin

L. B. writes: Is psoriasis a skin disease?

Reply

Yes, and a miserable one at that. The lesions are unsightly but they do not itch and are not contagious. The disorder often runs a chronic course; altho healing occurs from time to time, recurrences are common.

Stiffened Joints

T. R. writes: What is wrong when a person can hardly get up from a chair after sitting for some time?

Reply

To some persons, this difficulty is synonymous with old age. If a joint disturbance is present, stiffness after resting is common and the individual finds it difficult to move after remaining in one position.

Complications

J. P. writes: Can getting married cause a man to have a nervous breakdown?

Reply

It's conceivable. Physicians are often asked if marriage will cure nervousness and other psychoneurotic tendencies. It rarely does and in fact often aggravates the condition because added responsibilities are rarely tolerated by such individuals.

Breast Inflammation

J. W. writes: Can a male develop mastitis?

Reply

Yes, but this type of inflammation is rare in men.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Dewey Agrees With Truman More Than With GOP Congress; Passed FEPC Act Which Truman Urged; Housing Record Far Ahead Federal Government

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 25—What few people, even inside the Republican Party, fully realize is that the men at the head of the GOP ticket are far ahead of the Republican Congress which meets in special session today.

The real truth is that Dewey and Warren have much more in common with Harry Truman when it comes to domestic legislation than the Republican Party which nominated them.

If there is to be a Republican administration next January, therefore, this special session is the time for the voters to watch their Congressmen. They can then go to the polls in November in an effort to give the next administration a workable Congress instead of the present collection of misfits and diehards.

All you have to do is look at the record to see how far ahead of Congress are the two top candidates on the Republican ticket. Here is their record:

Dewey-Warren Record

MINIMUM WAGES: Dewey—Extended minimum wages to 500,000 retail workers previously not covered by law; also to 320,000 women in hotels, beauty parlors, cleaning establishments. (Truman has repeatedly urged Congress to extend and increase minimum wages, but no result.)

FAIR EMPLOYMENT: Dewey—Passed a Fair Employment Bill giving equal working opportunity regardless of race or religion. (This is similar to the Truman FEPC proposal.) When the N. Y. Board of Regents protested against admitting Jews, Negroes and Catholics to New York State universities on the same proportion to the population, Dewey overruled them. He insisted that any religion or race must be admitted to any college in proportion of the population—provided they pass scholastic requirements.

Governor Warren—Urged California Legislature to create a Fair Employment Commission to investigate political and economic inequality of minority groups, but couldn't get it through his Legislature.

HEALTH: Dewey—Pushed state aid for local public health work; launched successful program to have free chest X-rays for tuberculosis. Every TB patient gets free hospital treatment. "Cows get free TB tests," says Dewey. "Why not human beings?"

Warren—Aroused wrath of California medical lobby by urging state-wide health insurance giving prepaid hospital, medical and laboratory care to everyone. (This is the program endorsed by Truman—which makes Senator Taft see red and which most Republicans call "New Deal Socialism.") Warren has urged this program at every session of Legislature since 1943.

Dewey's "Socialistic" Housing

HOUSING: Dewey — Built $69,000,000 of post-war emergency housing, which is three times what the Federal Government has built. This includes 8,581 homes for veterans, 1,179 apartments, 13,678 dormitories adjacent to colleges. Credit goes to Democratic Governor Lehman for authorizing $300,000,000 for a state housing program, but Dewey has added $135,000,000 to this. (This is the type of housing which GOP leaders in Congress call "socialistic" and have refused to pass.)

Of this so-called "socialistic" housing, Dewey says: "Public housing represents one contribution of government to the basic needs of that portion of the people who are economically unable without such aid to maintain a decent standard of living."

Warren—Got emergency housing appropriations of $7,500,000 to help local communities with public housing, and another $2,000,000 for rural housing. Also set up revolving fund of $1,000,000 to buy surplus Federal buildings and building materials for veterans.

REAL-ESTATE LOBBY:—Dewey and his top housing adviser, Herman T. Stichman, have consistently opposed the real-estate lobby (so has Gov. Warren), while GOP Congressional leaders have eaten out of its hand. Says Stichman: "Certain real-estate groups must awaken to the realization that their unyielding opposition to any program of governmental aid to housing families of low income is a direct invitation to the Communists to come in and exploit the resulting discontent. . . . The country where people spent their lives in hovels and shacks was the one that fell first to Communism—namely, Russia."

RENT CONTROL: Dewey — Got N. Y. Legislature to pass Rent Control Act when he saw OPA was likely to be killed by a Republican Congress.

Warren—Called special session of State Legislature July 22, 1946, to stop unreasonable rent increases and unwarranted evictions. He asked that all rents be frozen temporarily, and all evictions stopped except for statutory causes. His legislature, however, turned him down.

EDUCATION: Dewey—Is boiling mad at so-called teachers' lobby and believes they are unreasonable in salary demands. Teachers' salaries in New York State are higher than most states, though still woefully inadequate.

Dewey helped get teachers one raise and argues that local communities should take greater interest in education, not leave it to state. After war, he called N. Y. college presidents together, helped them get extra facilities to increase their enrollment 100 per cent.

Warren — Has good - naturedly twitted Dewey about paying teachers such low salaries that they migrate to California. In 1946, Warren got Legislature to increase state aid to local districts and fix minimum teacher salary at $2,400. In 1947 he got another $20,000,000 for state aid to impoverished school districts; also initiated extra education for veterans so they could continue their studies on state money after Federal funds ran out.

President Truman has repeatedly asked Congress to pass Federal aid-to-education bill. No results.

That is the record of the two men at the head of the Republican Party—almost identical, except in detail, with that of the man at the head of the Democratic Party. It will be interesting to see what the Republican Congress does about it.

Bumper Wheat Crop And Prices Are Discussed By Statistician

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW BOSTON, N. H., July 23 — Returning from the wheat growing states, I must report that with one exception we should have our largest new crop on record, plus a sizeable carry-over. Hence, there is good reason why the cash price should have dropped at Kansas City from $3.30 per bushel in 1947 to $2.26 per bushel now.

Only the present so-called Parity Legislation, passed last month by Congress, holds up present prices. This law enables wheat growers to "borrow" from Uncle Sam an amount nearly equal to present prices. If the price later goes up, the farmers can sell at the market and pay off Uncle Sam. If the price later goes down, then Uncle Sam is stuck because these farmers notes read "without recourse". This means that the government cannot collect the deficiency even if the farmers are millionaires as many now are.

Next year, after the Europeans need no more of our wheat, the price should be even lower, in fact were it not for this guaranty it could go back to one dollar per bushel. Of course the big question is what will Uncle Sam do with this wheat which it takes on "loans" from the farmers. Will it sell same to the flour mills at much reduced prices and absorb the loss or will it dump or burn it as it did with millions of bushels of fine potatoes.

Price Of Bread

One of two results are certain to happen during the next few years. Either the price of bread will drop or else the price of bread stocks, n the New York Stock Exchange, will go up. Perhaps both things will happen. Pegging wheat prices is like damming a stream of water. You can stop the flow for a certain time but untimately the water will flow over the dam or else the dam will break. Neither Republicans or Democrats can fool nature's laws. Both farmers and investors who realize this and act accordingly make money in the end.

The price of flour is determined by the price of wheat. The price of bread is determined by the price of flour. As the price of wheat goes up, the profits of the bakers shrink as there is a lag between higher wheat prices and higher bread prices. When, however, wheat prices are going d own, the lag is in favor of the bakers who do not reduce their bread prices immediately.

Investments For Farmers

Farmers can hedge against declining wheat prices by "selling futures"; but this is risky at times. A far safer hedge would be to buy flour mill and baking stocks just now. The leading flour and feed company is General Mills; the stock sells on the New York Stock Exchange for about $49 and pays $2.37 per year. This is a wonderful company, although there are other good ones.

There are hundreds of good baking companies; but the four largest with which I am acquainted are:—

(1) Continental Baking Co. common sells about $17 and pays about $1 per year.

(2) General Baking Co. common sells about $11 and pays about $0.60 per year.

(3) Ward Baking Co. common sells about $16.50 and pays about $1.35 per year.

(4) Purity Bakeries Corp. common sells about $33 and pays about $2.55 per year.

These common stocks should sell for more someday and — in the meantime—pay dividends to yield about 6% on your money. If you want security, then you can buy the preferred stocks of these companies, but they give you no speculative advantage. Both the Common and Preferred stocks offer exceptional protection in case of World War III. This especially applies to Continental Baking.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Wallace Convention

IN summary, the Wallace Party has declared itself a Socialist Party, sympathetic to Soviet Russia, fronting for the American Communist Party but not affiliated with the Cominform. The three principal leaders of this group, Henry Wallace, Rexford Guy Tugwell and Lee Pressman, were powerful factors in the Roosevelt Administration and therefore they give us another view of what went on behind the closed doors of The White House.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was not a Socialist. He was a political opportunist who regarded himself as slightly left of a shifting center. It is very doubtful if he understood the theoretical basis of Socialism; he probably regarded his Socialistic associates as interesting but not altogether sound men, manageable by him and useful to him.

He let Tugwell go when Tugwell's fanaticism became too hot politically. Pressman became the strategist of the C.I.O. where he aided the Communists to build a powerful faction that eventually pushed out John L. Lewis and made a prisoner of Phil Murray.

Wallace developed power and influence on his own and must have been a horrible trouble to Roosevelt, who undoubtedly thought that he had killed him off politically when he deprived him of the Vice-Presidential nomination in 1944. Wallace, however, was hard to kill because he is either too sleek or too tough-skinned to suffer from humiliation.

Wallace, after Truman became President, proved that without restraint he is capable of any political or personal impropriety. At any rate, he set out to punish Truman for succeeding him to the Vice-Presidency, and he has been a huge success at it.

Truman might have served his country well by fighting the Socialism of this group, but Truman and his advisers shifted from an American economic program to one which would meet Wallace's attacks. He sacrificed his party, lowered his prestige by using the great powers of the President for partisan purposes, moved into a leftist position where he is as uncomfortable as a fat man in a hired tuxedo, and he now may be defeated—all because he assumed that if he tried hard enough he would win the left-wing support away from Wallace.

What Truman and many other conservatives do not understand is that a Socialist never compromises. He may retreat one step to gain two; he may retire under the heat of a bitter fight only to return when the battle is less fierce.

No Socialist, and no Communist, can quit because he believes that the universal triumph of Marxism is inevitable. There is never a doubt in the Socialist mind as to the inevitable; the only doubt is when the inevitable will occur.

To the American Marxists, either Communist Party members or Socialistic sympathizers, Henry Wallace is a godsend. He and such associates as Rexford Guy Tugwell and Glen Taylor are not Communists by affiliation and I should imagine that most of the members of this new party are mildly Socialist. They, therefore, give the impression of being liberals and bleeding hearts, followers of Franklin D. Roosevelt and haters of Herbert Hoover. They also hate Harry Truman and George Marshall. They despise Tom Dewey. They appear to be neither personally offensive nor politically subversive.

Behind such a front, the Communists can work well. They know that they cannot elect Henry Wallace and Glen Taylor. They presume that they will succeed in bringing about the defeat of Harry Truman. Yet, they expect to win a great victory in the next election and that is the reason for all their excitement.

Their victory is to be in the House of Representatives. Vito Marcantonio, Lee Pressman, and Leo Isacson are but three of the men they expect to send to the House of Representatives. As more names are listed in various parts of the country, it will be found that they might, because the public does not watch closely, send 10 or 15 active, quarrelsome representatives to Congress who will fight as a team, who will be extraordinarily difficult in committees and who will leak distorted data to favorite reporters and commentators.

This group will form the nucleus of a Socialist power in this country. It needs to be watched and understood.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Men Who Pull The Strings

PHILADELPHIA

THE WALLACE party convention has not, of course, been a convention at all. It has been, rather, a dreary and sometimes nauseating spectacle, carefully and quite obviously stage-managed by the American Communist party in the interests of the foreign policy of the Soviet Union.

It is difficult to believe that even Henry Wallace, despite his enormous capacity for self-delusion, has not some dim notion of this fact. Before the convention, Wallace was clearly disturbed by the Communist coloration of his "crusade," and even indulged in a little very mild and very tentative "red-baiting." But he consoled himself, according to those who have followed his wanderings, by the conviction that time was on his side.

He firmly believed that as the international crisis deepened, and particularly after Harry Truman was nominated by the Democrats, the non-Communist liberals and labor leaders would suddenly see the light. Then the men who were once his friends and supporters would rally to his side.

Nothing of the sort has, of course, happened. The CIO and the AFL have even refused to dignify the Wallace party by testifying before its platform committee. CIO President Philip Murray and other non-Communist CIO leaders are preparing quietly to support Truman, however unenthusiastically.

Wallace's only labor support derives from such men as the Electrical Workers' Julius Emspak, whose party identification has reportedly been "Comrade Juniper"; Harry Bridges of the Longshoremen, whose political leanings are well known, and such acknowledged Communists as Ben Gold of the Fur Workers and Donald Henderson of the Tobacco Workers. Wallace has attracted no labor support whatsoever except from those unions where Stalinists have captured power. And he must know it.

Wallace must know too that not a single New Dealer or liberal of any stature from among his old associates of the Roosevelt days has come out in his support, with the possible exception of R. G. Tugwell. Tugwell himself is now reported to be suffering from certain qualms. Like any liberal who tries to work with Communists, he has been forced into a ludicrous position. He has said that he is personally in favor of the Marshall plan. But although he was the titular chairman of the platform committee, the platform roundly condemns the plan as imperialistic. Tugwell has unhappily announced that this apparent contradiction is "unimportant."

The plain fact is that neither Tugwell nor the decorative importations from Hollywood and New York nor the fringe groups of fuzzy-minded non-Communists who have joined Wallace, nor even Wallace himself, really has anything to do with the policy and strategy of the Wallace movement. Wallace, and the Wallace "crusade," are now entirely in the hands of a small group of astute insiders. Of these the most influential are C. B. Baldwin, Lee Pressman and John Abt.

Baldwin, Wallace's "campaign manager," is not and doubtless never has been a member of the Communist party, although he has joined numerous party fronts, conspicuously the party's legal instrument, the Civil Rights Congress. But Baldwin has not been known to step on any Communist toes. He is a "united fronter"—one who believes in co-operation with the Communists. Inevitably, either unhappily as in Tugwell's case, or contentedly as in Baldwin's, a united fronter soon finds himself doing all the co-operating.

Lee Pressman is in a different category. A heavy-set man with a strong, sardonic face, a powerful personality and an agile mind, Pressman was until recently counsel for the CIO. Until Philip Murray fired him on the Wallace issue, he was the chief friend at court of CIO's minority Communist wing. The real author of the Wallace platform, Pressman is already probably the most powerful single influence in the Wallace movement. He has frequently been reported a member of the Communist party and he has not publicly denied it.

Abt, former counsel of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, is a kind of cut-rate Pressman, sharing his views, his affiliations and an office at Wallace headquarters. There are other insiders, like Hannah Dorner, publicist for a number of party-line causes, and Lew Frank, Wallace's ghostwriter, who was chief whip for the pro-Communist faction in the American Veterans Committee. But Baldwin, Pressman and Abt are the chief manipulators of the strings which cause Wallace to do his ungainly dance.

One cannot help but wonder what is going on in the mind of Henry Wallace, former Vice President of the United States, as this macabre spectacle draws to a close. It has not even been entertaining, simply because the well-oiled party machine allowed for no real surprises. The "demonstrations" have had that quality of loudly spurious enthusiasm which prevails in eastern Europe. Meanwhile, the public opinion polls show Wallace steadily losing ground, while his old friends and associates of the Roosevelt days denounce him. Despite all this, there is little doubt that Wallace, now wholly cut off from reality by the little group which surrounds him, will carry on his dreary "crusade" to its bitter, undignified end.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

A Philadelphia naturalist, after a long period of research, has determined that a snail moves one mile in ten years. One mile in ten years, eh? They should give that snail a saliva test.

That naturalist also discovered that snails keep themselves in marvelous physical condition. After covering the mile distance in the fast time of ten years, the snail wasn't even panting.

Mr. Snail made such slow time for the usual reason. He had his wife with him and every time they passed a rock covered with moss, she'd stop and polish her shell.

After observing the snail for some time, the professor realized why he wasn't traveling fast. He wasn't going anywhere. In fact, after a couple of years, he nicknamed him "Third Party."

But I've done some research along kindred lines and have the following to report: The world's fastest thing—Jack Benny on the way to the movies one minute before the prices change. The world's softest thing—Colonna's head.

The world's longest—any one of my pictures.

Extra Congress Session In Campaign Year Fantastic

A great deal of the troubles of President Truman may be attributed to the fact that he frequently acts as a politician rather than as the leader of a people. His call for Congress to go into extraordinary session today is an example.

The President is calling Congress to lay before it his issues in the campaign. A session of Congress is an expensive undertaking, but this expense will be borne by the taxpayers at a time when the government is spending at the most extravagant rate in peacetime history thus aggravating the inflationary spiral.

If something could be gained by a special session it might be justified. But there is no indication that the people favor Mr. Truman's program or that Congress will pass it. Congress will be used as a sounding board for political issues which are supposed to appeal to minorities.

Yes, it is too obvious to require argument that Mr. Truman was playing personal politics when he issued his call. It has been suggested that the Republicans could best handle the sordid political problem that has been presented them by going Truman one better and passing all the legislation he wants but in a more extreme form.

To back up the Republican platform by legislative action would be all right. To be hurried into panic action in order to keep ahead in a race with Truman would be something very different.

For the Republicans to try to be more radical than the President in the session which opens today would offer two difficulties. In the first place, such a performance would change the whole nature of the Republican Party. In the second place, it would make a joke out of the two-party system in the United States. If both parties are going to run their heads off trying to please and satisfy the minority groups, it is apparent that there will be nothing left in the campaign for the rest of us to become interested in. There will be no issues of principle and the majority of our people—the great middle class—looking perhaps for political relief in some new direction, will be faced with the statement so often heard nowadays: "He has no place to go."

In 1946 the Republicans got a mandate from the people to do certain things in Washington. The Eightieth Congress made an honest and in our opinion an extremely capable effort to make good on its pledges. What it did didn't please Harry Truman—but after all that was a matter of opinion. If the ideas of the former Pendergast lieutenant have suddenly taken on infallibility, that is something new for for us all to ponder on.

There is a lot of intense politics being played this year. The greatest mistake the Republican majorities in the Senate and House could make in the extra session would be to try to outsmart Harry Truman by backing away from their own principles and their own record. In that course lies the chance of real disaster, both this year and the years to come.

In a word, a special session of Congress in a campaign year is fantastic. The whole purpose of the campaign is to get a decision from the electorate so that there will be a united, responsible government in Washington.

Harry Truman said he is going to win the election and restore Democratic majorities in Congress. If he is confident of that, why doesn't he wait a few months to get his program across? All he can accomplish now is to use Congress as a campaign amplifier at the expense of the taxpayer.

Truman's civil rights proposals have been included in the communist party platform for twenty-five years, or isn't that supposed to be mentioned?

Lewis Inaugurates Humanitarian Project

Recently, an announcement was made that a learned medical advisory staff is working out a program for a hospital especially designed to treat victims of an ailment known as paraplegia—a form of paralysis caused by injury to the spinal cord.

Because miners are particularly victims of it, the United Mine Workers of America will finance research as well as direct treatment to injured members of the union. The cost of the undertaking is being met with a portion of the welfare and retirement fund for members of John L. Lewis's organizations.

Because Lewis has virtual control of the fund makes this possible. It should prove beneficial to miners and the general public which must contribute to the fund by the payment of the 20 per cent royalty on each ton of coal used in homes, factories, institutions and all other coal-consuming enterprises. The fund will run into approximately $1,000,000 annually. The fact that Mr. Lewis was successful in having the royalty fee doubled paved the way for the undertaking, and the enlisting of some of the best medical minds in the task.

The launching of the program is a splendid service. To John L. Lewis goes the credit for this humanitarian project. It may go far toward removing much of the hostile feeling held or expressed against Lewis during his battle to bring the fund about.

If we declare war on Russia and knock Roosevelt's old sidekick, Stalin, off his pedestal, how long will we have to feed the Russians?

It Doesn't Mean Anything

We wonder that the makers of cigars, cigarettes and tobacco pipes have not protested against the slurring references to "smoke-filled rooms" as places where dubious political bargains are contracted. Fact is, convention rooms as thus described have their exact parallel in the committee rooms of Congress. In each case that's where differences of view are discussed and adjusted—where the thinking, the real work, is done.

This is done, and always has been done, amid the incence of tobacco—the weed of Deliberation. Blame the Indians, if you don't like it, for they started it. The calumet, or Pipe of Peace, was their creation. Its antithesis was the war dance. You get one in the "smoke-filled" committee rooms, the other in the synthetic tumults and hi-de-hoes of the convention floor.

Let's see—weren't the Truman Plan and the Marshall Plan going to keep us out of war?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Internal Bleeding

External bleeding is easily recognized and, by applying pressure, tying the involved vessel, or sewing up the wound, oozing can usually be brought under control. The problem is more difficult, however, when hemorhage occurs inside the body. The gastrointestinal tract is a common site and the following example is typical.

Dr. Van Dellen

Not long ago a middle aged business man was hospitalized after collapsing at work. He told his physicians that for the past three years he had encountered bouts of indigestion and more recently had noticed a burning pain in the upper abdomen, coming on several hours after a meal .He found that baking soda or milk gave relief, hence thought it unnecessary to seek medical aid. The first suggestion that something serious was amiss developed the day before when he noticed that the stools were black. This was observed again in the morning and just before noon. It was after the latter movement that he felt faint on returning to his desk. This was followed by loss of consciousness.

Examination revealed a weak pulse and rapid breathing. Blood counts showed marked anemia and an analysis of the next stool demonstrated blood. By putting two and two together it became evident that there was bleeding from the gastrointestinal tract but a guess could only be hazarded as to the exact source. Peptic ulcer was suspected because of his previous story of indigestion. The origin of the trouble, however, was secondary as the most pressing need at the moment was to arrest the hemorrhage.

Through experience, physicians have learned that oozing often stops spontaneously. The danger of bleeding to death was remote as this patient was in the hospital, where the red cells were checked at intervals during the day and night. If the number continued to decrease, one or more transfusions could be given. Should this be of no help, operation could be performed. Conservative management was decided upon. The man was kept as quiet as possible and medicine was administered to counteract the acid in his stomach. In addition, he was allowed small amounts of food at frequent periods.

During the next 24 hours the blood pressure began to return to its normal level and the blood count held consequently it was felt that bleeding was moderating. For the next three days the bowel eliminations were tarred; thereafter, they started to appear lighter. Improvement from this point on was rapid and, after several weeks had elapsed, X-rays disclosed stomach ulcer. As the lesion eroded the lining of the gastric pouch, it struck a blood vessel and hemorrhage ensued. This did not become evident until blood appeared in the stool. (The black color was due to the acid and other secretions of the stomach and intestine). Meanwhile the patient had no knowledge that he was bleeding until the loss was great enough to cause collapse.

Internal hemorrhage in younger individuals generally ceases spontaneously. As the blood pressure falls, the bleeding vessel collapses and a clot seals the opening. Older persons are not so fortunate especially if hardening of the arteries exists; more dramatic treatment is often demanded.

Cardiac Complications

Mrs. M. writes: Does scarlet fever ever leave heart trouble?

Reply

Yes, in severe cases, the strep organism may invade the pumping apparatus. A more likely route would be the development of rheumatic fever following scarlet fever. Complications are less frequently encountered today, since the advent of the wonder drugs.

Eyeball Tension

N. E. writes: Is it dangerous for a person of 70 to be operated upon for glaucoma?

Reply

No, especially if it means that sight will be saved.

Affects The Skin

L. B. writes: Is psoriasis a skin disease?

Reply

Yes, and a miserable one at that. The lesions are unsightly but they do not itch and are not contagious. The disorder often runs a chronic course; altho healing occurs from time to time, recurrences are common.

Stiffened Joints

T. R. writes: What is wrong when a person can hardly get up from a chair after sitting for some time?

Reply

To some persons, this difficulty is synonymous with old age. If a joint disturbance is present, stiffness after resting is common and the individual finds it difficult to move after remaining in one position.

Complications

J. P. writes: Can getting married cause a man to have a nervous breakdown?

Reply

It's conceivable. Physicians are often asked if marriage will cure nervousness and other psychoneurotic tendencies. It rarely does and in fact often aggravates the condition because added responsibilities are rarely tolerated by such individuals.

Breast Inflammation

J. W. writes: Can a male develop mastitis?

Reply

Yes, but this type of inflammation is rare in men.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, July 25—What few people, even inside the Republican Party, fully realize is that the men at the head of the GOP ticket are far ahead of the Republican Congress which meets in special session today.

The real truth is that Dewey and Warren have much more in common with Harry Truman when it comes to domestic legislation than the Republican Party which nominated them.

If there is to be a Republican administration next January, therefore, this special session is the time for the voters to watch their Congressmen. They can then go to the polls in November in an effort to give the next administration a workable Congress instead of the present collection of misfits and diehards.

All you have to do is look at the record to see how far ahead of Congress are the two top candidates on the Republican ticket. Here is their record:

Dewey-Warren Record

MINIMUM WAGES: Dewey—Extended minimum wages to 500,000 retail workers previously not covered by law; also to 320,000 women in hotels, beauty parlors, cleaning establishments. (Truman has repeatedly urged Congress to extend and increase minimum wages, but no result.)

FAIR EMPLOYMENT: Dewey—Passed a Fair Employment Bill giving equal working opportunity regardless of race or religion. (This is similar to the Truman FEPC proposal.) When the N. Y. Board of Regents protested against admitting Jews, Negroes and Catholics to New York State universities on the same proportion to the population, Dewey overruled them. He insisted that any religion or race must be admitted to any college in proportion of the population—provided they pass scholastic requirements.

Governor Warren—Urged California Legislature to create a Fair Employment Commission to investigate political and economic inequality of minority groups, but couldn't get it through his Legislature.

HEALTH: Dewey—Pushed state aid for local public health work; launched successful program to have free chest X-rays for tuberculosis. Every TB patient gets free hospital treatment. "Cows get free TB tests," says Dewey. "Why not human beings?"

Warren—Aroused wrath of California medical lobby by urging state-wide health insurance giving prepaid hospital, medical and laboratory care to everyone. (This is the program endorsed by Truman—which makes Senator Taft see red and which most Republicans call "New Deal Socialism.") Warren has urged this program at every session of Legislature since 1943.

Dewey's "Socialistic" Housing

HOUSING: Dewey — Built $69,000,000 of post-war emergency housing, which is three times what the Federal Government has built. This includes 8,581 homes for veterans, 1,179 apartments, 13,678 dormitories adjacent to colleges. Credit goes to Democratic Governor Lehman for authorizing $300,000,000 for a state housing program, but Dewey has added $135,000,000 to this. (This is the type of housing which GOP leaders in Congress call "socialistic" and have refused to pass.)

Of this so-called "socialistic" housing, Dewey says: "Public housing represents one contribution of government to the basic needs of that portion of the people who are economically unable without such aid to maintain a decent standard of living."

Warren—Got emergency housing appropriations of $7,500,000 to help local communities with public housing, and another $2,000,000 for rural housing. Also set up revolving fund of $1,000,000 to buy surplus Federal buildings and building materials for veterans.

REAL-ESTATE LOBBY:—Dewey and his top housing adviser, Herman T. Stichman, have consistently opposed the real-estate lobby (so has Gov. Warren), while GOP Congressional leaders have eaten out of its hand. Says Stichman: "Certain real-estate groups must awaken to the realization that their unyielding opposition to any program of governmental aid to housing families of low income is a direct invitation to the Communists to come in and exploit the resulting discontent. . . . The country where people spent their lives in hovels and shacks was the one that fell first to Communism—namely, Russia."

RENT CONTROL: Dewey — Got N. Y. Legislature to pass Rent Control Act when he saw OPA was likely to be killed by a Republican Congress.

Warren—Called special session of State Legislature July 22, 1946, to stop unreasonable rent increases and unwarranted evictions. He asked that all rents be frozen temporarily, and all evictions stopped except for statutory causes. His legislature, however, turned him down.

EDUCATION: Dewey—Is boiling mad at so-called teachers' lobby and believes they are unreasonable in salary demands. Teachers' salaries in New York State are higher than most states, though still woefully inadequate.

Dewey helped get teachers one raise and argues that local communities should take greater interest in education, not leave it to state. After war, he called N. Y. college presidents together, helped them get extra facilities to increase their enrollment 100 per cent.

Warren — Has good - naturedly twitted Dewey about paying teachers such low salaries that they migrate to California. In 1946, Warren got Legislature to increase state aid to local districts and fix minimum teacher salary at $2,400. In 1947 he got another $20,000,000 for state aid to impoverished school districts; also initiated extra education for veterans so they could continue their studies on state money after Federal funds ran out.

President Truman has repeatedly asked Congress to pass Federal aid-to-education bill. No results.

That is the record of the two men at the head of the Republican Party—almost identical, except in detail, with that of the man at the head of the Democratic Party. It will be interesting to see what the Republican Congress does about it.

Bumper Wheat Crop And Prices Are Discussed By Statistician

By ROGER W. BABSON

NEW BOSTON, N. H., July 23 — Returning from the wheat growing states, I must report that with one exception we should have our largest new crop on record, plus a sizeable carry-over. Hence, there is good reason why the cash price should have dropped at Kansas City from $3.30 per bushel in 1947 to $2.26 per bushel now.

Only the present so-called Parity Legislation, passed last month by Congress, holds up present prices. This law enables wheat growers to "borrow" from Uncle Sam an amount nearly equal to present prices. If the price later goes up, the farmers can sell at the market and pay off Uncle Sam. If the price later goes down, then Uncle Sam is stuck because these farmers notes read "without recourse". This means that the government cannot collect the deficiency even if the farmers are millionaires as many now are.

Next year, after the Europeans need no more of our wheat, the price should be even lower, in fact were it not for this guaranty it could go back to one dollar per bushel. Of course the big question is what will Uncle Sam do with this wheat which it takes on "loans" from the farmers. Will it sell same to the flour mills at much reduced prices and absorb the loss or will it dump or burn it as it did with millions of bushels of fine potatoes.

Price Of Bread

One of two results are certain to happen during the next few years. Either the price of bread will drop or else the price of bread stocks, n the New York Stock Exchange, will go up. Perhaps both things will happen. Pegging wheat prices is like damming a stream of water. You can stop the flow for a certain time but untimately the water will flow over the dam or else the dam will break. Neither Republicans or Democrats can fool nature's laws. Both farmers and investors who realize this and act accordingly make money in the end.

The price of flour is determined by the price of wheat. The price of bread is determined by the price of flour. As the price of wheat goes up, the profits of the bakers shrink as there is a lag between higher wheat prices and higher bread prices. When, however, wheat prices are going d own, the lag is in favor of the bakers who do not reduce their bread prices immediately.

Investments For Farmers

Farmers can hedge against declining wheat prices by "selling futures"; but this is risky at times. A far safer hedge would be to buy flour mill and baking stocks just now. The leading flour and feed company is General Mills; the stock sells on the New York Stock Exchange for about $49 and pays $2.37 per year. This is a wonderful company, although there are other good ones.

There are hundreds of good baking companies; but the four largest with which I am acquainted are:—

(1) Continental Baking Co. common sells about $17 and pays about $1 per year.

(2) General Baking Co. common sells about $11 and pays about $0.60 per year.

(3) Ward Baking Co. common sells about $16.50 and pays about $1.35 per year.

(4) Purity Bakeries Corp. common sells about $33 and pays about $2.55 per year.

These common stocks should sell for more someday and — in the meantime—pay dividends to yield about 6% on your money. If you want security, then you can buy the preferred stocks of these companies, but they give you no speculative advantage. Both the Common and Preferred stocks offer exceptional protection in case of World War III. This especially applies to Continental Baking.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Wallace Convention

IN summary, the Wallace Party has declared itself a Socialist Party, sympathetic to Soviet Russia, fronting for the American Communist Party but not affiliated with the Cominform. The three principal leaders of this group, Henry Wallace, Rexford Guy Tugwell and Lee Pressman, were powerful factors in the Roosevelt Administration and therefore they give us another view of what went on behind the closed doors of The White House.

Franklin D. Roosevelt was not a Socialist. He was a political opportunist who regarded himself as slightly left of a shifting center. It is very doubtful if he understood the theoretical basis of Socialism; he probably regarded his Socialistic associates as interesting but not altogether sound men, manageable by him and useful to him.

He let Tugwell go when Tugwell's fanaticism became too hot politically. Pressman became the strategist of the C.I.O. where he aided the Communists to build a powerful faction that eventually pushed out John L. Lewis and made a prisoner of Phil Murray.

Wallace developed power and influence on his own and must have been a horrible trouble to Roosevelt, who undoubtedly thought that he had killed him off politically when he deprived him of the Vice-Presidential nomination in 1944. Wallace, however, was hard to kill because he is either too sleek or too tough-skinned to suffer from humiliation.

Wallace, after Truman became President, proved that without restraint he is capable of any political or personal impropriety. At any rate, he set out to punish Truman for succeeding him to the Vice-Presidency, and he has been a huge success at it.

Truman might have served his country well by fighting the Socialism of this group, but Truman and his advisers shifted from an American economic program to one which would meet Wallace's attacks. He sacrificed his party, lowered his prestige by using the great powers of the President for partisan purposes, moved into a leftist position where he is as uncomfortable as a fat man in a hired tuxedo, and he now may be defeated—all because he assumed that if he tried hard enough he would win the left-wing support away from Wallace.

What Truman and many other conservatives do not understand is that a Socialist never compromises. He may retreat one step to gain two; he may retire under the heat of a bitter fight only to return when the battle is less fierce.

No Socialist, and no Communist, can quit because he believes that the universal triumph of Marxism is inevitable. There is never a doubt in the Socialist mind as to the inevitable; the only doubt is when the inevitable will occur.

To the American Marxists, either Communist Party members or Socialistic sympathizers, Henry Wallace is a godsend. He and such associates as Rexford Guy Tugwell and Glen Taylor are not Communists by affiliation and I should imagine that most of the members of this new party are mildly Socialist. They, therefore, give the impression of being liberals and bleeding hearts, followers of Franklin D. Roosevelt and haters of Herbert Hoover. They also hate Harry Truman and George Marshall. They despise Tom Dewey. They appear to be neither personally offensive nor politically subversive.

Behind such a front, the Communists can work well. They know that they cannot elect Henry Wallace and Glen Taylor. They presume that they will succeed in bringing about the defeat of Harry Truman. Yet, they expect to win a great victory in the next election and that is the reason for all their excitement.

Their victory is to be in the House of Representatives. Vito Marcantonio, Lee Pressman, and Leo Isacson are but three of the men they expect to send to the House of Representatives. As more names are listed in various parts of the country, it will be found that they might, because the public does not watch closely, send 10 or 15 active, quarrelsome representatives to Congress who will fight as a team, who will be extraordinarily difficult in committees and who will leak distorted data to favorite reporters and commentators.

This group will form the nucleus of a Socialist power in this country. It needs to be watched and understood.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Men Who Pull The Strings

PHILADELPHIA

THE WALLACE party convention has not, of course, been a convention at all. It has been, rather, a dreary and sometimes nauseating spectacle, carefully and quite obviously stage-managed by the American Communist party in the interests of the foreign policy of the Soviet Union.

It is difficult to believe that even Henry Wallace, despite his enormous capacity for self-delusion, has not some dim notion of this fact. Before the convention, Wallace was clearly disturbed by the Communist coloration of his "crusade," and even indulged in a little very mild and very tentative "red-baiting." But he consoled himself, according to those who have followed his wanderings, by the conviction that time was on his side.

He firmly believed that as the international crisis deepened, and particularly after Harry Truman was nominated by the Democrats, the non-Communist liberals and labor leaders would suddenly see the light. Then the men who were once his friends and supporters would rally to his side.

Nothing of the sort has, of course, happened. The CIO and the AFL have even refused to dignify the Wallace party by testifying before its platform committee. CIO President Philip Murray and other non-Communist CIO leaders are preparing quietly to support Truman, however unenthusiastically.

Wallace's only labor support derives from such men as the Electrical Workers' Julius Emspak, whose party identification has reportedly been "Comrade Juniper"; Harry Bridges of the Longshoremen, whose political leanings are well known, and such acknowledged Communists as Ben Gold of the Fur Workers and Donald Henderson of the Tobacco Workers. Wallace has attracted no labor support whatsoever except from those unions where Stalinists have captured power. And he must know it.

Wallace must know too that not a single New Dealer or liberal of any stature from among his old associates of the Roosevelt days has come out in his support, with the possible exception of R. G. Tugwell. Tugwell himself is now reported to be suffering from certain qualms. Like any liberal who tries to work with Communists, he has been forced into a ludicrous position. He has said that he is personally in favor of the Marshall plan. But although he was the titular chairman of the platform committee, the platform roundly condemns the plan as imperialistic. Tugwell has unhappily announced that this apparent contradiction is "unimportant."

The plain fact is that neither Tugwell nor the decorative importations from Hollywood and New York nor the fringe groups of fuzzy-minded non-Communists who have joined Wallace, nor even Wallace himself, really has anything to do with the policy and strategy of the Wallace movement. Wallace, and the Wallace "crusade," are now entirely in the hands of a small group of astute insiders. Of these the most influential are C. B. Baldwin, Lee Pressman and John Abt.

Baldwin, Wallace's "campaign manager," is not and doubtless never has been a member of the Communist party, although he has joined numerous party fronts, conspicuously the party's legal instrument, the Civil Rights Congress. But Baldwin has not been known to step on any Communist toes. He is a "united fronter"—one who believes in co-operation with the Communists. Inevitably, either unhappily as in Tugwell's case, or contentedly as in Baldwin's, a united fronter soon finds himself doing all the co-operating.

Lee Pressman is in a different category. A heavy-set man with a strong, sardonic face, a powerful personality and an agile mind, Pressman was until recently counsel for the CIO. Until Philip Murray fired him on the Wallace issue, he was the chief friend at court of CIO's minority Communist wing. The real author of the Wallace platform, Pressman is already probably the most powerful single influence in the Wallace movement. He has frequently been reported a member of the Communist party and he has not publicly denied it.

Abt, former counsel of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, is a kind of cut-rate Pressman, sharing his views, his affiliations and an office at Wallace headquarters. There are other insiders, like Hannah Dorner, publicist for a number of party-line causes, and Lew Frank, Wallace's ghostwriter, who was chief whip for the pro-Communist faction in the American Veterans Committee. But Baldwin, Pressman and Abt are the chief manipulators of the strings which cause Wallace to do his ungainly dance.

One cannot help but wonder what is going on in the mind of Henry Wallace, former Vice President of the United States, as this macabre spectacle draws to a close. It has not even been entertaining, simply because the well-oiled party machine allowed for no real surprises. The "demonstrations" have had that quality of loudly spurious enthusiasm which prevails in eastern Europe. Meanwhile, the public opinion polls show Wallace steadily losing ground, while his old friends and associates of the Roosevelt days denounce him. Despite all this, there is little doubt that Wallace, now wholly cut off from reality by the little group which surrounds him, will carry on his dreary "crusade" to its bitter, undignified end.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

A Philadelphia naturalist, after a long period of research, has determined that a snail moves one mile in ten years. One mile in ten years, eh? They should give that snail a saliva test.

That naturalist also discovered that snails keep themselves in marvelous physical condition. After covering the mile distance in the fast time of ten years, the snail wasn't even panting.

Mr. Snail made such slow time for the usual reason. He had his wife with him and every time they passed a rock covered with moss, she'd stop and polish her shell.

After observing the snail for some time, the professor realized why he wasn't traveling fast. He wasn't going anywhere. In fact, after a couple of years, he nicknamed him "Third Party."

But I've done some research along kindred lines and have the following to report: The world's fastest thing—Jack Benny on the way to the movies one minute before the prices change. The world's softest thing—Colonna's head.

The world's longest—any one of my pictures.

Telephone Firm Expands Garrett County Service

Accident Area Gets New Dial System

OAKLAND.—A major step in the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company's program to expand its service in Garrett County has now been completed. A new and larger dial system was placed in the Accident area on July 15, L. E. Glaser, manager, announced. The first call over the new system was made by Mayor F. E. Spoerlein.

The dial unit housed in a new building, was made necessary because of the extensive telephone growth in the Accident area.

Glaser said the larger unit will provide one and four-party service to residents of Accident. Heretofore these customers had been able to get rural service only. Subscribers calling from Accident to Oakland may now dial Oakland direct without going through Friendsville. Orders from 13 applicants waiting for service are now being completed following the cutover, Glaser said.

Work is also nearing completion on the company's rural extension project in the Friendsville area. Many smaller communities, without service for many years, now have telephones, including Asher Glade, Blooming Rose and Selbysport. Sixty-three families in these communities are being served and work is continuing to furnish others with service who are now on the waiting lists.

The rural extension program in the Friendsville-Accident areas involved the building of thirty-three miles of pole line at a cost of $44,700.

Donna Reckner, Bittinger Girl, Wins Title Of "Miss Farmerette Of 1948"

Contest Held At 4-H Rally Day

Miss Donna Reckner, Bittinger, won the title of "Miss Farmerette" of Garrett County in the annual contest sponsored by the Associated Women of the Maryland Farm Bureau, held as a feature of the second annual 4-H Rally Day at Bittinger recreation area, Garrett County, on Saturday.

About 200 persons attended the event, which also included exhibits by 4-H boys and girls from various sections of the county.

A Bittinger 4-H team composed of Jo Ellen Buckle and Margaret Brennaman won first place with their demonstration of posture.

They will attend 4-H Club Week at the University of Maryland August 2 to 7.

A Pleasant Valley team, Peggy Riley and Elizabeth Rice, won second place with a demonstration of cake baking.

Judges of the exhibits, which included showing of beef calves by 4-H boys and canning and other home economics projects by 4-H girls, were Miss Eloise Borrer, home economics teacher at Grantsville; Mrs. Mary Otto, 4-H leader at New Germany, where she teaches elementary grades; and Mrs. Guy Stanton, Grantsville.

Those serving as judges in the "Miss Farmerette" contest, in which six farm girls were considered on the basis of personality and home accomplishments, were Mrs. Kermit Glotfelty, Bittinger; Mrs. Robert Hoffman, Oakland, and Miss Borrer.

The afternoon was devoted to recreation, including baseball and swimming.

Arrangements for the rally were made by John Carter, Garrett County far magent; Arthur Curtis, assistant county agent, and Miss Jessie Guard, acting home demonstration agent.

Miss Workman Receives 4-H Scholarship

FROSTBURG — Miss Elizabeth Workman, Maple Street, has received a scholarship to the Youth Week of 4-H Clubs to be held at the University of Maryland, College Park, August 2 through 7. She was awarded the scholarship by Miss Dorothy Emmerson, state girls' leader of Maryland, at a dinner meeting in Oakland in May for outstanding 4-H Club leadership in Garrett County.

Besides being an active 4-H leader in Garrett County, Miss Workman is a past councilor of the Daughters of America, past noble grand of the Rebekah Lodge, IOOF, past Pocahontas of the local Degree of Pocahontas and a member of the Sons and Daughters of Liberty.

She is secretary of the Allegany-Garrett County Baptist Sunday School Association, director of the Baptist Training Union, past president of the Pioneer Club and vice president of the Frostburg Homemakers. Miss Workman organized the first negro 4-H Club in this section. A teacher at Grantsville High School last year, she was the 4-H leader of 70 girls in grades four, five and six.

Ellinghaus Named To Laurel Area

OAKLAND. — William M. Ellinghaus has been named manager of the Laurel area, it was announced by the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. He succeeds Sidney S. Stabler, Jr., who has been transferred to Salisbury as plant wire chief.

Ellinghaus was appointed manager of the Oakland area in April, 1946, which position he held until January 1, 1948. Since that time he has been staff assistant in the company's plant department with offices in Annapolis.

Dixiecrats Can't Get On West Virginia Ballot

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 25 (AP)—Gov. Meadows says the Dixiecrats can't get on West Virginia's election ballot, and he indicated that was all right with him.

The Governor said he told Dixiecrat Presidential Candidate J. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, that "we are interested in fighting the Republicans x x x rather than fighting among the Democrats."

In a telephone conversation with Thurmond, the Governor said, he explained that in order to gain a place on West Virginia's ballot, the southern Democrats would have had to file petitions by May 10.

Piedmont Railroad Agent Retires

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—J. L. Harmon, Keyser, an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for 46 years who was recently retired, is visiting relatives at Shenandoah Junction, W. Va.

Mr. Harmon, who has been agent here for 15 years, succeeded the late Charles F. Huth on his retirement here in 1933.

Frank C. Anderson, telegraph operator at the Piedmont tower, is slated to succeed Mr. Harmon. Until Anderson qualifies, Ray L. Wilt, Westernport, night agent, is in charge. J. Carr Getty, Main Street, Westernport, is temporarily assisting him.

Mr. Harmon began working for the company at Rowlesburg in 1902 and subsequently worked at Paw Paw, Deer Park Hotel and other places along the line. For some time he was relief agent. He came to Piedmont from Keyser, where he was employed five years.

Anderson, who also lives at Keyser, has been a telegrapher with the railroad company since 1903.

Francis McGrath Weds Miss Greco

PARSONS, W. Va.—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Greco, Douglas, announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Jane, to Francis Paul McGrath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo McGrath, Sr., Tamaqua, Pa.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized in St. Thomas Catholic Church, Thomas, Saturday morning, July 19, with Rev. Father Francis A. Spillar as celebrant of the nuptial high mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown made from a nylon parachute given the bride by her uncle, Anthony J. Balassone. It was styled on colonial lines with a draped bertha collar, featuring a high neckline of net. The long pointed sleeves ended at the hands. Her bridal veil of French illusion fell from a headress of material matching the gown and ended in a long court train. She carried a white prayer book with a marker of sweetpeas and sweetheart roses.

Miss Helen Louise Greco, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a gown of blue net over taffeta, with a full skirt and a matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of old fashioned flowers. Mrs. Mervin Clark, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid wore a gown of pink net over taffeta and carried a nosegay of old fashioned flowers. Her headdress was of net matching her gown.

Mervin Clark, Barton, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man, and John J. Balassone, uncle of the bride, was an usher.

Miss Anna Bogdonovich, church organist, played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Misses Elvira and Yolanda Colabrese, who sang "Ave Maria" and "Jesus Thou Art Coming."

Mrs. Greco, mother of the bride wore a navy blue street length dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Clark, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of black with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the wedding a breakfast was held at Worden's Hotel in Davis for the wedding party and immediate families with covers laid for 40. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leo McGrath, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Leo McGrath, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McGrath, all of Tamaqua, Pa.

The bride is a graduate of Thomas High School in the class of 1943. Mr. McGrath, a graduate of St. Jerome High School in Tamaqua, has lived in Thomas for the past two years, where he is employed by the Thomas Dry Cleaners.

The couple spent their honeymoon in South Bend, Ind., and are now residing in Thomas.

Miss Casteel Featured In Newspaper Story

OAKLAND.—A special article in the Washington Post of Sunday, July 18, featured Miss Elaine Casteel, former Oaklander, now an interior decorator for the G Street store of the J. G. Nee Company, who is planning the decoration of one of the "dream homes of 1948" sponsored by the newspaper and a number of builders and furniture stores in the capitol city.

Miss Casteel was a June graduate of the University of Maryland, where she planned many houses as a practical arts student, but this is the first time she has seen one of her "dream houses" actually materialize.

The six-room colonial house, now existing only in pencil sketches, will open its doors in Bethesda on September 12.

A photograph of Miss Casteel and C. J. Watts, store manager, appeared with the article. So far Miss Casteel has made preliminary sketches, using floor plans provided. She admitted "it's a bit frightening" but "a lot of fun." Miss Casteel is a daughter of Mrs. Beural Casteel, who is spending the summer near Oakland with her mother, Mrs. J. J. Ashby, Sr.

Baptist Youth Camp Planned In August

OAKLAND.—A camp for Baptist youth of the Western District, from 9 to 18, is planned again for this year, according to Rev. James MacLeod, Mt. Lake Park. The camp will be held August 23 to 28 at the Pleasant Valley recreational area near Bittinger.

About 90 persons attended last year and a similar number is expected again. Rev. J. E. Ledbetter, LaVale, will be camp director, and Mrs. M. DuBois, Greensboro, Caroline County, will be in charge of recreation. Rev. MacLeod is treasurer for the camp.

New Playground Project Finished By Thomas Lions

Officers Installed By Past President

PARSONS, W. Va.—John J. Pase, who has filled the unexpired term of Grant Smith as president of the Lions Club in Thomas for the past several months, was installed at their July meeting as the new president.

Other officers installed by James C. Cooper, Jr., a past president of the club, included Stelman Harper, first vice president; Delton H. Kight, second vice president; Thomas Massi, third vice president; James Holcombe, Lion tamer; John Ferruso, tail twister; Ernest Colabrese, secretary, and John DePollo, treasurer.

The new president will name his committees and chairmen at the August 5 meeting. The club, organized only two and one half years ago, has just completed a major project undertaken last fall, the excavation of four and one half acres of ground for a playground.

The land, leased to the Tucker County Board of Education by the Davis Coal and Coke Company, adjoins the Thomas School and gymnasium and was a hillside slope.

An engineer estimated the cost of the playground at $12,000, stating it would take 11 trucks and one steam shovel working two full weeks to remove the several thousand yards of dirt.

Through the co-operation of the Bailey Construction Company, the Sam Polina Construction Company and the Davis Coal and Coke firm, the project was completed in two weeks with six bulldozers contributed by the three companies.

The club furnished the money for the actual expense of fuel and other supplies and paid the operators a nominal sum for their work. The entire project has cost the club less than $3,000, work being done during an idle period of the miners.

Working in co-operation with the club is the Board of Education of Tucker County and the Parent-Teacher Association of the Thomas School, who plan to furnish the playground equipment.

The club committee appointed as a standing committee for the playground is headed by P. L. Milkint, with Stelman Harper, Cecil Parsons, Harry DiBacco and Delton H. Kight as members.

The ground, used for a three-ring circus and carnival held there last week, is large enough for a playground as well as a football field.

The State Department of Schools has promised to furnish a full-time or part-time supervisor when the equipment is ready for use.

The club has also donated funds to send a youth of Thomas to many noted eye doctors throughout the nation in hope of saving his eyesight. The club also sponsored the distribution of baskets of food during the last Christmas season.

Telephone Firm Expands Garrett County Service

Accident Area Gets New Dial System

OAKLAND.—A major step in the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company's program to expand its service in Garrett County has now been completed. A new and larger dial system was placed in the Accident area on July 15, L. E. Glaser, manager, announced. The first call over the new system was made by Mayor F. E. Spoerlein.

The dial unit housed in a new building, was made necessary because of the extensive telephone growth in the Accident area.

Glaser said the larger unit will provide one and four-party service to residents of Accident. Heretofore these customers had been able to get rural service only. Subscribers calling from Accident to Oakland may now dial Oakland direct without going through Friendsville. Orders from 13 applicants waiting for service are now being completed following the cutover, Glaser said.

Work is also nearing completion on the company's rural extension project in the Friendsville area. Many smaller communities, without service for many years, now have telephones, including Asher Glade, Blooming Rose and Selbysport. Sixty-three families in these communities are being served and work is continuing to furnish others with service who are now on the waiting lists.

The rural extension program in the Friendsville-Accident areas involved the building of thirty-three miles of pole line at a cost of $44,700.

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—J. L. Harmon, Keyser, an employe of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for 46 years who was recently retired, is visiting relatives at Shenandoah Junction, W. Va.

Mr. Harmon, who has been agent here for 15 years, succeeded the late Charles F. Huth on his retirement here in 1933.

Frank C. Anderson, telegraph operator at the Piedmont tower, is slated to succeed Mr. Harmon. Until Anderson qualifies, Ray L. Wilt, Westernport, night agent, is in charge. J. Carr Getty, Main Street, Westernport, is temporarily assisting him.

Mr. Harmon began working for the company at Rowlesburg in 1902 and subsequently worked at Paw Paw, Deer Park Hotel and other places along the line. For some time he was relief agent. He came to Piedmont from Keyser, where he was employed five years.

Anderson, who also lives at Keyser, has been a telegrapher with the railroad company since 1903.

Piedmont Groups Plan Joint Picnic

PIEDMONT, W. Va. — Piedmont Council No. 685, Knights of Columbus, and Court Sancta Maria No. 485, Catholic Daughters of America, will hold a joint picnic at Pleasant Valley, Sunday, August 1.

Francis McGrath Weds Miss Greco

PARSONS, W. Va.—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Greco, Douglas, announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Jane, to Francis Paul McGrath, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo McGrath, Sr., Tamaqua, Pa.

The double-ring ceremony was solemnized in St. Thomas Catholic Church, Thomas, Saturday morning, July 19, with Rev. Father Francis A. Spillar as celebrant of the nuptial high mass.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown made from a nylon parachute given the bride by her uncle, Anthony J. Balassone. It was styled on colonial lines with a draped bertha collar, featuring a high neckline of net. The long pointed sleeves ended at the hands. Her bridal veil of French illusion fell from a headress of material matching the gown and ended in a long court train. She carried a white prayer book with a marker of sweetpeas and sweetheart roses.

Miss Helen Louise Greco, sister of the bride, as maid of honor wore a gown of blue net over taffeta, with a full skirt and a matching headdress. She carried a nosegay of old fashioned flowers. Mrs. Mervin Clark, sister of the bridegroom, as bridesmaid wore a gown of pink net over taffeta and carried a nosegay of old fashioned flowers. Her headdress was of net matching her gown.

Mervin Clark, Barton, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, served as best man, and John J. Balassone, uncle of the bride, was an usher.

Miss Anna Bogdonovich, church organist, played the traditional wedding marches and also accompanied Misses Elvira and Yolanda Colabrese, who sang "Ave Maria" and "Jesus Thou Art Coming."

Mrs. Greco, mother of the bride wore a navy blue street length dress with matching accessories and a corsage of pink roses. Mrs. Clark, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dress of black with matching accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Following the wedding a breakfast was held at Worden's Hotel in Davis for the wedding party and immediate families with covers laid for 40. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leo McGrath, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Leo McGrath, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McGrath, all of Tamaqua, Pa.

The bride is a graduate of Thomas High School in the class of 1943. Mr. McGrath, a graduate of St. Jerome High School in Tamaqua, has lived in Thomas for the past two years, where he is employed by the Thomas Dry Cleaners.

The couple spent their honeymoon in South Bend, Ind., and are now residing in Thomas.

Miss Casteel Featured In Newspaper Story

OAKLAND.—A special article in the Washington Post of Sunday, July 18, featured Miss Elaine Casteel, former Oaklander, now an interior decorator for the G Street store of the J. G. Nee Company, who is planning the decoration of one of the "dream homes of 1948" sponsored by the newspaper and a number of builders and furniture stores in the capitol city.

Miss Casteel was a June graduate of the University of Maryland, where she planned many houses as a practical arts student, but this is the first time she has seen one of her "dream houses" actually materialize.

The six-room colonial house, now existing only in pencil sketches, will open its doors in Bethesda on September 12.

A photograph of Miss Casteel and C. J. Watts, store manager, appeared with the article. So far Miss Casteel has made preliminary sketches, using floor plans provided. She admitted "it's a bit frightening" but "a lot of fun." Miss Casteel is a daughter of Mrs. Beural Casteel, who is spending the summer near Oakland with her mother, Mrs. J. J. Ashby, Sr.

Baptist Youth Camp Planned In August

OAKLAND.—A camp for Baptist youth of the Western District, from 9 to 18, is planned again for this year, according to Rev. James MacLeod, Mt. Lake Park. The camp will be held August 23 to 28 at the Pleasant Valley recreational area near Bittinger.

About 90 persons attended last year and a similar number is expected again. Rev. J. E. Ledbetter, LaVale, will be camp director, and Mrs. M. DuBois, Greensboro, Caroline County, will be in charge of recreation. Rev. MacLeod is treasurer for the camp.

New Playground Project Finished By Thomas Lions

Officers Installed By Past President

PARSONS, W. Va.—John J. Pase, who has filled the unexpired term of Grant Smith as president of the Lions Club in Thomas for the past several months, was installed at their July meeting as the new president.

Other officers installed by James C. Cooper, Jr., a past president of the club, included Stelman Harper, first vice president; Delton H. Kight, second vice president; Thomas Massi, third vice president; James Holcombe, Lion tamer; John Ferruso, tail twister; Ernest Colabrese, secretary, and John DePollo, treasurer.

The new president will name his committees and chairmen at the August 5 meeting. The club, organized only two and one half years ago, has just completed a major project undertaken last fall, the excavation of four and one half acres of ground for a playground.

The land, leased to the Tucker County Board of Education by the Davis Coal and Coke Company, adjoins the Thomas School and gymnasium and was a hillside slope.

An engineer estimated the cost of the playground at $12,000, stating it would take 11 trucks and one steam shovel working two full weeks to remove the several thousand yards of dirt.

Through the co-operation of the Bailey Construction Company, the Sam Polina Construction Company and the Davis Coal and Coke firm, the project was completed in two weeks with six bulldozers contributed by the three companies.

The club furnished the money for the actual expense of fuel and other supplies and paid the operators a nominal sum for their work. The entire project has cost the club less than $3,000, work being done during an idle period of the miners.

Working in co-operation with the club is the Board of Education of Tucker County and the Parent-Teacher Association of the Thomas School, who plan to furnish the playground equipment.

The club committee appointed as a standing committee for the playground is headed by P. L. Milkint, with Stelman Harper, Cecil Parsons, Harry DiBacco and Delton H. Kight as members.

The ground, used for a three-ring circus and carnival held there last week, is large enough for a playground as well as a football field.

The State Department of Schools has promised to furnish a full-time or part-time supervisor when the equipment is ready for use.

The club has also donated funds to send a youth of Thomas to many noted eye doctors throughout the nation in hope of saving his eyesight. The club also sponsored the distribution of baskets of food during the last Christmas season.

Woman's Civic Club Plans Library Tea

OAKLAND—The Woman's Civic Club of Mt. Lake Park will have its annual library tea at Mt. Lake Park Community House next Thursday afternoon, July 29, from 2:45 to 5.

Mrs. Edward P. Kahl, president, said a program will begin at 3. Sherry McCutcheon will present several dance numbers. A book review will be given by Rev. Austin F. Schildwachter, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, Oakland, on "Peace of Mind," which has for three months led the non-fiction list of best sellers.

Refreshments will be served and there will be a silver offering for the library's benefit.

Two Members Named To Welfare Board

OAKLAND—At a meeting of the County Commissioners last week, two persons were named members of the county welfare board for six-year terms, until May 31, 1954. They are Mrs. Robert T. Hoffman, Oakland, and Leslie B. Sharpless, Kitzmiller.

J. Edward Helbig, president of the commissioners, will be the commissioner member until May 31, 1949.

Other members include Dorsey T. Ashby, Mrs. H. L. Bennett, Emeric Dusic and Daniel Hershberger.

Reception Held For Pastor, Wife

FROSTBURG — Following the quarterly business meeting Friday evening of Welsh Baptist Memorial Church, Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Reese were the guests of honor at a reception held in the social hall of the church. Rev. Reese recently resigned the pastorate.

Miss Elizabeth Workman was mistress of ceremonies and impromptu talks were given by Mrs. Mary Emma Davis, president of the Ladies Aid Society; Miss Marion Hughes, president of the Pioneer Class; Mrs. Sarah Lemmert and Rev. G. E. Lamphere, a retired Baptist minister.

The speakers lauded Rev. and Mrs. Reese for their devoted service to the church during the 30 years they have been in this community. They were presented with a floor lamp on behalf of the congregation. Mrs. Mary McLuckie made the presentation address.

Following the serving of refreshments, benediction was pronounced by James Beach, a member of the official board of the church. Rev. and Mrs. Reese will move from the parsonage to their own residence on Beall Street after August 1.

Recreation Funds Will Be Sought

PIEDMONT, W. Va.—About $600 is needed to carry out the recreational program for the season, Mrs. Raymond L. Moore, chairman of the Tri-Towns recreational Committee, has announced.

Mrs. Moore plans a house to house canvass on behalf of the project.

Only $82.16 is left in the treasury, J. Harold Baker announced in a report released this week.

A total of $201.39 was carried over from last year and the following donations have been received this year:

West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, $500; Lafayette Lodge No. 3, Knights of Pythias, Piedmont, $10; Piedmont Parent-Teacher Association, $25; Social Welfare Club, Westernport, $20; Tri-Towns Ministerial Association, $10; Kelly-Mansfield Unit No. 52, American Legion Auxiliary, Piedmont, $5; Victory Post No. 155, American Legion, Westernport, $10.

Mens' Bible Class of Piedmont Trinity Methodist Church, $10; Westernport and Luke Lions Club, $10; Kelly-Mansfield Post No. 52, American Legion, Piedmont, $10; Catholic Daughters of America, $10. Total contributions were $610, for a total of $821.39.

Disbursements include stamps and stationery, $3; two sets of slides, one set each for Piedmont playground and Bruce playground at Westernport, $310; two sets of see-saws, one set for each playground, $176; chains and seats for swings, $7.96; unpaid bill for 1947, tags for tag day $7.25; salaries for Miss Fern Christofel, director $164, and Raymond L. Moore, junior, $60.

Total expenditures to date are $738.88; and the balance on hand as of July 21 was $82.16.

Sheehe Takes Charge Of Oakland Hotel

OAKLAND — Patrick Sheehe is now in charge of the William-James Hotel, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Sheehe, having moved to Cumberland where they recently purchased a home.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheehe came here about three years ago, purchasing the hotel and taking over the management from Mr. and Mrs. James A. Towler, who subsequently moved to Elkins, W. Va., and are now at the Tygart Valley Hotel.

The Sheehes also have interests in the Manhattan Hotel, now under the direction of Tom Sheehe, Jr., and operate two restaurants in Cumberland.

Midland Memorial Meeting Tonight

MIDLAND—A meeting regarding erection of a war memorial at Midland for servicemen who made the supreme sacrifice in World Wars I and II will be held tonight in the Firemen's Hall at 7:30 o'clock.

The memorial committee asks that all citizens of Midland interested in the memorial attend the meeting.

Wins Scholarship

FROSTBURG—Miss Ina Nie Watson, daughter of Mrs. Ina Watson, Beall's Lane, received word that she has been awarded a Maryland Institute of Art scholarship award after competing in examination at the Board of Education, Cumberland, in June.

She is a graduate of Beall High School and received an associate of arts degree from State Teachers College this June. She will major in advertising design and leave for school in October.

While a student at State Teachers College Miss Watson was active in the Little Theatre and was a member of the Maryland Singers.

MIDLAND PERSONALS

MIDLAND—Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Robertson, Gilmore, announce the birth of a daughter July 20 at Miners Hospital, Frostburg. Mrs. Robertson is the former Delores McKenzie.

Mrs. Thomas Clise was admitted to Miners Hospital last week.

Mrs. Thomas Kight, Gilmore, underwent a tonsillectomy at Reeves Clinic, Westernport.

Mrs. Harry Hughes, Baltimore, is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Williams and family.

Mr. and Mrs. John Devlin, Sr., Connie and Frederick Largent returned to the home of their grandmother, Mrs. Nellie Allen, after spending three weeks visiting their mother, Mrs. Clara Largent, Washington, who accompanied her children here for a brief visit.

Mineral County 4-H Encampment To Open Today

125 Will Attend One-Week Session

KEYSER, W. Va.—Approximately 125 boys and girls, all members of Mineral County 4-H Clubs, will be present this morning when the annual 4-H encampment gets underway at the Headsville Community Building.

The camp, which will continue through Saturday, July 31, will be directed by J. E. Prettyman, county agricultural agent; Mrs. Margaret S. Effland, county home demonstration agent; and Hugh Butcher and Miss Barbara Jarvis, both of the University of West Virginia.

"Be Safe Today and Live Tomorrow," will be the theme of the camp. Stressing safety throughout the program, the themes for each day are Tuesday, "Your Life is in Your Hands"; Wednesday, "Remove a Hazard, Save a Life"; Thursday, "Better To Be Safe Than Sorry," and Friday, "Safety Insures Long Life."

Today will be spent registering and organizing with classes scheduled to get into full swing tomorrow. The rising bell will sound at 7:45, breakfast at 8:15, and the first class at 9. The second and third classes will be held at 10 and 11, with assembly at 12 noon, and lunch at 1; 2 and 3 p. m. will be devoted to rest periods for the 4-H'rs while the leaders will have meetings.

Tribal meetings will be held at 3 with recreation, including games and swimming, from 3:30 to 6. Following supper at 6, there will be vespers at 7:30; "Night Doin's" at 8:30, and council at 10 with lights out at 11:30.

There will be four tribes and each camper will be a member of a tribe. The tribes and their leaders follow:

Seneca, Edith Amtower and Harold Effland; Mingo, George Siehl and Mrs. Sabra Price; Delaware, Betty Price Malone and Don Williams; and Cherokee, Fred Price and Barbara Jarvis.

Each tribe will have a chief, sagamore, song leader, and cheer leader. Daily inspection will be made of the camp and points will be given to the different tribes.

The tribal classes Tuesday through Friday and their leaders are:

Tuesday, "Conservation," Fred Price and Don Williams; Wednesday, "Safety," State Police; Thursday, "Music," Freda Price and Friday, "Vespers," Barbara Jarvis.

The 10 and 11 a. m. daily classes include "Good Earth" to be taught by Fred Price; "Biltmore Stickes," Don Williams; "Charting," Hugh Butcher; "Camp Paper," Harold Effland; "Felt Work," Mrs. O. E. Marks; "Archery" and Electric Repairs," George Siehl; "Knots and Braids," Edith Amtower and Barbara Jarvis; "Shell Jewelry," Betty Malone; "Wardrobe Accessories," Laura Dawson; "Face Value," Phyllis Coffman; "Swimming," Mable Umstot; and "Belts," Joe Marks.

Duties listed for the tribes include the washing of table service, wood cutting, looking after fires, carrying water, keeping the building and grounds clean, and kitchen duty.

Members of the various committees are:

Vespers, Mrs. Sabra Price and Edith Amtower; assemblies, Barbara Jarvis and Laura Dawson; recreation, Harold Effland and Barbara Jarvis; council, Hugh Butcher and Freda Lou Price; first aid, Don Williams and Edith Amtower; check tents, Laura Dawson and George Siehl, and Maxine S. Thrush, who will serve as camp secretary and will be in charge of mail, lost and found, and points.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 25—(INS)—Alexander Korda has abandoned the idea of making "The King's General" with James Mason and has sent the adaptation of Daphem DuMaurier's novel to Errol Flynn in Jamaica.

Valli

He has already received a favorable reaction from Errol but that boy can't quite make up his mind whether he wants to return to Hollywood to do his "outside" picture for MGM or to travel to England for this one.

If the Flynns do decide to go to London, they will send for their two children and make a good long stay of it.

Robert Young and his production partner, Gene Rodney, are planning to poke fun at movie westerns. Can you do that?

Even though it throws Gene Autry, Roy Rogers and others into a fainting spell, Bob will star in a satire on Hollywood westerns, "Galahad of Gower Gulch."

Bob plays a Sunset Boulevard cowhand who breaks into "hoss operas" without ever having stepped foot in a stirrup.

Lana Turner and Bob Topping will be home in five weeks.

This comes from Lana's hairdresser, Helen Young, who flew in from Paris last week to marry Pat Shea, insurance man, at the Beverly Vista Community Church, Sunday.

From Louella in London: "I went to the Buckingham Palace garden party. Mrs. Bob Considine and I met the American ambassador's wife and were in the diplomatic enclosure.

"Queen Mary held court and carried her famous umbrella of pale green. She had occasion to use it because it rained.

Queen Elizabeth was in delphinium chiffon, wearing a big picture hat. Princess Margaret Rose's suit was pale blue taffeta with the 'new look.' The beautiful Duchess of Kent was in pinkish beige with a pink flower atop her hat.

"I couldn't take my eyes off Queen Mary's diamond necklace, the most beautiful thing I have ever seen—and her complexion! Her skin is like a young girl's. The Winston Churchills were among the guests. Later on, we saw some of the Palace and came home in an official car."

•—•—•

Michael North is supposed to be engaged to Marilyn Maxwell, but Alexander Korda is being very attentive to Marilyn in London.

They met at the party for Jack Benny, celebrating the success of the Benny troupe at the Palladium. This comes straight from LOP, who was an eyewitness. Another bit of gossip is that Marilyn and Clark Gable had a bit of a flirtation on the boat going over. But you know those shipboard romances.

Dolly O'Brien's got him now.

Bing Crosby bought $2000 worth of tickets for the charity circus affair September 4 for St. John Hospital.

Bing will also appear as a clown. But when he sent the check, he enclosed a note saying it wouldn't be necessary for the circus to send him a garb for his appearance.

"I'll just wear one of my usual Crosby ensembles, which will be flashy enough," he said.

Hollywood in shorts: Purchasers of Carole Landis' home are Valli and her husband. Reason this escaped notice is that the transaction was made under the legal names of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar De Mejo.

If you can imagine such a thing—Clark Gable is getting competition for Dolly O'Brien's smiles in Paris. Ali Khan, son of Aga Kahn, richest man in Europe, is an ardent admirer of Dolly's.

Dinah Shore and George Montgomery, back from ten days on their ranch, were among those who dunked the best cornbread I've ever eaten in old-fashioned Irish stew.

Dennis Morgan wants the world to know that he's never said he doesn't want to make any more "two guys" pictures with Jack Carson, so he's not on suspension for turning them down.

Jose Ferrer, the brilliant Shakespearean actor in "Joan Of Arc" with Ingrid Bergmanfi, isn't coming back to movies right away. He wants more money than Hollywood has offered him so far to forsake the stage.

That's all today.

Sentence Deferred In Disturbance Case

Sentencing of two women charged with disturbance of the peace was deferred Saturday in Police Court and a similar charge against Ruby White, 11, daughter of one of the women was dismissed.

Mrs. Zella White and Beulah Parks, 427 Virginia Avenue, were arrested Thursday on a complaint by James C. Bloss, 312 Springdale Street, who testified they referred to him in a slanderous manner.

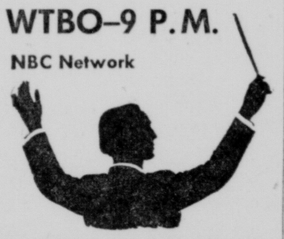

To Discuss Employment

Veterans employment in Western Maryland will be discussed at a meeting of the Mountain District, American Legion, to be held Sunday at the home of Farrady Post No. 24, Frostburg, according to James E. Kenney, district commander.

Report On Romance

Wearing your best fellow's fraternity pin is a real thrill, but did you know in pre-civil war days—when men rather than women wore fancy buttons—it was the fashion of romance for a beau brummel to give the lady-of-his-choice one of his valuable waist coat buttons? Enthusiastic lovers with more than a dozen waist coat buttons to bestow made a gay time of it in marching off to war in 1861. The reckoning came when they marched back.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, July 25—(INS)—Alexander Korda has abandoned the idea of making "The King's General" with James Mason and has sent the adaptation of Daphem DuMaurier's novel to Errol Flynn in Jamaica.

Valli

He has already received a favorable reaction from Errol but that boy can't quite make up his mind whether he wants to return to Hollywood to do his "outside" picture for MGM or to travel to England for this one.

If the Flynns do decide to go to London, they will send for their two children and make a good long stay of it.

Robert Young and his production partner, Gene Rodney, are planning to poke fun at movie westerns. Can you do that?

Even though it throws Gene Autry, Roy Rogers and others into a fainting spell, Bob will star in a satire on Hollywood westerns, "Galahad of Gower Gulch."

Bob plays a Sunset Boulevard cowhand who breaks into "hoss operas" without ever having stepped foot in a stirrup.

Lana Turner and Bob Topping will be home in five weeks.

This comes from Lana's hairdresser, Helen Young, who flew in from Paris last week to marry Pat Shea, insurance man, at the Beverly Vista Community Church, Sunday.

From Louella in London: "I went to the Buckingham Palace garden party. Mrs. Bob Considine and I met the American ambassador's wife and were in the diplomatic enclosure.

"Queen Mary held court and carried her famous umbrella of pale green. She had occasion to use it because it rained.

Queen Elizabeth was in delphinium chiffon, wearing a big picture hat. Princess Margaret Rose's suit was pale blue taffeta with the 'new look.' The beautiful Duchess of Kent was in pinkish beige with a pink flower atop her hat.

"I couldn't take my eyes off Queen Mary's diamond necklace, the most beautiful thing I have ever seen—and her complexion! Her skin is like a young girl's. The Winston Churchills were among the guests. Later on, we saw some of the Palace and came home in an official car."

•—•—•

Michael North is supposed to be engaged to Marilyn Maxwell, but Alexander Korda is being very attentive to Marilyn in London.

They met at the party for Jack Benny, celebrating the success of the Benny troupe at the Palladium. This comes straight from LOP, who was an eyewitness. Another bit of gossip is that Marilyn and Clark Gable had a bit of a flirtation on the boat going over. But you know those shipboard romances.

Dolly O'Brien's got him now.

Bing Crosby bought $2000 worth of tickets for the charity circus affair September 4 for St. John Hospital.

Bing will also appear as a clown. But when he sent the check, he enclosed a note saying it wouldn't be necessary for the circus to send him a garb for his appearance.

"I'll just wear one of my usual Crosby ensembles, which will be flashy enough," he said.

Hollywood in shorts: Purchasers of Carole Landis' home are Valli and her husband. Reason this escaped notice is that the transaction was made under the legal names of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar De Mejo.

If you can imagine such a thing—Clark Gable is getting competition for Dolly O'Brien's smiles in Paris. Ali Khan, son of Aga Kahn, richest man in Europe, is an ardent admirer of Dolly's.

Dinah Shore and George Montgomery, back from ten days on their ranch, were among those who dunked the best cornbread I've ever eaten in old-fashioned Irish stew.

Dennis Morgan wants the world to know that he's never said he doesn't want to make any more "two guys" pictures with Jack Carson, so he's not on suspension for turning them down.

Jose Ferrer, the brilliant Shakespearean actor in "Joan Of Arc" with Ingrid Bergmanfi, isn't coming back to movies right away. He wants more money than Hollywood has offered him so far to forsake the stage.

That's all today.

Sentence Deferred In Disturbance Case

Sentencing of two women charged with disturbance of the peace was deferred Saturday in Police Court and a similar charge against Ruby White, 11, daughter of one of the women was dismissed.

Mrs. Zella White and Beulah Parks, 427 Virginia Avenue, were arrested Thursday on a complaint by James C. Bloss, 312 Springdale Street, who testified they referred to him in a slanderous manner.

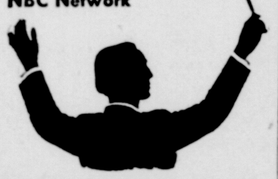

To Discuss Employment

Veterans employment in Western Maryland will be discussed at a meeting of the Mountain District, American Legion, to be held Sunday at the home of Farrady Post No. 24, Frostburg, according to James E. Kenney, district commander.

Report On Romance

Wearing your best fellow's fraternity pin is a real thrill, but did you know in pre-civil war days—when men rather than women wore fancy buttons—it was the fashion of romance for a beau brummel to give the lady-of-his-choice one of his valuable waist coat buttons? Enthusiastic lovers with more than a dozen waist coat buttons to bestow made a gay time of it in marching off to war in 1861. The reckoning came when they marched back.

Voorhees Show To Be directed Entirely To Opera

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 25.—Instead of the usual type of weekly concert, the Don Voorhees program on NBC Monday night is to direct its attention entirely to opera. Air time is 9.

In doing so it will use seven soloists, ranging from soprano to bass. The numbers to be played will be those classed as most popular by opera lovers.

Another of the NBC concerts, that of Howard Barlow at 8:30, is to have Eileen Farrell, who has done an important share of her singing for CBS, as the evening guest. The announcement put out by NBC did not identify her as a CBS singer, but rather used the phrase "American Soprano."

The H. V. Kaltenborn commentaries now are being supplied entirely by Richard Harkness. They are 7:45 Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Harkness also is continuing his own Tuesday-Thursday schedule. Kaltenborn has gone to Europe on another of his "fact-finding" trips.

The Fred Waring night show on NBC will be heard this week and for the next ones on Thursday nights . . . A pre-Olympics broadcast in the form of a talk is listed by ABC for 10:30 as "The Original Character of the Olympian Festival and its Effect on Art and Peace." . . . Jerry Wayne's 7:30 show on CBS is to have Nan Wynn with the songs.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

You Can't Steal First . . .

WPIX, "The Daily News" television station in New York, proudly proclaiming a "television first," broadcast a girls' baseball game the other day and through it all I had the eerie feeling I was reliving an experience of long ago. To preserve the proper spirit of femininity, the sports announcer was a girl too—Miss Jane Martin, a radio actress—who was assisted in emergencies by Ray Barrett, special events director of WPIX, a very patient man.

John Crosby

A foreshortened version of the comment, both feminine and masculine, follows:

JANE: Isn't she lovely? (The batter.) She's very dark and slender. You know they call her the Hedy Lamarr of this team. Oh gee! I was so busy telling you about Hedy Lamarr I didn't follow the play. (The cameras fortunately did follow the play. Girl was out trying to steal second) . . . There's a ground ball toward first. She's . . . I'm sorry I don't know what happened there. Somebody will have to explain it to me. (Mr. Barrett explained the girl had run into her own batted ball and was automatically out.)

Later

JANE: Now, this batter, I'm told, is . . .

BARRETT: Jane, the runner stole second.

JANE: Oh gee, did she? She steals better on me than on the pitcher . . . There's a long fly to center field. Did it get caught? I didn't see.

Later

BARRETT: (Patiently) Jane, the girl scored from third.

JANE: I didn't even see what was happening. Oh, it was a hit, wasn't it? I thought the girl caught it.

One other remark stands out naked and unexplained on my notes, surrounded by quotation marks. "You can't steal first." I believe Jane said that too. I don't think I'm capable of it. Anyway, it took me back, way back, to the day I first took a girl to a baseball game, a sweet thing whose enthusiasm for baseball was exceeded only by her ignorance. I haven't seen her since. Maybe it's the same girl.

There's a discussion program called "Child's World" in which children the ages of eight and thirteen, prodded delicately by Miss Helen Parkhurst, bare their inmost secrets on the subjects of lying, stealing, parents, teachers, spankings and life in general. I ran into a man the other day, hunched reflectively over a beer, who explained that his little darling had just been on the program and had held his parents spellbound.

The little boy had launched into a vivid episode concerning a great fowling piece which hangs on the living room wall and which through some obscure process of association had produced a profound psychological shock in the child. It was the sort of thing a psychiatrist would fall on with little analytic squeals of joy. The only trouble with it in so far as the parents are concerned is the fact that there isn't any fowling piece on the living room wall. Taxed with this on his return the boy admitted he'd made the whole thing up. "I just wanted to keep the conversation going," he explained.

I don't know what this proves exactly, but it may just be that the social instincts of children are more highly developed than adults think, that the more fanciful imagery of childhood is not traumatic at all—simply a sensible desire to keep the party from dying on its feet.

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

K V B B H T Y I K T R M H T Y K T S L F R E
V G S T F. K V B D W L F R Y K T L H K T M H Y E'

Memory Traces

I got a letter the other day from a chap who signed the name of one of the boys in my Michigan eighth grade days. He was a little fellow then—red hair, small in appearance, and modest to a degree, but likeable, very likeable. Well, he said he was to be in my city and wanted to call. I was delighted, of course. He came and we had a good talk. But he wasn't the little chap of years ago. He was a prosperous Western farmer now, and early excused himself, for he wanted to see the Yankees play!

After my old-time friend had left me I got to thinking of the other traces in my memory of those whom I had known, loved, or forgotten. How little is the trace that some folks leave in the path of one's memory! But there are those whom you cannot forget. You may have known little about them—and your contact brief—but again and again the memory of that personality seems to return — returning to question, or perhaps to offer an explanation, which, of course, is impossible for such a one to give.

There are in my own mind traces of those whom I have met but did not know. And the memory of these far outweighs scores of those whom I have known intimately. Why is this? I wish I knew, just for information. A genius gets attention, and much publicity, but no one is able to explain him. He can't explain himself—but he enjoys himself; at least many do. Which is probably one of the reasons why a genius is created!

A passing incident may have been noted by but one human being, but that one may have been influenced for life. It has often happened that way. A sentence spoken, a book, or an unstudied act. We never know where influence may cast its shadow. And that shadow later becoming an event.

Probably more books and stories have been written by those who once saw, talked with, or knew Abraham Lincoln than of any other man. Something left behind that grew its trace in the memory, and which lived—like a long glow in the night. But of all the traces left in the memory, the one of character last longest, and influences most.

Museum Reopens

MOSCOW—(AP)—"Pravda's" Stalingrad correspondent reports that the historical museum there—evacuated during the war—has reopened.

Centerpiece is the one story building which the defense staff of Tsaritzina (former name of the city) occupied in 1918. It was there that Stalin led the defense. Six halls of the museum depict two heroic occasions: the defense during the civil war and the defense against the Germans in 1942-43.

Voorhees Show To Be directed Entirely To Opera

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, July 25.—Instead of the usual type of weekly concert, the Don Voorhees program on NBC Monday night is to direct its attention entirely to opera. Air time is 9.

In doing so it will use seven soloists, ranging from soprano to bass. The numbers to be played will be those classed as most popular by opera lovers.

Another of the NBC concerts, that of Howard Barlow at 8:30, is to have Eileen Farrell, who has done an important share of her singing for CBS, as the evening guest. The announcement put out by NBC did not identify her as a CBS singer, but rather used the phrase "American Soprano."

The H. V. Kaltenborn commentaries now are being supplied entirely by Richard Harkness. They are 7:45 Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Harkness also is continuing his own Tuesday-Thursday schedule. Kaltenborn has gone to Europe on another of his "fact-finding" trips.

The Fred Waring night show on NBC will be heard this week and for the next ones on Thursday nights . . . A pre-Olympics broadcast in the form of a talk is listed by ABC for 10:30 as "The Original Character of the Olympian Festival and its Effect on Art and Peace." . . . Jerry Wayne's 7:30 show on CBS is to have Nan Wynn with the songs.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

You Can't Steal First . . .

WPIX, "The Daily News" television station in New York, proudly proclaiming a "television first," broadcast a girls' baseball game the other day and through it all I had the eerie feeling I was reliving an experience of long ago. To preserve the proper spirit of femininity, the sports announcer was a girl too—Miss Jane Martin, a radio actress—who was assisted in emergencies by Ray Barrett, special events director of WPIX, a very patient man.

John Crosby

A foreshortened version of the comment, both feminine and masculine, follows:

JANE: Isn't she lovely? (The batter.) She's very dark and slender. You know they call her the Hedy Lamarr of this team. Oh gee! I was so busy telling you about Hedy Lamarr I didn't follow the play. (The cameras fortunately did follow the play. Girl was out trying to steal second) . . . There's a ground ball toward first. She's . . . I'm sorry I don't know what happened there. Somebody will have to explain it to me. (Mr. Barrett explained the girl had run into her own batted ball and was automatically out.)

Later

JANE: Now, this batter, I'm told, is . . .

BARRETT: Jane, the runner stole second.

JANE: Oh gee, did she? She steals better on me than on the pitcher . . . There's a long fly to center field. Did it get caught? I didn't see.

Later

BARRETT: (Patiently) Jane, the girl scored from third.

JANE: I didn't even see what was happening. Oh, it was a hit, wasn't it? I thought the girl caught it.

One other remark stands out naked and unexplained on my notes, surrounded by quotation marks. "You can't steal first." I believe Jane said that too. I don't think I'm capable of it. Anyway, it took me back, way back, to the day I first took a girl to a baseball game, a sweet thing whose enthusiasm for baseball was exceeded only by her ignorance. I haven't seen her since. Maybe it's the same girl.

There's a discussion program called "Child's World" in which children the ages of eight and thirteen, prodded delicately by Miss Helen Parkhurst, bare their inmost secrets on the subjects of lying, stealing, parents, teachers, spankings and life in general. I ran into a man the other day, hunched reflectively over a beer, who explained that his little darling had just been on the program and had held his parents spellbound.

The little boy had launched into a vivid episode concerning a great fowling piece which hangs on the living room wall and which through some obscure process of association had produced a profound psychological shock in the child. It was the sort of thing a psychiatrist would fall on with little analytic squeals of joy. The only trouble with it in so far as the parents are concerned is the fact that there isn't any fowling piece on the living room wall. Taxed with this on his return the boy admitted he'd made the whole thing up. "I just wanted to keep the conversation going," he explained.

I don't know what this proves exactly, but it may just be that the social instincts of children are more highly developed than adults think, that the more fanciful imagery of childhood is not traumatic at all—simply a sensible desire to keep the party from dying on its feet.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Uniontown Day Opens Final Week Of Racing Tomorrow

19 Trophies Are Offered To Horsemen And Jockeys

Clifton White Handicap Is 5th Race Wednesday

Nineteen trophies will be offered to the owners of winning horses, the top trainer and the No. 1 jockey, during the 40 races at Fairgo this week, it was announced last night by Clifton W. White, president and general manager of the Cumberland Fair Grounds.

The final half of the ten-day meeting will get under way tomorrow and among the donors of trophies will be Woody Herman, famous orchestra leader, who will be here for an engagement at a local theater.

Trophies Are Listed

Special days and trophies to be awarded are as follows:

TUESDAY, JULY 27 — UNIONTOWN DAY. Col John Keating Memorial with Fort Cumberland Hotel trophy, 5th race; Uniontown trophy, 6th race; Woody Herman trophy, 7th race; Carolan's Restaurant Trophy, 8th race.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 28—CUMBERLAND DAY. Clifton W. White Handicap and Clifton W. White trophy, 5th race; Mrs. William H. Robertson Memorial and Mrs. William H. Robertson trophy, 7th race; Clary Club trophy, 8th race.

THURSDAY, JULY 29—EAGLES DAY. Marple's Jewelry Store Trophy, 5th race; Fraternal Order of Eagles Trophy, 6th race; Howard E. Chaney Memorial and Mrs. Howard E. Chaney trophy, 7th race.

FRIDAL, JULY 30 — FROSTBURG DAY. D. D. Price Memorial and Galen's Restaurant trophy, 5th race; Workman's Restaurant trophy, 6th race; Harvey Jewelry Company Trophy, 7th race.

SATURDAY, JULY 31—AMERICAN LEGION DAY. American Legion trophy, 5th race; Algonquin Hotel Handicap and Algonquin Hotel trophy, 6th race.

In addition to the trophies listed the Harvey Jewelry Company will present annual awards to the top trainer and jockey and the Viaduct Restaurant and Vogue Liquor Store trophy races will be added to the program.

Belstan Wins Manley

Belstan won the Harry A. Manley Memorial on Saturday and O. D. Shank, Jr., owner of the winner, received the Harry A. Manley trophy from F. Brooke Whiting, Cumberland attorney.

Other winners on Saturday's card were Chalup, first, $4.00; Rakish Jane, second, $5.40; Olecrannon, third, $5.80; Lake Bid, fourth, $30.80; Grandma C., fifth, The B.P.O. Elks' Purse, $4.20; Free Speech, seventh, The John B. Gunning Memorial and P. J. Arendes Purse, $4.60, and Chiff Chaff, eighth, $6.80.

FAIRGO NOTES

The death of Jockey Benny Leggett marks the first fatality at Fairgo in a total of 1,475 races over a span of 24 years. During the five-day meetings, 1925 through 1934, a total of 395 races were run. From 1935 up to and including Saturday's card 1,080 races have been run. The 10-day meetings were inaugurated in 1935.

•—•—•

Forty-eight riders saw action at the local half miler last week and 36 had thoroughbreds "in the money." Eddie Morgan, custodian of the jockeys' quarters, says there are approximately 60 riders in the Fairgo colony.

•—•—•

A total of 280 different thoroughbreds raced opening week. There were 34 two-time starters and there were two double winners—Rough Cloud and Rex-Avis.

•—•—•

When O. D. Shank's Belstan won The Harry A. Manley Memorial Handicap on Saturday his time was 55 3/5 seconds, which is just two-fifths of a second slower than the track record of 55 seconds for five furlongs set by Looter on August 11, 1945.

•—•—•

Wave Off, in the Manley Memorial would have paid $529 for $2 had she won. The E. L. Poston mare closed at $263.50 for $1 which was the longest price posted in 40 races last week. The highest $2 straight payoff record at Fairgo was $161.80 on Lady's Favor in 1937. Wave Off carried No. 8 and finished eighth.

•—•—•

Grandma C., owned by Mrs. G. Fishback, trained by Angela "Sis" Tammaro and ridden by her brother Johnny Tammaro, won her sixth straight race Saturday in the B.P.O. Elks Purse. The 6-year-old mare took four straight at Charles Town and closed her 1947 campaign with a win.

•—•—•

Marion T. Powers, of the Kelly - Springfield Tire Company, presented the Philip J. Arendes trophy to Mrs. R. C. Hall, owner of Free Speech, winner of the John B. Gunning Memorial. Mr. Powers is the father of Noyes (Tommy) Powers, local football and baseball star.

•—•—•

Saturday's mutuel handle of $300,556 was the highest of the meeting and boosted the five-day total to $1,194,878. The days wagering was $7,461 less than the $308,017 bet on the same day last year. And the five-day total this year was $18,407 under the $1,213,285 for the corresponding period in 1947. The top for a single race at this meeting is $40,232 wagered in the 6th on Saturday.

•—•—•

Forty-five per cent of the favorites won last week. Eighteen out of the 40 top choices registered. Last year 48 per cent (39 out of 80) favorites won in 10 days.

•—•—•

Last week's highest daily double payoff was $141.80 on Happy Hannah (2) and Blue Smoke (3) on Wednesday. The top payoff on a $2 straight ticket was $60.60 on Blue Smoke.

•—•—•

The closest a local horse came to winning was on Saturday when Stanley lost by a photo finish to Belstan in the Manley Memorial. Stanley is owned by Enoch B. Price of Frostburg.

•—•—•

Fred Colwill, who serves as one of the placing judges at Fairgo, is the racing secretary at Timonium, Md., which opens its 10-day meeting on September 1.

SETS THE PACE — Sammy Palumbo, veteran jockey from Brooklyn, N. Y., scored a triple, two seconds and a third for 22 points on Saturday to forge to the front in the race for the jockeys' trophy offered by the Cumberland Fair Association. Palumbo, who has been riding on the major and minor tracks for 21 years, now paces the field with a total of 47 points, eleven points more than Freddie Kratz his closest competitor.

LEADING JOCKEYS AND TRAINERS AT FAIRGO MEETING

Jockey Standings for the first five days of the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day race meeting are as follows:

Uniontown Day Opens Final Week Of Racing Tomorrow

Clifton White Handicap Is 5th Race Wednesday

Nineteen trophies will be offered to the owners of winning horses, the top trainer and the No. 1 jockey, during the 40 races at Fairgo this week, it was announced last night by Clifton W. White, president and general manager of the Cumberland Fair Grounds.

The final half of the ten-day meeting will get under way tomorrow and among the donors of trophies will be Woody Herman, famous orchestra leader, who will be here for an engagement at a local theater.

Trophies Are Listed

Special days and trophies to be awarded are as follows:

TUESDAY, JULY 27 — UNIONTOWN DAY. Col John Keating Memorial with Fort Cumberland Hotel trophy, 5th race; Uniontown trophy, 6th race; Woody Herman trophy, 7th race; Carolan's Restaurant Trophy, 8th race.

WEDNESDAY, JULY 28—CUMBERLAND DAY. Clifton W. White Handicap and Clifton W. White trophy, 5th race; Mrs. William H. Robertson Memorial and Mrs. William H. Robertson trophy, 7th race; Clary Club trophy, 8th race.

THURSDAY, JULY 29—EAGLES DAY. Marple's Jewelry Store Trophy, 5th race; Fraternal Order of Eagles Trophy, 6th race; Howard E. Chaney Memorial and Mrs. Howard E. Chaney trophy, 7th race.

FRIDAL, JULY 30 — FROSTBURG DAY. D. D. Price Memorial and Galen's Restaurant trophy, 5th race; Workman's Restaurant trophy, 6th race; Harvey Jewelry Company Trophy, 7th race.

SATURDAY, JULY 31—AMERICAN LEGION DAY. American Legion trophy, 5th race; Algonquin Hotel Handicap and Algonquin Hotel trophy, 6th race.

In addition to the trophies listed the Harvey Jewelry Company will present annual awards to the top trainer and jockey and the Viaduct Restaurant and Vogue Liquor Store trophy races will be added to the program.

Belstan Wins Manley

Belstan won the Harry A. Manley Memorial on Saturday and O. D. Shank, Jr., owner of the winner, received the Harry A. Manley trophy from F. Brooke Whiting, Cumberland attorney.

Other winners on Saturday's card were Chalup, first, $4.00; Rakish Jane, second, $5.40; Olecrannon, third, $5.80; Lake Bid, fourth, $30.80; Grandma C., fifth, The B.P. O. Elks' Purse, $4.20; Free Speech, seventh, The John B. Gunning Memorial and P. J. Arendes Purse, $4.60, and Chiff Chaff, eighth, $6.80.

FAIRGO NOTES

The death of Jockey Benny Leggett marks the first fatality at Fairgo in a total of 1,475 races over a span of 24 years. During the five-day meetings, 1925 through 1934, a total of 395 races were run. From 1935 up to and including Saturday's card 1,080 races have been run. The 10-day meetings were inaugurated in 1935.

•—•—•

Forty-eight riders saw action at the local half miler last week and 36 had thoroughbreds "in the money." Eddie Morgan, custodian of the jockeys' quarters, says there are approximately 60 riders in the Fairgo colony.

•—•—•

A total of 280 different thoroughbreds raced opening week. There were 34 two-time starters and there were two double winners—Rough Cloud and Rex-Avis.

•—•—•

When O. D. Shank's Belstan won The Harry A. Manley Memorial Handicap on Saturday his time was 55 3/5 seconds, which is just two-fifths of a second slower than the track record of 55 seconds for five furlongs set by Looter on August 11, 1945.

•—•—•

Wave Off, in the Manley Memorial would have paid $529 for $2 had she won. The E. L. Poston mare closed at $263.50 for $1 which was the longest price posted in 40 races last week. The highest $2 straight payoff record at Fairgo was $161.80 on Lady's Favor in 1937. Wave Off carried No. 8 and finished eighth.

•—•—•

Grandma C., owned by Mrs. G. Fishback, trained by Angela "Sis" Tammaro and ridden by her brother Johnny Tammaro, won her sixth straight race Saturday in the B.P.O. Elks Purse. The 6-year-old mare took four straight at Charles Town and closed her 1947 campaign with a win.

•—•—•

Marion T. Powers, of the Kelly - Springfield Tire Company, presented the Philip J. Arendes trophy to Mrs. R. C. Hall, owner of Free Speech, winner of the John B. Gunning Memorial. Mr. Powers is the father of Noyes (Tommy) Powers, local football and baseball star.

•—•—•

Saturday's mutuel handle of $300,556 was the highest of the meeting and boosted the five-day total to $1,194,878. The days wagering was $7,461 less than the $308,017 bet on the same day last year. And the five-day total this year was $18,407 under the $1,213,285 for the corresponding period in 1947. The top for a single race at this meeting is $40,232 wagered in the 6th on Saturday.

•—•—•

Forty-five per cent of the favorites won last week. Eighteen out of the 40 top choices registered. Last year 48 per cent (39 out of 80) favorites won in 10 days.

•—•—•

Last week's highest daily double payoff was $141.80 on Happy Hannah (2) and Blue Smoke (3) on Wednesday. The top payoff on a $2 straight ticket was $60.60 on Blue Smoke.

•—•—•

The closest a local horse came to winning was on Saturday when Stanley lost by a photo finish to Belstan in the Manley Memorial. Stanley is owned by Enoch B. Price of Frostburg.

•—•—•

Fred Colwill, who serves as one of the placing judges at Fairgo, is the racing secretary at Timonium, Md., which opens its 10-day meeting on September 1.

SETS THE PACE — Sammy Palumbo, veteran jockey from Brooklyn, N. Y., scored a triple, two seconds and a third for 22 points on Saturday to forge to the front in the race for the jockeys' trophy offered by the Cumberland Fair Association. Palumbo, who has been riding on the major and minor tracks for 21 years, now paces the field with a total of 47 points, eleven points more than Freddie Kratz his closest competitor.

LEADING JOCKEYS AND TRAINERS AT FAIRGO MEETING

Jockey Standings for the first five days of the Cumberland Fair Association's 10-day race meeting are as follows:

Jockey	1.	2.	3.	Pct.
S. Palumbo	4	7	6	47
P. Kratz	3	6	3	36

League To Meet

A special meeting of the County Softball League will be held Wednesday night at the Corriganville American Legion Home at 8 o'clock.

In the only league game scheduled today Narrows Park will play at Ellerslie.

YANKS GRAB PAIR

NEW YORK, July 25 (INS)—The New York Yankees got back into the thick of the American League pennant race today by beating the Chicago White Sox twice, 5 to 3 and 7 to 3.

The Yanks, although still in fourth place, are only a game and a half behind the Boston Red Sox, who took over first place today.

In today's opener Ed Lopat, who won 50 games during his four years with the White Sox, finally experienced the feeling of beating his former mates. It was his eighth straight win and his 10th of the year.

Joe DiMaggio laced two home runs in the nightcap and Billy Johnson one. Box:

Hogan Is Winner Of Reading Open

Noses Out Fred Haas, Takes $2,600 Prize

READING, Pa., July 25 (AP) — Little Ben Hogan, the magnificent pressure golfer from Hershey, Pa., won the $15,000 Reading Open today with an eight-under-par 31-33—64 and a 72 hole total of 269. He smashed the Berkshire Country Club course record by a stroke.

Fred Haas, Jr., 32-year-old New Orleans pro, who shared or held the lead through the first three rounds, finished second with a 270.

Clayton Heafner, hefty Charlotte, N. C., linksman, wound up third at 271.

Haas, who was unnerved by his temperamental outbursts at spectators and photographers, scored a two under par 70 in the final round while Heafner, trying to cop the $2,600 first money for his new daughter, shot a final 69.

Jimmy Demaret, colorful Ojai, Calif., pro and South African Bobby Locke deadlocked for fourth place at 272. Demaret, playing in hard luck throughout the final round, nevertheless turned in a fine 67, and Locke netted a four-under-par 68.

Oakland, Crellin Win League Tilts

The Oakland Amvets swamped Loch Lynn by the score of 18 to 0 and Crellin topped Elk Garden to the tune of 9-2 in Upper Potomac Baseball League contests yesterday at Oakland and Elk Garden.

In marking up its 16th win in 26 league starts, Oakland punched out 24 hits while Bob Glaze was limiting Loch Lynn to five safeties and fanning 11. "Boots" Wolfe paced the attack with a homer, double and single, Marucci rapped three singles and a double and Lyons and Kahl a double and two singles each. Stewart accounted for three of Loch Lynn's blows, one being a two-bagger.

Darrell Lewis retired Elk Garden batsmen in 1-2-3 order in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings as Crellin registered its victory. Lewis and Robert Henline smacked four hits apiece for the victors. The scores:

Cumberland's Amvets took over the leadership of the Bi-State Baseball League yesterday when they swamped the Hyndman Firemen at Community Park, 17-0, while the Westvaco Club walked off the field at Lonaconing in the 4th inning and lost by the forfeit route to the Republican Club tossers, 9-0, following a dispute over an umpire's decision at third base.

Manager Norman Gerdeman's aggregation larruped three Hyndman pitchers for 19 hits while Lease Zembower let the Pennsylvanians down with five hits and fanned six.

"Doc" Summers led the Amvets' offensive with four hits in five trips to the plate and Joe Geatz walloped a home run.

Westvaco Team Quits

The score was 5-1 in favor of Lonaconing in the last of the 4th when Westvaco "walked out" after protesting the decision of Umpire Stanley Davis who said Nicol, 'Coney player, had touched third base, after Umpire Layman had ruled the runner out for failing to touch third while scoring on Meyers' hit to center. Umpire Davis awarded the game to 'Coney after Westvaco quit.

Mt. Savage upset the Frostburg V.F.W. when Lefty Bob Crump got the best of Al "Lefty" Lauber in a pitching duel at Frostburg. The score was 6-5. George Shaffer headed the Mt. Savage attack with a homer, double and two singles while Nave and Jackson rapped two blows each. Manager Frank Urbas and "Toughy" Sullivan each hit safely twice for Frostburg.

Keyser pulled out of last place by defeating Midland at the latter place, 13-6. John Maiden outpitched Rougish and Skidmore to gain the decision. Midland hurlers issued 11 walks. Rotruck, Ward and Barnhouse banged two baggers for Keyser while Sallada, Murray and Winner led the Midland hitters. Barnhouse collected three hits to pace Keyser.

Brewers Sink Barton

Barton dropped into the league cellar by losing to the Queen City Brewers at Barton, 9-4. Woodson headed the winners' 11-hit attack with a homer, double and triple while "Buck" Cowher collected a triple and two singles. Cooper had two hits for Barton and Davisson contributed a two-run triple. The scores:

The Hyndman Veterans of Foreign Wars changed places with the Cumberland F. O. Eagles by defeating the locals yesterday at Hyndman by the score of 7 to 1 in an Interstate League contest.

By winning Hyndman jumped into 5th place and by losing the Eagles dropped into 6th position.

Glenn Evans retired the Eagles in order in the first four frames, yielded only three singles over the 9-inning route and fanned 10 batsmen. Dick Emerick and Tommy Harden paced the Hyndman 10-hit assault with three blows each. Five of the Vets' hits were two baggers.

The pace-setting Cumberland Legion team picked up a half-game at the expense of the idle Moorefield Legion by defeating the Cumberland Moose at Stitcher Field, 6 to 3. Gary Moler issued six passes and six Moose errors figured prominently in the Legion scoring. Norman Geatz was the winning pitcher and whiffed six batsmen. Freeland, Cumiskey, Gaffney and Cecil got two hits apiece for the victors. Gaffney and Cecil walloped triples and Cumiskey and Freeland got two-baggers. Joe Reissig, Moler and Ed Young shared six of the Moose team's eight hits. The losers completed three double plays.

Centerville's Reds trounced the Ridgeley American Legion at Centerville to the tune of 15 to 4. Veryl Nave sparked the Reds' attack with three singles while Comer homered and singled to lead Ridgeley. Joe Holobinko went the route for Ridgeley, yielding six hits and fanning four. The Reds collected 13 hits off Groves, Carder and Lindsay.

Barrelville spilled the Romney Rockets at Barrelville, 6-5. The winners gave Bernard Smith nice support and pulled two double plays. Dick Yates collected two hits and Ray Cleggett starred at third base. McElwee and McGee shared four hits for Romney and the latter featured in left field with several nice catches. The scores:

•Cumberland Golfers Score Win Over Hagerstown

CCC Team Cops 18 Foursomes In Match Here

Avenges Earlier Loss By 54 1-2 To 29 1-2

Annexing 18 out of 28 foursomes, ten by 3-0 scores, the Cumberland Country Club men golfers avenged an earlier season defeat at the hands of Hagerstown by defeating the Fountain Head Country Club team in a return match here yesterday by the score of 54½ to 29½ points.

Two of the foursomes ended in ties.

Fifty-six players represented each team.

Cumberland lost the opening match of the series in Hagerstown on June 13 by the score of 76 to 31.

Yesterday's results:

League To Meet

A special meeting of the County Softball League will be held Wednesday night at the Corriganville American Legion Home at 8 o'clock.

In the only league game scheduled today Narrows Park will play at Ellerslie.

YANKS GRAB PAIR

NEW YORK, July 25 (INS)—The New York Yankees got back into the thick of the American League pennant race today by beating the Chicago White Sox twice, 5 to 3 and 7 to 3.

The Yanks, although still in fourth place, are only a game and a half behind the Boston Red Sox, who took over first place today.

In today's opener Ed Lopat, who won 50 games during his four years with the White Sox, finally experienced the feeling of beating his former mates. It was his eighth straight win and his 10th of the year.

Joe DiMaggio laced two home runs in the nightcap and Billy Johnson one. Box:

Hogan Is Winner Of Reading Open

Noses Out Fred Haas, Takes $2,600 Prize

READING, Pa., July 25 (AP) — Little Ben Hogan, the magnificent pressure golfer from Hershey, Pa., won the $15,000 Reading Open today with an eight-under-par 31-33—64 and a 72 hole total of 269. He smashed the Berkshire Country Club course record by a stroke.

Fred Haas, Jr., 32-year-old New Orleans pro, who shared or held the lead through the first three rounds, finished second with a 270.

Clayton Heafner, hefty Charlotte, N. C., linksman, wound up third at 271.

Haas, who was unnerved by his temperamental outbursts at spectators and photographers, scored a two under par 70 in the final round while Heafner, trying to cop the $2,600 first money for his new daughter, shot a final 69.

Jimmy Demaret, colorful Ojai, Calif., pro and South African Bobby Locke deadlocked for fourth place at 272. Demaret, playing in hard luck throughout the final round, nevertheless turned in a fine 67, and Locke netted a four-under-par 68.

Oakland, Crellin Win League Tilts

The Oakland Amvets swamped Loch Lynn by the score of 18 to 0 and Crellin topped Elk Garden to the tune of 9-2 in Upper Potomac Baseball League contests yesterday at Oakland and Elk Garden.

In marking up its 16th win in 26 league starts, Oakland punched out 24 hits while Bob Glaze was limiting Loch Lynn to five safeties and fanning 11. "Boots" Wolfe paced the attack with a homer, double and single, Marucci rapped three singles and a double and Lyons and Kahl a double and two singles each. Stewart accounted for three of Loch Lynn's blows, one being a two-bagger.

Darrell Lewis retired Elk Garden batsmen in 1-2-3 order in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings as Crellin registered its victory. Lewis and Robert Henline smacked four hits apiece for the victors. The scores:

Cumberland's Amvets took over the leadership of the Bi-State Baseball League yesterday when they swamped the Hyndman Firemen at Community Park, 17-0, while the Westvaco Club walked off the field at Lonaconing in the 4th inning and lost by the forfeit route to the Republican Club tossers, 9-0, following a dispute over an umpire's decision at third base.

Manager Norman Gerdeman's aggregation larruped three Hyndman pitchers for 19 hits while Lease Zembower let the Pennsylvanians down with five hits and fanned six.

"Doc" Summers led the Amvets' offensive with four hits in five trips to the plate and Joe Geatz walloped a home run.

Westvaco Team Quits

The score was 5-1 in favor of Lonaconing in the last of the 4th when Westvaco "walked out" after protesting the decision of Umpire Stanley Davis who said Nicol, 'Coney player, had touched third base, after Umpire Layman had ruled the runner out for failing to touch third while scoring on Meyers' hit to center. Umpire Davis awarded the game to 'Coney after Westvaco quit.

Mt. Savage upset the Frostburg V.F.W. when Lefty Bob Crump got the best of Al "Lefty" Lauber in a pitching duel at Frostburg. The score was 6-5. George Shaffer headed the Mt. Savage attack with a homer, double and two singles while Nave and Jackson rapped two blows each. Manager Frank Urbas and "Toughy" Sullivan each hit safely twice for Frostburg.

Keyser pulled out of last place by defeating Midland at the latter place, 13-6. John Maiden outpitched Rougish and Skidmore to gain the decision. Midland hurlers issued 11 walks. Rotruck, Ward and Barnhouse banged two baggers for Keyser while Sallada, Murray and Winner led the Midland hitters. Barnhouse collected three hits to pace Keyser.

Brewers Sink Barton

Barton dropped into the league cellar by losing to the Queen City Brewers at Barton, 9-4. Woodson headed the winners' 11-hit attack with a homer, double and triple while "Buck" Cowher collected a triple and two singles. Cooper had two hits for Barton and Davisson contributed a two-run triple. The scores:

The Hyndman Veterans of Foreign Wars changed places with the Cumberland F. O. Eagles by defeating the locals yesterday at Hyndman by the score of 7 to 1 in an Interstate League contest.

By winning Hyndman jumped into 5th place and by losing the Eagles dropped into 6th position.

Glenn Evans retired the Eagles in order in the first four frames, yielded only three singles over the 9-inning route and fanned 10 batsmen. Dick Emerick and Tommy Harden paced the Hyndman 10-hit assault with three blows each. Five of the Vets' hits were two baggers.

The pace-setting Cumberland Legion team picked up a half-game at the expense of the idle Moorefield Legion by defeating the Cumberland Moose at Stitcher Field, 6 to 3. Gary Moler issued six passes and six Moose errors figured prominently in the Legion scoring. Norman Geatz was the winning pitcher and whiffed six batsmen. Freeland, Cumiskey, Gaffney and Cecil got two hits apiece for the victors. Gaffney and Cecil walloped triples and Cumiskey and Freeland got two-baggers. Joe Reissig, Moler and Ed Young shared six of the Moose team's eight hits. The losers completed three double plays.

Centerville's Reds trounced the Ridgeley American Legion at Centerville to the tune of 15 to 4. Veryl Nave sparked the Reds' attack with three singles while Comer homered and singled to lead Ridgeley. Joe Holobinko went the route for Ridgeley, yielding six hits and fanning four. The Reds collected 13 hits off Groves, Carder and Lindsay.

Barrelville spilled the Romney Rockets at Barrelville, 6-5. The winners gave Bernard Smith nice support and pulled two double plays. Dick Yates collected two hits and Ray Cleggett starred at third base. McElwee and McGee shared four hits for Romney and the latter featured in left field with several nice catches. The scores:

ROLL
ROOFING
We have something to tell you . . .

If you are doing a Roll Roofing job on which the Sheathing is bad, we would be pleased to advise how you can get a good job without re-sheathing. Of course we would be pleased to sell you new sheathing; however if you are obliged to economize, we will be glad to help you. You cannot buy a better Roll Roofing than Genuine Ruberoid.

It has stood the test of time!

Luke Plant Supplying Water For Beryl

BERYL, W. Va.—Water for Beryl residents is now being furnished from the filtration plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company at Luke.

The project was completed through the efforts of a group of local citizens to secure adequate water supply. Work of laying the first pipe line started July 9.

John Price, president of the water company, has expressed his appreciation and that of the other officers and stockholders of the company for the co-operation of individual citizens and the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company in providing the water.

Price requests all consumers to conserve water and avoid waste.

Clyde Bantz Named Luke Fire Chief

LUKE—Mayor Fred Wiseman of Luke, who resigned as chief and member of the Luke Fire Company, has been succeeded as chief by Clyde Bantz.

Two Persons Hurt In Falls Down Steps

William C. Roller, 37, 102 Paca Street, who fell down a flight of stairs Friday night, was admitted early yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries to his back and the left side of his head.

The other victim of a fall was Mrs. Pauline Staggers, 39, Park Heights, who was treated early last night for lacerations of the forehead.

Celanese Contract Talks Lagging

The prospects for any developments early this week in contract talks between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America, seemed dim here last night.

The company said James A. Holden, federal conciliator, had contacted the company but made no arrangements for a meeting.

At the close of the last meeting, over a week ago, it was agreed that both parties would attend any meeting called by the conciliator.

Miss Marie A. Pierce, field representative of the regional National Labor Relations Board, is due here today to complete arrangements for a union security election planned next week.

Clay Says U. S.

Washington.

Asked if there had been any discussion of measures that might be taken should the Russians try to interfere with the air lift operation to Berlin, Clay replied:

"The planes will continue to fly no matter what happens in the corridors."

He revealed that additional C-54s will start arriving in Germany from the United States shortly with the aim of increasing the lift capacity to over 4,000 tons daily.

Asked whether the United States and other Western Powers were considering other than diplomatic measures to break the Soviet hold on Berlin, Clay replied: "All diplomatic measures must be exhausted first."

He inferred that the United States, besides continuing negotiations in regular channels, might also present its case to the United Nations.

Clay said he, Bohlen and Ambassadors Smith and Douglas had spent "all afternoon trying to tell one another what we knew of the situation from our respective viewpoints."

When asked about the possibility of a new Big Four conference on all of Germany, Clay said:

"We ourselves have expressed nothing but willingness to participate in discussions on German problems, but not under duress."

Conclave Ends

started the scrap over whether the convention should say indirectly that the party is not backing Russian foreign policy. Two other Vermont delegates joined in offering the proposal.

Hayford said he wasn't trying to bring a "red herring" into the proceedings. But he said the platform as it stood opens the party to the charge of condemning American foreign policy "en toto" without saying a word of criticism about the policy of any other nation.

Someone from Pennsylvania said he favors "friendship with Russia but not blind friendship."

Members of the platform committee said they thought nothing was needed beyond the language already approved, which says Russia and the United States must share responsibility for keeping the peace.

And Carl Leon Eddy, Indianapolis, protested that the Hayford amendment was an attempt at "appeasement," at appeasing those who can't be appeased.

While Hayford's amendment took a beating, the convention put into the platform a denunciation of "anti-Soviet hysteria as a mask for monopoly, militarism and reaction."

Delegates went on record for erecting a structure of peace through "just enforcement upon individuals of world federal law, enacted by a world federal legislature."

Two Persons Hurt In Falls Down Steps

Two persons injured in falls down steps were treated at Memorial Hospital yesterday, and one of them was admitted.

William C. Roller, 37, 102 Paca Street, who fell down a flight of stairs Friday night, was admitted early yesterday afternoon for treatment of injuries to his back and the left side of his head.

The other victim of a fall was Mrs. Pauline Staggers, 39, Park Heights, who was treated early last night for lacerations of the forehead.

Other victims of minor mishaps who were treated at the same hospital yesterday afternoon were John Evans, 37, 127 Smallwood Street, who cut his right wrist on glass; and a 15-year-old girl, Joan Covey, 1304 Virginia Avenue, who suffered a laceration of the leg when she fell from a porch.

Celanese Contract Talks Lagging

The prospects for any developments early this week in contract talks between Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, and the Celanese Corporation of America, seemed dim here last night.

The company said James A. Holden, federal conciliator, had contacted the company but made no arrangements for a meeting.

At the close of the last meeting, over a week ago, it was agreed that both parties would attend any meeting called by the conciliator.

Miss Marie A. Pierce, field representative of the regional National Labor Relations Board, is due here today to complete arrangements for a union security election planned next week.

Clay Says U. S.

Washington.

Asked if there had been any discussion of measures that might be taken should the Russians try to interfere with the air lift operation to Berlin, Clay replied:

"The planes will continue to fly no matter what happens in the corridors."

He revealed that additional C-54s will start arriving in Germany from the United States shortly with the aim of increasing the lift capacity to over 4,000 tons daily.

Asked whether the United States and other Western Powers were considering other than diplomatic measures to break the Soviet hold on Berlin, Clay replied: "All diplomatic measures must be exhausted first."

He inferred that the United States, besides continuing negotiations in regular channels, might also present its case to the United Nations.

Clay said he, Bohlen and Ambassadors Smith and Douglas had spent "all afternoon trying to tell one another what we knew of the situation from our respective viewpoints."

When asked about the possibility of a new Big Four conference on all of Germany, Clay said:

"We ourselves have expressed nothing but willingness to participate in discussions on German problems, but not under duress.'

Conclave Ends

started the scrap over whether the convention should say indirectly that the party is not backing Russian foreign policy. Two other Vermont delegates joined in offering the proposal.

Hayford said he wasn't trying to bring a "red herring" into the proceedings. But he said the platform as it stood opens the party to the charge of condemning American foreign policy "en toto" without saying a word of criticism about the policy of any other nation.

Someone from Pennsylvania said he favors "friendship with Russia but not blind friendship."

Members of the platform committee said they thought nothing was needed beyond the language already approved, which says Russia and the United States must share responsibility for keeping the peace.

And Carl Leon Eddy, Indianapolis, protested that the Hayford amendment was an attempt at "appeasement," at appeasing those who can't be appeased.

While Hayford's amendment took a beating, the convention put into the platform a denunciation of "anti-Soviet hysteria as a mask for monopoly, militarism and reaction."

Delegates went on record for erecting a structure of peace through "just enforcement upon individuals of world federal law, enacted by a world federal legislature."

They were arrested yesterday morning at 2:03 o'clock on Greene Street.

Jockey Fatally Injured In Fall At Fairgo Track

Benny Leggett, 22, Gaithersburg, Dies

Benny Leggett, 26 Diamond Avenue, Gaithersburg, jockey, who in the beginning of his career declared he "would die happy if he could ride the ponies," died yesterday morning at 8:57 o'clock in Memorial Hospital here.

Jockey Leggett, who was 22, was injured Saturday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock when he was thrown off Alpine Boy in the fourth race at Fairgo in view of over 12,000 horrified racing fans.

His death marked the first fatality in more than 1,400 races run during the 24 years of operation of the local race track.

The accident occurred when the 12-year-old gelding owned by J. Gross, broke from the bunched ponies on the first turn and charged against the fence.

Leggett, it was reported, was thrown about 10 feet straight into the air following the impact and fell apparently lifeless in the infield. The two top boards of the railing were broken by the plunging horse.

The jockey recovered shortly after he was taken to the First Aid station and it was at first believed he was only badly shaken up.

Shortly afterwards, however, he became critically ill and was rushed to Memorial Hospital where he was admitted at 5:30 p. m.

Death Is Accidental

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who issued a verdict of accidental death, said Leggett died of a severe concussion and contusion of the brain.

The only other serious accident in Leggett's brief career, the family said, was suffered at Charles Town, W. Va., about three years ago. He suffered ankle and side injuries and was unable to race the rest of the fall season that year.

His sister, Miss Agnes Leggett, said horses had been Benny's main love since he had been a child.

They were all he cared about as a boy, she added. The family, she said, tried to get him to stop but finally realized he would never be really happy unless he was with the ponies.

She said the family had tried on numerous occasions to get him to leave the tracks and explained he had done so for a while but "was not happy" and wanted to be with the horses.

Benny, she said, declared at the beginning of his career he "would die happy" if he could only stay with the race horses he loved so well. "He had his one wish," she concluded.

Began Career Here

He was born Benjamin Leggett, September 25, 1925, in Williamston, N. C., a son of Bisco and Elsie Ayers Leggett, both of Gaithersburg.

The Leggett family left North Carolina while Benny was still an infant. They lived in Hopewell, Va., and Washington, D. C., before moving to Gaithersburg last year.

Surviving, besides his parents, are his wife, Mrs. Letitia Lindsay Leggett, 22; one daughter, Bonnie Marie Leggett, 1 year, and a sister, Miss Agnes Leggett, also of Gaithersburg.

He was a member of the Jockey's Guild, Inc. and the Presbyterian Church.

Leggett began to ride four years ago at the age of 18. He made the first ride of his career at Fairgo on his 18th birthday.

The body will be at George Funeral Home here until today at 1 p. m. when it will be taken to the Pumphrey Funeral Home, Wisconsin Avenue, Bethesda, Md.

DIES IN FALL—Jockey Benny Leggett, 22, Gaithersburg, died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital of a brain concussion suffered when he was thrown from Alpine Boy in the fourth race at Fairgo Saturday.

Alpine Boy Has Been Ruled Off W.Va.-Md. Tracks

Dr. Trussel Says Horse Was Blind

Dr. W. E. Trussel, veterinarian for the Charles Town, W. Va., track since 1933, said last night that Alpine Boy, 12-year-old bay gelding which crashed against the fence at Fairgo Saturday and fatally injured his rider, Jockey Benny Leggett, was barred from that track by the Charles Town Jockey Club in the summer of 1947.

The Charles Town racing officer said he had ruled the horse off the track because it was suffering from periodic opthalmia and was blind in both eyes.

He said he understood the horse had later raced in Delaware and added that he had again refused to let the horse run at Charles Town this year.

Dr. Trussel said experiments at the Army's Front Royal, Va., center to determine the cause of the disease disclosed the ailment was caused by a deficiency of riboflavin, one of the vitamins in the B-complex group.

When questioned as to the degree of blindness afflicting Alpine Boy, Dr. Trussel said the blindness was "total" when he refused to let the horse run at Charles Town in 1947. The horse won several races in 1947, he added. He was still blind this year, Dr. Trussel said.

After Saturday's accident, Fairgo stewards issued a notice that Alpine Boy had been barred from Maryland tracks until further notice.

YMCA Day Camp To Close Friday

The fourth and final week of Central YMCA's Day Camp program will open today with Parents' Night scheduled for Friday according to Clifton Van Roby, director.

Roby, assisted by Counsellors George Leyh and James Alderton, said the week's events will be highlighted by a hike and educational tour.

The third week closed with Ann Davis and Patricia Lewis winning honors as tent leaders.

Roby reported that the Davis tent won all four kickball games and took two of four games in the softball tournament. Outstanding kickball players included Ann Davis, Howard Davis, Don Paye, High Steele, Don Jewell, Douglas Brown, Patricia Lewis and Dave Steele. John, Don and Dave Steele excelled at softball.

John Steele scored the first and only "Bull's Eye" in the archery contest and led the field with ten points. He was followed closely by Jimmy Saylor with nine points and Dave Steele with five.

In the checker competition, Howard Davis defeated Ann Davis in the finals and also won the shuffleboard contest over Shirley Jewell, 15 to 12. Dave Steele emerged victorious in the ping pong tournament, beating Ann Davis in the finals, 21 to 10. The latter defeated Shirley Jewell, 21 to 11, in the girls' division.

East Side Groups To Meet Tonight

Plans for an East Side festival next month, to be sponsored jointly by the East Side Playground Association, the East Side Recreation Association and the East Side Parent-Teacher Association, will be discussed at meeting tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Community Building, Central Avenue.

Robert Taylor, president of the Playground Association, will preside. The three organizations are asked to send representatives to the meeting.

Two Area Men Serving In Japan

Two area men are now on occupation duty in Japan.

Pfc. James L. Cranford, son of Mrs. Maude Cranford, 519 Maryland Avenue, Cumberland, is serving with the First Cavalry Division on Central Honshu Island as a crew member on an anti-tank gun. Since entering the Army in January, 1943, Pfc. Cranford saw duty with the 335th Infantry Regiment in the European theater during World War II. He arrived in Japan last April.

Pfc. Philip Wilt, son of Mrs. Ruth Wilt, Crellin, is serving as a military policeman with the 519th Military Police Battalion in Yokohama. He has been overseas since last September.

The Weather

It's to be warmer again today but of all things—it's also supposed to rain again. That's the way the weatherman sized up the situation after taking his nightly look at the sky. "Increasing cloudiness and warmer today," he says, "followed by rain." It wouldn't even have to get very warm to back up his predictions, for the mercury only rose to 85 degrees for yesterday's high and at that it was a tough pull. It had to climb from a 51 degree low that was registered during the early morning hours. It was back down to 65 degrees at 11 p. m.

Poise Of Victim Frightens Masked Man From Truck

Shoot And Be Damned, Ault Tells Assailant

A masked would-be bandit, who became more frightened than his intended victim in an attempted holdup on Baltimore Avenue Saturday night at 9:35 o'clock, was being sought by police last night.

The unidentified man jumped on the running board of a pickup truck operated by Oscar Ault, about 50, near Everett, Pa., and demanded that he, "Stop or I'll shoot you." Detective Thomas See reported.

Ault, according to police, stepped on the gas and replied, "Shoot and be damned." The masked man, who wore a red handkerchief over the lower half of his face, jumped from the running board as Ault slowed to pull into a service station, investigating officers reported.

The intended victim told police that he was pulling out from the Fisher and Robinette Tavern, Marion Street, and said he had just entered Baltimore Avenue when the masked man leaped on the running board.

Authorities quoted Ault as saying he did not see any type of weapon in the man's possession. Ault told police that he was en route home after peddling produce and dairy products that he raises on his farm. He said he had worked in Cumberland on Saturday.

After the would-be bandit demanded that Ault stop the truck, police said the driver stepped on the gas and headed east on Baltimore Avenue.

Authorities said that as Ault slowed the machine with the intention of pulling into the Ideal Service Station the man leaped to the road and disappeared into the darkness.

Ault notified police of the attempted holdup from the service station and Detective See and Ernest Powell were sent to investigate.

Authorities said they were able to obtain only a general description of the man at the time, but declared last night all police were searching for the would-be bandit.

Pfc. C. R. Walsh Reburial Planned

The body of Pfc. Charles R. Walsh, 19-year-old son of John F. and Annie E. Wilkes Walsh, 87 Brant Road, Cresaptown, who was killed in action on the Anzio Beachhead January 30, 1944, will arrive here early Wednesday afternoon and will be taken to the home of his parents.

Pfc. Walsh was born January 4, 1925, in Cumberland and attended Cresaptown Junior High School. He was formerly employed in the service department at the Celanese plant.

He entered the Army March 17, 1943, and following infantry training at Fort Jackson, S. C., was shipped overseas in October, 1943, landing in Africa.

Pfc. Walsh was serving with the Third Infantry Division when he was killed. He went into action on the Anzio beachhead in the first wave with the First Battalion Rangers and was killed eight days later.

Surviving, besides his parents, are three brothers, William "Jerry" Walsh, James E. Walsh, and J. Hugh Walsh, all at home, and one sister, Mrs. Carl B. Cecil, Cresaptown.

Surplus Spuds May Help Feed Germany

The Army has done it again.

This time it is an economical way to utilize the mountains of spuds which have been purchased in recent years under the Agriculture Department's support program.

Surplus potatoes always have presented a troublesome problem because of their perishable nature, and the difficulty of shipping them overseas in their raw state.

Tests conducted by the Army Quartermaster Corps have resulted in development of a new food product in the form of an uncooked potato flour. Pre-cooked potato flour has been used in this country and abroad for several years, but development of the more economical uncooked flour suitable for breadmaking, which compares favorably with wheat-flour at a calories-per-dollar-cost, will permit extensive usage of potatoes for overseas relief feeding.

It is now possible, Secretary Royall said, to plan for the conversion of about 1,500,00 tons of surplus potatoes into 200,000 tons of potato flour for Army relief feeding in Germany and Japan, and thereby release about 250,000 tons of course grain which it would have been necessary to use for bread flour. This economical use of a surplus which hitherto has represented almost a total loss as a food, will permit diversion of such German coarse grain to livestock feed, urgently needed in Germany.

Television Permit Asked That Would Aid Cumberland

Westinghouse Seeks New Plane Channel

The Westinghouse Electric Corporation said yesterday it will ask the Communications Commission Tuesday for a television channel that would have a range of 250 miles—enough to include the entire Cumberland area, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The Westinghouse request will be for a channel to relay television broadcasts across the Alleghanies through a plane six miles high over Pittsburgh.

Test flights have been carried on since 1945 by Westinghouse and the Glenn L. Martin Company, aircraft builders. With an assigned channel, the company said it could put television broadcasts in the Pittsburgh area on a regularly scheduled basis.

E. T. Morris, manager of its stratovision division, said he hoped the plan would be placed in operation within six months after the FCC grants its approval.

He said Tuesday's step would be the first in a long-range program to relay television broadcasts on a coast-to-coast network by using eight stratovision planes flying about 400 miles apart.

Here is the way the rebroadcasting would work:

A speciall-equipped plane would fly lazy circles over Pittsburgh about six miles up—high enough to intercept the television waves from, for example, Baltimore. It would then retelecast the waves to the range of its horizon, an area with a radius of about 250 miles.

Unlike standard broadcast waves, which are comparatively low frequency, television waves do not bend. Therefore, they must be intercepted and redirected toward the earth by another receiver and transmitter. That is precisely what the stratovision plane does.

The effectiveness of stratovision in providing telecast relaying over a wide area was demonstrated recently when a stratovision plane flying at 25,000 feet over Pittsburgh picked up telecasts of the Republican national convention from a Baltimore station, 200 miles away, and rebroadcast it.

Reports from this public demonstration flight showed reception in nine states.

Although Westinghouse's application Tuesday is being made for only one stratovision station, Morris said, the industry is talking in terms of adding six planes to the eight planned for the coast-to-coast hookup to provide service available to 78 per cent of the nation's population.

Local Physician Aids In Research Problem

Assistance of a local physician was enlisted recently in research regarding the career of the late Sir William Osler, one of the pioneer physicians in the fresh air treatment of tuberculosis.

Dr. W. W. Francis, custodian of the McGill Osler Memorial Library at McGill University, Montreal, Canada, requested Dr. J. T. Johnson, this city, for information regarding a Miss Adelaide Proctor of Cumberland who was treated at home in 1899.

Miss Proctor, who resided on Greene Street, died about 12 years ago. She is believed to have been the "brave young woman" referred to in Osler's writings as one of the patients who underwent the then revolutionary treatment.

Osler, a Canadian by birth, served as professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins University and was later given the honorary appointment of regis professor of medicine at Oxford University.

Dr. Johnson said last night he has compiled as much information as possible about Miss Proctor and has forwarded it to Dr. Francis.

Flintstone GI Fined For Reckless Driving

Master Sgt. Joseph M. Ruby, Route 1, Flintstone, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving at a hearing before Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell Saturday in Ridgeley.

The charge was preferred by Cpl. R. R. Karrickhoff after the car Ruby was driving crashed over an embankment near Ridgeley Thursday night, authorities said.

Sgt. Ruby and his cousin, Verl M. Ruby, 225 Baltimore Avenue, were both injured when the car skidded across the road, struck a pole and tore out several guardrail posts and then slewed down a long embankment. Authorities said the car was a total loss.

Two Area Men Join Army Here

Two area men enlisted in the Army at the local Army and Air Force main recruiting station Friday, according to Lt. George J. Gocke, officer in charge.

They are Charles E. Bean, 35, RFD 2, Frostburg, a Navy veteran, who enlisted as a corporal in the Coast Artillery, and Glenn F. Whitmer, 19, Oakland, who enlisted as a private in the Corps of Engineers.

Final Rites Held For Three Of Four Bus-Truck Victims

Gilbert Corbin Held On Manslaughter Count

Final rites were conducted yesterday for three of four victims who were killed Friday in a truck-bus collision at Hanging Rock Curve, three miles north of Romney on Route 28, and preparations were being made for services for Arthur Joseph Wilson today.

Gilbert D. Corbin, 37, driver of the truck, whom authorities said suffered only minor injuries in the accident, has been released on $500 bond for a preliminary hearing on an involuntary manslaughter charge Friday before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell.

A funeral service was conducted at 11 a. m. yesterday for Mrs. Minnie Crites See, 37, Moorefield, who died at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she was brought by ambulance. Rev. J. E. McDonald, Methodist minister, conducted the service at Baker Chapel. Interment was in Crites Cemetery.

Mrs. See, a school teacher at Stele Run School, Hardy County, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Crites, her husband, Maxton C. Crites and three minor children, Jackie, 10; Clyde, 6; and Arbutus Snow, 3.

George W. Mallow, 78, who died en route to the hospital, was buried from Grace Lutheran Church, Petersburg, with Rev. Stephen Puffenbarger and C. H. Kuhlman officiating. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Stella Judy Mallow, one son, John W. Mallow, and a daughter, Mrs. Theleman Mallow Harper, Moorefield.

A funeral service was also conducted for William Corbin, 57, Romney, a passenger in the truck, at the Methodist Church near Romney. Rev. S. D. Sawyer, Springfield, W. Va., officiated and interment was in the church cemetery.

Corbin was an uncle of Gilbert Corbin, who was operating the truck when it collided head-on with the bus, according to authorities.

A service will be held today at 10:30 a. m. (EST) for Arthur Joseph Wilson, 34, driver of the bus who was killed instantly. Rev. J. W. Whitacre will officiate in the Petersburg Church of the Brethren.

Wilson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Glenna Turner Wilson and two children, Colleen Key, 7, and Dixie Wilson, 4. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Joseph Wilson, Sr., a brother, Robert Wilson, and a sister, Miss Frances Wilson, also survive.

Wilson was employed by the bus company as a driver for the past six years.

2 Teen-Age Boys Drown In Pond Near Petersburg

Efforts To Revive Farm Youths Fail

Two Grant County, W. Va., farm youths, warned earlier by their parents not to go in swimming, were drowned yesterday at 3 p. m. (EST) in a private fishing pond, 13 miles north of Petersburg, W. Va.

William Buckbee, 15, son of Mr. Homer Buckbee, jumped in to save Wayne Moreland, 14, son of Albert Moreland, after he slipped from an inner tube, according to authorities, who said Moreland then pulled Buckbee under the water. Moreland could not swim, authorities said.

Members of the Petersburg Volunteer Fire Department worked for more than two hours in an effort to revive the youths with artificial respiration but they were pronounced dead just as a respirator arrived from Westernport.

Both youths who live within two miles of the fishing pond, owned by Max Secrist, were warned earlier by their parents not to go swimming, according to Grant County Coroner C. H. Park.

An unidentified youth who was with the two victims sounded the alarm, according to Park, and Buck Muntzing, a nearby resident, arrived first and pulled Buckbee out after about 10 minutes of effort.

Moreland's body remained on the bottom of the pond in water about seven feet deep, Park explained, and was not recovered until Blair Stonestreet, Petersburg, made several dives. Authorities estimated Moreland's body was not recovered until 25 minutes after Muntzing was brought to the shore.

Park said David Trenton, Esmond Taylor, Junior Robey, Joseph Harmon and Robert Hill, all members of the Petersburg Fire Department, assisted in applying artificial respiration but the youths were too far gone.

They were pronounced dead by Dr. V. L. Dyer, Dr. John Dyer and Dr. Lyle Veach, who arrived at the scene shortly after the bodies were recovered from the water.

The Westernport Volunteer Fire Department sent its artificial respirator to Petersburg by fire truck along with several members after a general alarm was sounded in the community by the fire whistle.

Moreland is survived by his parents and eight brothers and sisters.

Buckbee is survived by his parents and a sister.

Dr. Simpson To Head Biology Department

Dr. Myron L. Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Simpson, 1112 Bedford Road, has resigned as assistant professor of biology at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa., to accept appointment as professor of biology and chairman of the department at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa. He will begin his new work in September.

Dr. Simpson became affiliated with Gettysburg College as instructor of biology in September 1944, and was promoted to assistant professor in December of the same year. He is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1928, and of the Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va., class of 1929. He received his bachelor of arts degree from American University, Washington, D. C., and his doctor of science degree from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. In addition, he has studied at the University of Maryland, University of Cincinnati, Ohio, and at the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond.

Dr. Simpson was a student assistant in biology at the American University, and for five years was instructor and head of the departments of science and German and director of dramatics at the Massanutten Military Academy.

Kelly And Union Sign 20 Months Contract

Officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Saturday signed a 20-month contract effective from August 1, 1948, until April 1, 1950.

The agreement, providing a 11 cent hourly wage boost retroactive to July 12, three weeks vacation for 15 or more years of service and other benefits, was ratified by the membership last Sunday.

Signing of the contract was delayed several days when the URCLPWA recommended a change in the agreement. A. E. Johnson, union president, said the signing was by "mutual agreement of all concerned."

All wages are frozen until August 1, 1949. After that date the parties may discuss a general change after 60 days notice. Thus a wage reopening would be possible August 2, 1949, providing a 60-day notice had been given.

Charter Meeting Tonight

Members of Cumberland's Charter Commission will confer tonight at 7:30 at City Hall with W. Guy Ash, city manager of Clarksburg, W. Va.

AAUW Group Prepares Directory Of County Health, Welfare Agencies

Several hundred copies of a new directory listing 10 health and welfare agencies of Allegany County will be distributed this week by Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women.

Preparation of the directory, the first of its kind to be made available in the county, was a project of the family relations committee of the AAUW, which was established this year.

"It is the hope that this directory will bring to the people of the county some knowledge of the agencies ready to help them with their particular needs," the committee stated.

Agencies whose personnel and services are outlined in the pocket-size booklet are the Allegany County Branch of the American Cancer Society; Allegany County League for Crippled Children; Allegany County Health Department, Allegany County Welfare Board, Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, Associated Charities, Associated Jewish Charities, Keating Memorial Day Nursery, The Salvation Army and the Travelers Aid Society.

AAUW officials said copies will be distributed to school principals, ministers, service, fraternal and veterans' organizations, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Association of Commerce, city and county officials, city police, the YMCA, and officials of Circuit Court, Juvenile Court and Trial Magistrates Court.

Remaining copies will be available without charge at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Record Sheep Exhibit Is Expected At Bedford Fair From August 9-14

BEDFORD, Pa.,—Separating the sheep from the goats will be more significant as a task than a figure of speech during the Bedford Fair, from August 9 to 14, and the duty of separating them probably will be a bigger chore for fair attendants than it is for anyone else when he uses that term to describe a sizeable sorting job.

In one sense, there won't be any separation, because a display of Angora goats comes under the sheep department to help simplify records. In another way, the sorting job will be bigger than ever for the forthcoming 75th anniversary celebration, because there will be a record number of sheep exhibited—six divisions, to be exact.

Gordon Hull, superintendent of the sheep department, disclosed today that these will include sections for registered Hampshires, Southdowns, Shropshires and Cheviots. In addition, there will be a fifth division for native and mixed breeds, and a sweepstakes sixth division. The remaining division will be the goats.

First, second and third prizes for purebred animals will be awarded in these classes:

Ram, two years old or over: ram, one year old; ram lamb; ewe, two years old or over; ewe, one year old; ewe lamb, and a flock. A flock shall consist of a ram, any age; an aged ewe, a yearling ewe and a ewe lamb.

The Division F sweepstakes will be for the best registered ram, of any age and breed.

Traffic Accidents Account For One County Death, 9 Injuries In June

One person was killed and nine injured in 19 accidents investigated in Allegany County from June 1 to 30, according to a report released yesterday by the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

The fatality was one of 31 resulting form 1,633 accidents investigated throughout the state in the month, with 748 of the accidents occurring in the 23 counties and 855 being reported in Baltimore City.

The county fatality occurred in Frostburg and accounted for three other persons being injured in the lone accident investigated in that community in June.

Garrett County reported 11 automobile accidents investigated in June with eight persons suffering injuries. The county report was free of automobile fatalities for the month.

A breakdown of the 31 fatalities shows that four occurred in Baltimore City, six in Prince George's County, five in Baltimore County, three in Howard County, two in Calvert County and one each in Allegany, Anne Arundel, Caroline, Carroll, Dorchester, Frederick, Harford, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, and Washington.

Injuries throughout the state totaled 815 with 372 being reported from the counties and 443 in Baltimore City.

There have been 9,165 accidents investigated in Maryland since January 1, this year. The report shows that 162 deaths have resulted from the accidents and 4,333 persons suffered injuries requiring some medical treatment.

Jockey Fatally Injured In Fall At Fairgo Track

Benny Leggett, 22, Gaithersburg, Dies

Benny Leggett, 26 Diamond Avenue, Gaithersburg, jockey, who in the beginning of his career declared he "would die happy if he could ride the ponies," died yesterday morning at 8:57 o'clock in Memorial Hospital here.

Jockey Leggett, who was 22, was injured Saturday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock when he was thrown off Alpine Boy in the fourth race at Fairgo in view of over 12,000 horrified racing fans.

His death marked the first fatality in more than 1,400 races run during the 24 years of operation of the local race track.

The accident occurred when the 12-year-old gelding owned by J. Gross, broke from the bunched ponies on the first turn and charged against the fence.

Leggett, it was reported, was thrown about 10 feet straight into the air following the impact and fell apparently lifeless in the infield. The two top boards of the railing were broken by the plunging horse.

The jockey recovered shortly after he was taken to the First Aid station and it was at first believed he was only badly shaken up.

Shortly afterwards, however, he became critically ill and was rushed to Memorial Hospital where he was admitted at 5:30 p. m.

Death Is Accidental

Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical examiner, who issued a verdict of accidental death, said Leggett died of a severe concussion and contusion of the brain.

The only other serious accident in Leggett's brief career, the family said, was suffered at Charles Town, W. Va., about three years ago. He suffered ankle and side injuries and was unable to race the rest of the fall season that year.

His sister, Miss Agnes Leggett, said horses had been Benny's main love since he had been a child.

They were all he cared about as a boy, she added. The family, she said, tried to get him to stop but finally realized he would never be really happy unless he was with the ponies.

She said the family had tried on numerous occasions to get him to leave the tracks and explained he had done so for a while but "was not happy" and wanted to be with the horses.

Benny, she said, declared at the beginning of his career he "would die happy" if he could only stay with the race horses he loved so well. "He had his one wish," she concluded.

Began Career Here

He was born Benjamin Leggett, September 25, 1925, in Williamston, N. C., a son of Bisco and Elsie Ayers Leggett, both of Gaithersburg.

The Leggett family left North Carolina while Benny was still an infant. They lived in Hopewell, Va., and Washington, D. C., before moving to Gaithersburg last year.

Surviving, besides his parents, are his wife, Mrs. Letitia Lindsay Leggett, 22; one daughter, Bonnie Marie Leggett, 1 year, and a sister, Miss Agnes Leggett, also of Gaithersburg.

He was a member of the Jockey's Guild, Inc. and the Presbyterian Church.

Leggett began to ride four years ago at the age of 18. He made the first ride of his career at Fairgo on his 18th birthday.

The body will be at George Funeral Home here until today at 1 p. m. when it will be taken to the Pumphrey Funeral Home, Wisconsin Avenue, Bethesda, Md.

DIES IN FALL—Jockey Benny Leggett, 22, Gaithersburg, died yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital of a brain concussion suffered when he was thrown from Alpine Boy in the fourth race at Fairgo Saturday.

Alpine Boy Has Been Ruled Off W.Va.-Md. Tracks

Dr. Trussel Says Horse Was Blind

Dr. W. E. Trussel, veterinarian for the Charles Town, W. Va., track since 1933, said last night that Alpine Boy, 12-year-old bay gelding which crashed against the fence at Fairgo Saturday and fatally injured his rider, Jockey Benny Leggett, was barred from that track by the Charles Town Jockey Club in the summer of 1947.

The Charles Town racing officer said he had ruled the horse off the track because it was suffering from periodic opthalmia and was blind in both eyes.

He said he understood the horse had later raced in Delaware and added that he had again refused to let the horse run at Charles Town this year.

Dr. Trussel said experiments at the Army's Front Royal, Va., center to determine the cause of the disease disclosed the ailment was caused by a deficiency of riboflavin, one of the vitamins in the B-complex group.

When questioned as to the degree of blindness afflicting Alpine Boy, Dr. Trussel said the blindness was "total" when he refused to let the horse run at Charles Town in 1947. The horse won several races in 1947, he added. He was still blind this year, Dr. Trussel said.

After Saturday's accident, Fairgo stewards issued a notice that Alpine Boy had been barred from Maryland tracks until further notice.

YMCA Day Camp To Close Friday

The fourth and final week of Central YMCA's Day Camp program will open today with Parents' Night scheduled for Friday according to Clifton Van Roby, director.

Roby, assisted by Counsellors George Leyh and James Alderton, said the week's events will be highlighted by a hike and educational tour.

The third week closed with Ann Davis and Patricia Lewis winning honors as tent leaders.

Roby reported that the Davis tent won all four kickball games and took two of four games in the softball tournament. Outstanding kickball players included Ann Davis, Howard Davis, Don Paye, High Steele, Don Jewell, Douglas Brown, Patricia Lewis and Dave Steele. John, Don and Dave Steele excelled at softball.

John Steele scored the first and only "Bull's Eye" in the archery contest and led the field with ten points. He was followed closely by Jimmy Saylor with nine points and Dave Steele with five.

In the checker competition, Howard Davis defeated Ann Davis in the finals and also won the shuffleboard contest over Shirley Jewell, 15 to 12. Dave Steele emerged victorious in the ping pong tournament, beating Ann Davis in the finals, 21 to 10. The latter defeated Shirley Jewell, 21 to 11, in the girls' division.

East Side Groups To Meet Tonight

Plans for an East Side festival next month, to be sponsored jointly by the East Side Playground Association, the East Side Recreation Association and the East Side Parent-Teacher Association, will be discussed at meeting tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Community Building, Central Avenue.

Robert Taylor, president of the Playground Association, will preside. The three organizations are asked to send representatives to the meeting.

Two Area Men Serving In Japan

Two area men are now on occupation duty in Japan.

Pfc. James L. Cranford, son of Mrs. Maude Cranford, 519 Maryland Avenue, Cumberland, is serving with the First Cavalry Division on Central Honshu Island as a crew member on an anti-tank gun. Since entering the Army in January, 1943, Pfc. Cranford saw duty with the 335th Infantry Regiment in the European theater during World War II. He arrived in Japan last April.

Pfc. Philip Wilt, son of Mrs. Ruth Wilt, Crellin, is serving as a military policeman with the 519th Military Police Battalion in Yokohama. He has been overseas since last September.

The Weather

It's to be warmer again today but of all things—it's also supposed to rain again. That's the way the weatherman sized up the situation after taking his nightly look at the sky. "Increasing cloudiness and warmer today," he says, "followed by rain." It wouldn't even have to get very warm to back up his predictions, for the mercury only rose to 85 degrees for yesterday's high and at that it was a tough pull. It had to climb from a 51 degree low that was registered during the early morning hours. It was back down to 65 degrees at 11 p. m.

Poise Of Victim Frightens Masked Man From Truck

Shoot And Be Damned, Ault Tells Assailant

A masked would-be bandit, who became more frightened than his intended victim in an attempted holdup on Baltimore Avenue Saturday night at 9:35 o'clock, was being sought by police last night.

The unidentified man jumped on the running board of a pickup truck operated by Oscar Ault, about 50, near Everett, Pa., and demanded that he, "Stop or I'll shoot you." Detective Thomas See reported.

Ault, according to police, stepped on the gas and replied, "Shoot and be damned." The masked man, who wore a red handkerchief over the lower half of his face, jumped from the running board as Ault slowed to pull into a service station, investigating officers reported.

The intended victim told police that he was pulling out from the Fisher and Robinette Tavern, Marion Street, and said he had just entered Baltimore Avenue when the masked man leaped on the running board.

Authorities quoted Ault as saying he did not see any type of weapon in the man's possession. Ault told police that he was en route home after peddling produce and dairy products that he raises on his farm. He said he had worked in Cumberland on Saturday.

After the would-be bandit demanded that Ault stop the truck, police said the driver stepped on the gas and headed east on Baltimore Avenue.

Authorities said that as Ault slowed the machine with the intention of pulling into the Ideal Service Station the man leaped to the road and disappeared into the darkness.

Ault notified police of the attempted holdup from the service station and Detective See and Ernest Powell were sent to investigate.

Authorities said they were able to obtain only a general description of the man at the time, but declared last night all police were searching for the would-be bandit.

Pfc. C. R. Walsh Reburial Planned

The body of Pfc. Charles R. Walsh, 19-year-old son of John F. and Annie E. Wilkes Walsh, 87 Brant Road, Cresaptown, who was killed in action on the Anzio Beachhead January 30, 1944, will arrive here early Wednesday afternoon and will be taken to the home of his parents.

Pfc. Walsh was born January 4, 1925, in Cumberland and attended Cresaptown Junior High School. He was formerly employed in the service department at the Celanese plant.

He entered the Army March 17, 1943, and following infantry training at Fort Jackson, S. C., was shipped overseas in October, 1943, landing in Africa.

Pfc. Walsh was serving with the Third Infantry Division when he was killed. He went into action on the Anzio beachhead in the first wave with the First Battalion Rangers and was killed eight days later.

Surviving, besides his parents, are three brothers, William "Jerry" Walsh, James E. Walsh, and J. Hugh Walsh, all at home, and one sister, Mrs. Carl B. Cecil, Cresaptown.

Surplus Spuds May Help Feed Germany

The Army has done it again.

This time it is an economical way to utilize the mountains of spuds which have been purchased in recent years under the Agriculture Department's support program.

Surplus potatoes always have presented a troublesome problem because of their perishable nature, and the difficulty of shipping them overseas in their raw state.

Tests conducted by the Army Quartermaster Corps have resulted in development of a new food product in the form of an uncooked potato flour. Pre-cooked potato flour has been used in this country and abroad for several years, but development of the more economical uncooked flour suitable for breadmaking, which compares favorably with wheat-flour at a calories-per-dollar-cost, will permit extensive usage of potatoes for overseas relief feeding.

It is now possible, Secretary Royall said, to plan for the conversion of about 1,500,00 tons of surplus potatoes into 200,000 tons of potato flour for Army relief feeding in Germany and Japan, and thereby release about 250,000 tons of course grain which it would have been necessary to use for bread flour. This economical use of a surplus which hitherto has represented almost a total loss as a food, will permit diversion of such German coarse grain to livestock feed, urgently needed in Germany.

Television Permit Asked That Would Aid Cumberland

Westinghouse Seeks New Plane Channel

The Westinghouse Electric Corporation said yesterday it will ask the Communications Commission Tuesday for a television channel that would have a range of 250 miles—enough to include the entire Cumberland area, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The Westinghouse request will be for a channel to relay television broadcasts across the Alleghanies through a plane six miles high over Pittsburgh.

Test flights have been carried on since 1945 by Westinghouse and the Glenn L. Martin Company, aircraft builders. With an assigned channel, the company said it could put television broadcasts in the Pittsburgh area on a regularly scheduled basis.

E. T. Morris, manager of its stratovision division, said he hoped the plan would be placed in operation within six months after the FCC grants its approval.

He said Tuesday's step would be the first in a long-range program to relay television broadcasts on a coast-to-coast network by using eight stratovision planes flying about 400 miles apart.

Here is the way the rebroadcasting would work:

A speciall-equipped plane would fly lazy circles over Pittsburgh about six miles up—high enough to intercept the television waves from, for example, Baltimore. It would then retelecast the waves to the range of its horizon, an area with a radius of about 250 miles.

Unlike standard broadcast waves, which are comparatively low frequency, television waves do not bend. Therefore, they must be intercepted and redirected toward the earth by another receiver and transmitter. That is precisely what the stratovision plane does.

The effectiveness of stratovision in providing telecast relaying over a wide area was demonstrated recently when a stratovision plane flying at 25,000 feet over Pittsburgh picked up telecasts of the Republican national convention from a Baltimore station, 200 miles away, and rebroadcast it.

Reports from this public demonstration flight showed reception in nine states.

Although Westinghouse's application Tuesday is being made for only one stratovision station, Morris said, the industry is talking in terms of adding six planes to the eight planned for the coast-to-coast hookup to provide service available to 78 per cent of the nation's population.

Local Physician Aids In Research Problem

Assistance of a local physician was enlisted recently in research regarding the career of the late Sir William Osler, one of the pioneer physicians in the fresh air treatment of tuberculosis.

Dr. W. W. Francis, custodian of the McGill Osler Memorial Library at McGill University, Montreal, Canada, requested Dr. J. T. Johnson, this city, for information regarding a Miss Adelaide Proctor of Cumberland who was treated at home in 1899.

Miss Proctor, who resided on Greene Street, died about 12 years ago. She is believed to have been the "brave young woman" referred to in Osler's writings as one of the patients who underwent the then revolutionary treatment.

Osler, a Canadian by birth, served as professor of medicine at Johns Hopkins University and was later given the honorary appointment of regis professor of medicine at Oxford University.

Dr. Johnson said last night he has compiled as much information as possible about Miss Proctor and has forwarded it to Dr. Francis.

Flintstone GI Fined For Reckless Driving

Master Sgt. Joseph M. Ruby, Route 1, Flintstone, was fined $25 and costs on a charge of reckless driving at a hearing before Justice of the Peace C. A. Jewell Saturday in Ridgeley.

The charge was preferred by Cpl. R. R. Karrickhoff after the car Ruby was driving crashed over an embankment near Ridgeley Thursday night, authorities said.

Sgt. Ruby and his cousin, Verl M. Ruby, 225 Baltimore Avenue, were both injured when the car skidded across the road, struck a pole and tore out several guardrail posts and then slewed down a long embankment. Authorities said the car was a total loss.

Two Area Men Join Army Here

Two area men enlisted in the Army at the local Army and Air Force main recruiting station Friday, according to Lt. George J. Gocke, officer in charge.

They are Charles E. Bean, 35, RFD 2, Frostburg, a Navy veteran, who enlisted as a corporal in the Coast Artillery, and Glenn F. Whitmer, 19, Oakland, who enlisted as a private in the Corps of Engineers.

Final Rites Held For Three Of Four Bus-Truck Victims

Gilbert Corbin Held On Manslaughter Count

Final rites were conducted yesterday for three of four victims who were killed Friday in a truck-bus collision at Hanging Rock Curve, three miles north of Romney on Route 28, and preparations were being made for services for Arthur Joseph Wilson today.

Gilbert D. Corbin, 37, driver of the truck, whom authorities said suffered only minor injuries in the accident, has been released on $500 bond for a preliminary hearing on an involuntary manslaughter charge Friday before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell.

A funeral service was conducted at 11 a. m. yesterday for Mrs. Minnie Crites See, 37, Moorefield, who died at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she was brought by ambulance. Rev. J. E. McDonald, Methodist minister, conducted the service at Baker Chapel. Interment was in Crites Cemetery.

Mrs. See, a school teacher at Stele Run School, Hardy County, is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Crites, her husband, Maxton C. Crites and three minor children, Jackie, 10; Clyde, 6; and Arbutus Snow, 3.

George W. Mallow, 78, who died en route to the hospital, was buried from Grace Lutheran Church, Petersburg, with Rev. Stephen Puffenbarger and C. H. Kuhlman officiating. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Stella Judy Mallow, one son, John W. Mallow, and a daughter, Mrs. Theleman Mallow Harper, Moorefield.

A funeral service was also conducted for William Corbin, 57, Romney, a passenger in the truck, at the Methodist Church near Romney. Rev. S. D. Sawyer, Springfield, W. Va., officiated and interment was in the church cemetery.

Corbin was an uncle of Gilbert Corbin, who was operating the truck when it collided head-on with the bus, according to authorities.

A service will be held today at 10:30 a. m. (EST) for Arthur Joseph Wilson, 34, driver of the bus who was killed instantly. Rev. J. W. Whitacre will officiate in the Petersburg Church of the Brethren.

Wilson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Glenna Turner Wilson and two children, Colleen Key, 7, and Dixie Wilson, 4. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Joseph Wilson, Sr., a brother, Robert Wilson, and a sister, Miss Frances Wilson, also survive.

Wilson was employed by the bus company as a driver for the past six years.

2 Teen-Age Boys Drown In Pond Near Petersburg

Efforts To Revive Farm Youths Fail

Two Grant County, W. Va., farm youths, warned earlier by their parents not to go in swimming, were drowned yesterday at 3 p. m. (EST) in a private fishing pond, 13 miles north of Petersburg, W. Va.

William Buckbee, 15, son of Mr. Homer Buckbee, jumped in to save Wayne Moreland, 14, son of Albert Moreland, after he slipped from an inner tube, according to authorities, who said Moreland then pulled Buckbee under the water. Moreland could not swim, authorities said.

Members of the Petersburg Volunteer Fire Department worked for more than two hours in an effort to revive the youths with artificial respiration but they were pronounced dead just as a respirator arrived from Westernport.

Both youths who live within two miles of the fishing pond, owned by Max Secrist, were warned earlier by their parents not to go swimming, according to Grant County Coroner C. H. Park.

An unidentified youth who was with the two victims sounded the alarm, according to Park, and Buck Muntzing, a nearby resident, arrived first and pulled Buckbee out after about 10 minutes of effort.

Moreland's body remained on the bottom of the pond in water about seven feet deep, Park explained, and was not recovered until Blair Stonestreet, Petersburg, made several dives. Authorities estimated Moreland's body was not recovered until 25 minutes after Muntzing was brought to the shore.

Park said David Trenton, Esmond Taylor, Junior Robey, Joseph Harmon and Robert Hill, all members of the Petersburg Fire Department, assisted in applying artificial respiration but the youths were too far gone.

They were pronounced dead by Dr. V. L. Dyer, Dr. John Dyer and Dr. Lyle Veach, who arrived at the scene shortly after the bodies were recovered from the water.

The Westernport Volunteer Fire Department sent its artificial respirator to Petersburg by fire truck along with several members after a general alarm was sounded in the community by the fire whistle.

Moreland is survived by his parents and eight brothers and sisters.

Buckbee is survived by his parents and a sister.

Dr. Simpson To Head Biology Department

Dr. Myron L. Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Simpson, 1112 Bedford Road, has resigned as assistant professor of biology at Gettysburg College, Gettysburg, Pa., to accept appointment as professor of biology and chairman of the department at Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa. He will begin his new work in September.

Dr. Simpson became affiliated with Gettysburg College as instructor of biology in September 1944, and was promoted to assistant professor in December of the same year. He is a graduate of Allegany High School, class of 1928, and of the Massanutten Military Academy, Woodstock, Va., class of 1929. He received his bachelor of arts degree from American University, Washington, D. C., and his doctor of science degree from Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. In addition, he has studied at the University of Maryland, University of Cincinnati, Ohio, and at the Medical College of Virginia, Richmond.

Dr. Simpson was a student assistant in biology at the American University, and for five years was instructor and head of the departments of science and German and director of dramatics at the Massanutten Military Academy.

Kelly And Union Sign 20 Months Contract

Officials of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, and the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company Saturday signed a 20-month contract effective from August 1, 1948, until April 1, 1950.

The agreement, providing a 11 cent hourly wage boost retroactive to July 12, three weeks vacation for 15 or more years of service and other benefits, was ratified by the membership last Sunday.

Signing of the contract was delayed several days when the URCLPWA recommended a change in the agreement. A. E. Johnson, union president, said the signing was by "mutual agreement of all concerned."

All wages are frozen until August 1, 1949. After that date the parties may discuss a general change after 60 days notice. Thus a wage reopening would be possible August 2, 1949, providing a 60-day notice had been given.

Charter Meeting Tonight

Members of Cumberland's Charter Commission will confer tonight at 7:30 at City Hall with W. Guy Ash, city manager of Clarksburg, W. Va.

AAUW Group Prepares Directory Of County Health, Welfare Agencies

Several hundred copies of a new directory listing 10 health and welfare agencies of Allegany County will be distributed this week by Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women.

Preparation of the directory, the first of its kind to be made available in the county, was a project of the family relations committee of the AAUW, which was established this year.

"It is the hope that this directory will bring to the people of the county some knowledge of the agencies ready to help them with their particular needs," the committee stated.

Agencies whose personnel and services are outlined in the pocket-size booklet are the Allegany County Branch of the American Cancer Society; Allegany County League for Crippled Children; Allegany County Health Department, Allegany County Welfare Board, Allegany County Chapter, American Red Cross, Associated Charities, Associated Jewish Charities, Keating Memorial Day Nursery, The Salvation Army and the Travelers Aid Society.

AAUW officials said copies will be distributed to school principals, ministers, service, fraternal and veterans' organizations, the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Association of Commerce, city and county officials, city police, the YMCA, and officials of Circuit Court, Juvenile Court and Trial Magistrates Court.

Remaining copies will be available without charge at the Cumberland Free Public Library.

Record Sheep Exhibit Is Expected At Bedford Fair From August 9-14

BEDFORD, Pa.,—Separating the sheep from the goats will be more significant as a task than a figure of speech during the Bedford Fair, from August 9 to 14, and the duty of separating them probably will be a bigger chore for fair attendants than it is for anyone else when he uses that term to describe a sizeable sorting job.

In one sense, there won't be any separation, because a display of Angora goats comes under the sheep department to help simplify records. In another way, the sorting job will be bigger than ever for the forthcoming 75th anniversary celebration, because there will be a record number of sheep exhibited—six divisions, to be exact.

Gordon Hull, superintendent of the sheep department, disclosed today that these will include sections for registered Hampshires, Southdowns, Shropshires and Cheviots. In addition, there will be a fifth division for native and mixed breeds, and a sweepstakes sixth division. The remaining division will be the goats.

First, second and third prizes for purebred animals will be awarded in these classes:

Ram, two years old or over: ram, one year old; ram lamb; ewe, two years old or over; ewe, one year old; ewe lamb, and a flock. A flock shall consist of a ram, any age; an aged ewe, a yearling ewe and a ewe lamb.

The Division F sweepstakes will be for the best registered ram, of any age and breed.

Traffic Accidents Account For One County Death, 9 Injuries In June

One person was killed and nine injured in 19 accidents investigated in Allegany County from June 1 to 30, according to a report released yesterday by the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission.

The fatality was one of 31 resulting form 1,633 accidents investigated throughout the state in the month, with 748 of the accidents occurring in the 23 counties and 855 being reported in Baltimore City.

The county fatality occurred in Frostburg and accounted for three other persons being injured in the lone accident investigated in that community in June.

Garrett County reported 11 automobile accidents investigated in June with eight persons suffering injuries. The county report was free of automobile fatalities for the month.

A breakdown of the 31 fatalities shows that four occurred in Baltimore City, six in Prince George's County, five in Baltimore County, three in Howard County, two in Calvert County and one each in Allegany, Anne Arundel, Caroline, Carroll, Dorchester, Frederick, Harford, Queen Anne's, St. Mary's, Somerset, and Washington.

Injuries throughout the state totaled 815 with 372 being reported from the counties and 443 in Baltimore City.

There have been 9,165 accidents investigated in Maryland since January 1, this year. The report shows that 162 deaths have resulted from the accidents and 4,333 persons suffered injuries requiring some medical treatment.
